Skyjacker Hunt Blunted

WOODLAND, Wash. (UPI)—Fog and rain today hampered the search for a daring hijacker who parachuted from an airliner with $200,000 ransom and disappeared in the Western wilderness.

Police, sheriff's officers and FBI agents fanned out along the foothills of the Cascade mountains, but a search by planes and helicopters was restricted by the weather.

The hijacker, who used the name "D.B. Cooper," took over the Northwest Airlines 727 jet over Oregon Wednesday, collected the ransom —largest ever paid in an American skyjacking —along with four parachutes at Seattle, ordered the plane to Reno, and disappeared somewhere along the way.

It was reported today that one of the two parachutes missing when the plane landed at Reno was sewn shut, but authorities said an experienced parachutist would have used the other one first, and there was even some question as to whether he could have even strapped on the non-functioning chute.

About 35 to 40 law officers took part in the ground search, which the FBI said was centered around Woodland since that was the last place of contact between the crew and the hijacker.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer quoted an unidentified FBI man as saying he doubted the hijacker's name was really Cooper.

"He's probably no more D.B. Cooper than I am," the agent said.

There were no federal sky marshals aboard the Northwest flight, considered a "milk run" among scheduled flights.

According to Linn Emrick, who supplied one of the four parachutes handed over to the hijacker, one of the two parachutes apparently used in the jump was inoperable.

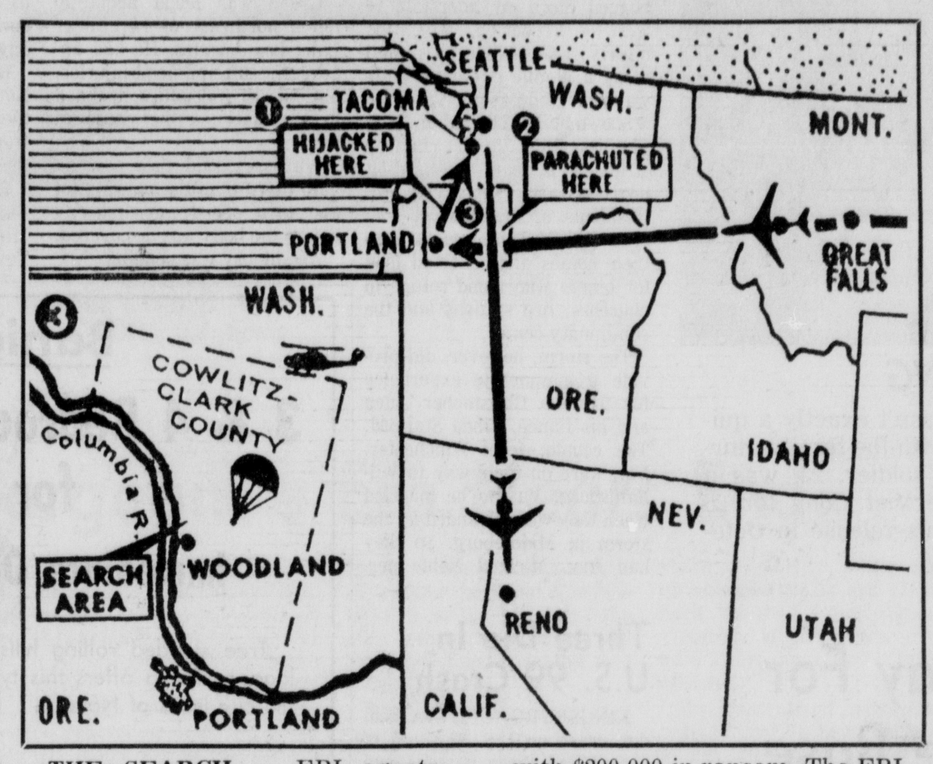
Emrick, of Sky Sports Inc, Issauah, Wash., said the 'chute was for ground practice only and the canopy was sewn shut.

"I didn't know it when I went over and picked it out," he said.

However, most experienced parachutists would use the back pack first and Emrick's was the chest device.

"We're either looking for a parachute or a hole in the ground," said Clark County under sheriff Tom McDowell.

The FBI said the suspect was about 6 feet tall, 175 pounds, with black hair and an olive complexion.



THE SEARCH — FBI agents and police fanned out in the Cascade foothills today, searching for a daring hijacker who parachuted into the wilderness with $200,000 in ransom. The FBI says the search is being concentrated in the Cowlitz-Clark County area of southern Washington. (UPI Telephoto map)

A Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 was hijacked late Wednesday with 42 persons aboard on a flight from Portland, Ore., to Seattle, Wash. The methodical hijacker allowed the 36 passengers to disembark after he received the ransom and four parachutes.

The hijacker, described as middle-aged and "very relaxed," disappeared as the plane flew on from Seattle-Tacoma International Airport to Reno, Nev.

The FBI said the search was being concentrated in the Cowlitz-Clark County area in southern Washington as a result of information provided by the crew and "strictly conjecture on our part."

An FBI spokesman said the 75-square mile area was selected because the crew reported a slight shift in the plane's balance while over this farmland region.

Searchers were aided by helicopters and light planes.

Two stewardesses were allowed to deplane with the passengers at Seattle-Tacoma. Two flight officers and a stewardess were locked up in a rear compartment while the pilot flew the aircraft to Nevada. He had told the pilot he wanted to fly to Mexico City.

The pilot, Capt. William Scott, said he last communicated with the hijacker near the Washington-Oregon border.

The FBI said the hijacker tentatively was identified as "D.B. Cooper." Agents said they have not been able to amplify on the name. They said he paid cash for a ticket at Portland.

The jetliner, flight 305, originally took off from Washington, D.C., and stopped at Minneapolis, Minn.; Great Falls and Missoula, Mont.; and Spokane, Wash., before touching down at Portland.

The hijacker gave a note to a stewardess and showed her "two red cylinders with wires," officials said. the alleged bomb was in a suitcase.

The man told the captain at Seattle that the crew and passengers would be killed if his demands for $200,000 and four parachutes were not met.

When Northwest acceded to his request, the plane took off on a southward course. Two air Force jet planes tailed the commandeered airliner to Reno. Officiers said the hijacker could have bailed out unnoticed because of the darkness and because the jetliner was flying so low.

It was a dramatic landing at Reno. Hundreds of persons were gathered at the airport terminal to witness the event. Scores of police and FBI agents surrounded the field.

Upon landing the crew disembarked, but there were no signs of the bomb, the money, two of the four parachutes or "D.B. Cooper."

Northwest Airlines declined to release the crew's report on the flight, but information available from other sources indicated the plane flew at low altitude and low speed, with the rear door open.

It was reported that of the two missing parachutes one was a training pack that would not open.

When the hijacker ordered two chutes at Seattle, authorities called for a pair from the Air Force at nearby McChord Air Force Base and also asked a sports parachute club to provide alternates. Linn Emrick, of Sky Sports Inc., Issauah, Wash., said he inadvertently sent a practice chute that would not open.

The other chute missing when the plane landed was one supplied by Renton Aviation. Its manufacturer said it would "work fine."

Sadat In Missile Warning

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat warned President Nixon that giving Israel new missiles would be a "very serious escalation" of the Middle East crisis, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

The newspaper said Sadat's message to Nixon was delivered Thursday to Donald C. Bergus, the American diplomatic representative in Cairo, by Hafez Ismail, Sadat's adviser on national security affairs.

It said the message was the result of "reports from Washington" that the United States was considering granting to Israel a number of Lance surface-to-surface missiles, which would be installed on the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula. They reportedly have a range of from 50 to 70 miles.

Sadat's message, Al Ahram reported, said "the supply to Israel of American ground-to-ground missiles would be a very serious escalation of the explosive situation in an area which is considred the most tense in the world at present."

Meanwhile, Israel left little doubt that it considers the resumption of war in the Middle East likely—perhaps imminent —but thinks the delivery of more U.S. Phantom jet fighters could help prevent it.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban presented the Israeli case to U.S. Ambassador H. Walworth Barbour today in a 45-minute meeting. Radio Israel said the two also discussed "certain hostile remarks" about Israel that were attributed this week to U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The afternoon newspaper Ma'ariv quoted Rogers as having told a group of eight U.S. senators that Israel is "falling apart because of internal strife."

Eban and Prime Minister Golda Meir outlined the Israeli view of the Middle East situation to a Labor party conference Thursday night.

Both leaders warned the Israeli people to be prepared for a resumption of fighting on the basis of war-like statements from Sadat and other Egyptian leaders.

"I cannot promise myself and others that there is not an imminent danger of war," Mrs. Meir said. "...Our duty is to accept it as if there is a danger of war...we have to learn to face the possibility of the resumption of war."

Eban said in his speech "we face now both political blackmail and military threat. Therefore we have to prepare ourselves to face both...saving the peace could well be dependent on some extra dozen planes."

Eban was referring to Israel's request for more Phantom jets, which the United States had declined to give them for the time being.

Rock Concert Mess Draws County Fire

Future Of Such Inside Vets Building Doubted

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Whether future rock concerts will be permitted at the new veterans auditorium appeared in doubt today as county officials reacted to damage caused during Wednesday's concert — the first such affair at the new building.

"I feel bad about the building," Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni said. "I'm sure the board will take a long, hard look at (allowing) future hard rock concerts" at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Arrigoni's announcement came as maintenance men at the $3.5 million auditorium prepared to steam-clean carpeting and seats damaged during a benefit rock concert Wednesday.

However, cleanup operations will be limited to especially hard hit areas until after a second rock concert — scheduled for tomorrow.

Following Wednesday's concert, damage was estimated at about $5,000 — mostly from cigarette burns and soft drink and wine spills on carpets and seats — but that may prove too high a figure.

The concert drew the largest crowd in the building's short history — 2,200 persons.

Arrigoni said County Administrator John F. Barrows had approached him and other supervisors about calling off a second rock concert planned for tomorrow.

"The consensus was that we (supervisors) have already committed ourselves to Saturday's concert," he said.

(Tomorrow's rock concert will feature two performances of Delaney, Bonnie and Friends. The shows are scheduled for 7 and 10:30 p.m.)

"The building got a year's wear and tear in one night," Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said today. He said sponsors of the concert have insurance to cover damage and added that a $2,000 security bond deposited before the show will be used pending settlement with the insurance company.

Barrows, meanwhile, said he didn't think the damage would have "a direct cost" of $5,000.

"I don't think it will be that high because we're in no position for a wholesale replacement of rugs," he said, adding that that was what the $5,000 estimate included. He said, however, some sections of rugs may have to be replaced.

Barrows said that while "direct costs" may not run as high as previously estimated, the "indirect costs" (the loss of life expectancy) of wear and tear on the furnishings would exceed that total.

He declined to comment on any recommendation he planned to make to the supervisors on Tuesday. He said he was awaiting a complete survey of damage.

At the auditorium, maintenance crews worked through yesterday afternoon cleaning damage and were expected to return today.

Vomit remained on several of the seats and stains marked

Jersey Swings Into Action On Rahway Prisoner Pleas

RAHWAY, N. J. (UPI)—Gov. William T. Cahill today called a meeting of the state's top law and correction officials to set guidelines for negotiating the demands of Rahway State Prison inmates who staged a 24-hour revolt and held five guards and the warden hostage.

The governor also scheduled a meeting with "community leaders" to discuss the disturbances Thursday during which 500 inmates controlled two wings of the maximum security prison.

A spokesman for Cahill said the meetings were "the first step in setting up machinery for negotiating the prisoners' demands," which were part of a no-reprisals agreement reached between the rebellious prisoners and the governor.

Warden U. Samuel Vukcevich, recovering from "stab wounds" which inmates said a guard had accidentally inflicted, and the five guards were released about 10 p.m. EST Thursday. The five guards also were hospitalized but all were reported in good condition with no serious injuries.

Vukcevich held a bedside news conference at which he said he felt some of the prisoners' demands were reasonable.

Following their release Cahill said his administration "intends to carry out our part of the commitment to guarantee there will be no brutality and that we will meet with and talk to the prisoners in relation to their complaints."

Archibald Alexander, head of the Citizens Committee advising the governor on penal affairs, went to the prison to sleep overnight. He was accompanied by Raymond Brown, a prominent criminal lawyer.

Alexander said "there will be no reprisals of any sort taken against the inmates." He and Brown were the two main negotiators for the state in the talks with the inmates. The prisoners complained about the medical care at the prison, food, high prices in the prison commissary, parole procedures, inadequate educational and vocational opportunities, disciplinary procedures, racial discrimination, lack of black cultural classes, lack of religious freedom, delay of incoming mail, low wages, "meager" expenses given to released prisoner and lack of rehabilitative opportunity.

"To be treated as human beings is all that we ask of this administration," said the in-

Junk Mail Rate Hike Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Postal Service today applied to the Price Commission for a 23.9 per cent increase in third class mail rates, the largest boost in prices sought since Phase II of President Nixon's economic stabilization program began two weeks ago.

The proposed increase would affect mainly advertising circulars and other "junk" mail. first-class and air mail would be unaffected.

The Postal Service originally scheduled the rates to go into effect Sept. 15, but they were caught in the 90-day wage-price freeze which began Aug. 15.

The Price Commission also rejected a price hike request for the first time —from the Bassett Furniture Company, Bassett, Va., for a 1.8 per cent boost. The Commission said Bassett's application was "denied because of insufficient justification." It gave no other details.

The commission received 36 new applications, including 13 from coal companies and four from steel companies.

The coal applications came from the Consolidation Coal Co. and from 12 coal companies owned by the Prittston Co. — the Clinchfield, Badger, Buffalo, Feds Creek, Jewell Ridge,

E. Pakistani Guerrillas Reported In Control Of Area Along Border

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

East Pakistani guerrillas have taken control of much of the countryside and forced Pakistan army troops to withdraw into urban areas of the rebellious province, a spokesman for India's eastern military command in Calcutta said today.

The spokesman, who denied that Indian troops were involved in the fighting, said the guerrillas control portions of Jessore sector along the border with India as well as areas of Faridpur and Feni and also the central sector of Tangail.

Radio Pakistan said, however, that Pakistani troops had halted or driven back advances that it claimed were made by Indian army troops on five fronts in East Pakistan. It identified Jessore and Feni as two of the fronts and listed Sylhet, Naubara and Hilli as the others.

Radio Pakistan, broadcasting from Karachi, said more than 300 Indian troops had been killed in fighting around Jessore, located about 20 milee inside East Pakistan's western border with India.

UPI correspondent Ajit K. Das, reporting from the Indian town of Bongaon, about four miles from the border of the Jessore sector, said sounds of fighting from the border sector were audible earlier this week but no longer could be heard.

Das said the silence indicated fighting may have moved farther into the interior. Newsmen were prohibited from traveling in the area.

On the political front, sources in Calcutta said key members of the Pakistani rebel Bangla Desh (Bengal Land) cabinet were called to New Delhi by Indian authorities to discuss possible recognition by the Indian government. A decision was expected within 10 days.

Conflicting reports on the role Indian troops might have played in the fighting around Jessore from both New Delhi and Islamabad, the capital of West Pakistan.

India said the fighting was being carried out by East Pakistani guerrillas.

Das said Indian military traffic continued to move toward the frontier. Roads around Bongaon were being widened and wooden bridges were being strengthened, Das said. Indian military officials refused to comment.

Jessore, with a Pakistani army camp and an airport, is a key town on the route to Dacca, capital of East Pakistan.

With concern mounting in world capitals over the danger of the conflict in the east spreading to the West Pakistan borders, the chief of Pakistan's diplomatic mission in New Delhi, Sajaad Hyder, met Thursday with Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh. Details of their talks were not disclosed.

Telephone Accounting Plan Is Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court today struck down the Pacific Telephone Company's accounting methods, saying the company had been "imprudently" paying too much taxes and passing the costs along to its subscribers.

The high court ruled unanimously that the State Public Utilities Commission erred when it decided in 1970 Pacific Telephone did not have to use "accelerated depreciation."

A 1968 decision by the PUC had figured telephone company rates as if this method of accounting had been used.

The result was that the telephone company was paying higher and unnecessary income taxes, which were passed on to the rate payers, the Supreme Court said.

Saigon Puts New Units In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Two fresh regiments of South Vietnamese troops moved into Cambodia between the Snuol and Mimot rubber plantations 80 miles north of Saigon today, while the Communists laid siege to a fire base well inside South Vietnam, field reports said.

American B52's struck in force yesterday and today along with U.S. helicopter gunships and tactical fighter bombers, laying down a curtain of fire to protect advancing South Vietnamese troops from Communist resistance to their drive into the sanctuaries.

The U.S. command, bent on meeting President Nixon's 25,000-man December withdrawal deadline, Friday ordered home about 60 helicopter gunships that would otherwise have been used to support South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia.

The orders came in part of a new withdrawal announcement that covered 3,233 men, including another battalion of the 101st Airborne Division's 3rd Infantry Brigade, seven U.S. Army aviation units and a medical detachment.

But aside from a scrap at an isolated fire base on "Hill 95" (named for its height in meters) about nine miles south of the border, there was still almost no contact in the five-day drive which may become the biggest

Marin General Plan Pros, Cons Weighed

By JEFF GREER

Marin's proposed countywide general plan was criticized as unfair to property owners and taxpayers during radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" program today.

In answer, a defender of the plan called for legislative changes in taxes and assessments to make the plan's proposed growth restrictions acceptable.

The critics were developer Neils J. Schultz Jr. of Greenbrae and Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera; the plan's proponents were Anne L. Ellinwood of Tiburon and Sol Silver, county planning aide.

All agreed that the countywide plan might be a step toward unified city-county government for Marin — at least 20 years in the future.

Schultz, chairman of Marin Property Owners Association's planning and conservation committee, a former county and city planning commissioner, and a Greenbrae developer, attacked the plan's moratorium on population growth except along the eastern corridor adjoining Highway 101.

"How are you going to say to a landowner in the central corridor that everybody east of the ridge is going to develop land to high use and more profits, but "you're going to maintain your land in a pristine state'?" he said.

Colthurst, executive director of the property owners association and a Corte Madera city councilman, charged the plan would concentrate all growth in

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Recaptured

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Mich. (UPI) — Three inmates who escaped from Thealger County Jail in Munsing, Mich., late yesterday were recaptured today when they came here to pick up the girlfriend of one of the men.

Police said the three forced the girl to leave home and her mother called police, who arrested the men.

Massive Lockout

BONN (UPI) — A lockout of more than 350,000 factory workers in West Germany's key metal industries went into effect early today apparently without incident.

Early shift employees arrived at plants in the North Baden and North Wurttemburg regions of South Germany to find doors locked and covered with placards reading "this factory locked out." Most workers went home.

Employers closed down the factories in response to a four-day-old strike by 120,000 metal workers over a pay dispute. It was the first official West German metal industry strike since 1963.

Ulbricht Elected

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German parliament unanimously elected aged and ailing Walter Ulbricht chairman of the council of state, or chief of state, today.

Ulbricht resigned as party leader May 3 because of his advanced age and bad health.

The party had discussed dropping Ulbricht as chief of state, too, and elevating Premier Willi Stoph to that post but it finally decided to keep Ulbricht until his death.

Priests Sentenced

MOSCOW (UPI) — Authorities in Soviet Lithuania sentenced two Roman Catholic priests to one year in prison for giving religious instruction to children prior to their first communion, Catholic sources said today.

The sources circulated a report on the arrests, interrogations and trials of the Rev. Jouzas Zdebskis of Prienal and the Rev. P. Bubnis of Rasiainiai.

The report said Zdebskis was beaten after his arrest in August, and that his mother could not recognize him later because of the beatings.

Bubnis was tried the following day.

Radiation Leak

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — Radiation leaked into the atmosphere from a secret underground nuclear blast at the Nevada Test Site earlier this week, but it presents "no health hazard" to anyone, the Atomic Energy Commission said Thursday.

The maximum reading taken was 12 microroentgens, only thousandths of the radiation absorbed by a person taking a chest X-ray, the AEC said.

"The radiation was slightly above normal background levels. There is no health hazard either on or off the Nevada Test Site," the AEC said.

EX-POW'S THANKSGIVING

S. Sgt. John Sexton Jr. celebrated his first Thanksgiving in three years with turkey, trimmings, and 40 friends and relatives in Clinton Township, Mich. But with the world watching through the eyes of five television cameras. it wasn't exactly a quiet, at-home-with-the-family turkey day. The soldier, 23, was a captive of the Viet Cong for 26 months until his release in October.

Varied Thanksgiving Day For Nixon At San Clemente Base

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon spent Thanksgiving with a turkey, the telephone and two television sets —discussing crises, passing out holiday greetings and watching his football prediction go wrong.

Nixon had two television sets going at once in the Western White House, so he could watch both the top college contest, Oklahoma-Nebraska, and the Dallas-Los Angeles professional game.

Nixon, with his wife Pat warning him not to make football predictions in public, told friends Wednesday the Nebraska-Oklahoma game would be decided "by one point," but kept to himself who he thought the winner would be.

Nebraska beat Oklahoma 35-31.

Nixon telephoned the coaches, Bob Devaney of Nebraska and Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma, telling them it was "a great game" and the coaches "could be proud of their performances."

Nixon drove up the Western White House telephone bill with a blizzard of calls, including a half-hour transatlantic talk with British Prime Minister Edward Heath in England on the India-Pakistan border flareup. He also spoke to Attorney General John N. Mitchell in Washington, directing him to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction to end the dock strike at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Then, while he was in the mood, he telephoned similar holiday greetings to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, six cabinet secretaries, and the congressional leaders of both parties.

Thousands Stranded In Big East Coast Storm

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Thousands of Thanksgiving travelers missed turkey dinners Thursday when the first Northeaster of the season lashed the North Atlantic Seaboard and the Appalachians, stranding them in mounting snow drifts.

Highway crews from Virginia to New England also passed up their holiday dinners to battle the mammoth drifts and rescue motorists.

More than 2,000 vehicles were marooned in snow on interstates 80 and 81 in northeast Pennsylvania; 1,000 more were bogged down on Interstate 70 west of Frederick, Md.; and nearly 1,000 were stranded along a 30-mile stretch of highway near Middleburg, Va.

Snowmobiles carried milk to families with small children stranded in cars in hard-hit northeastern Pennsylvania. Residents of Middleburg, Va., took trapped motorists into their homes and collected food for others who found refuge in churches, fire stations and the community center.

The storm, however, did provide a memorable experience for fireman Christopher Allen and his fiance, Linda Stafford. The couple, from Winchester, Va., were on their way to Williamsburg, Va., to be married when they were stranded by the storm in Middleburg. So they had Rev. Michael Noble perform the ceremony at the Middleburg Methodist Church.

The storm completed its swing up the coast today and headed for Canada, leaving in its wake a two-foot deep shroud of snow in much of the northeastern highlands.

Two feet piled at Bondville, Vt., and 22 inches at Albany, N.Y.,—a record for November. Twenty inches of snow fell at Thomas, W.Va., The Plains, Va., and Wilkes Barre-Scranton, Pa.

The storm only sideswiped the big coastal cities of the Northeast with heavy rains, driven by high winds. The Gimble's Thanksgiving Day Parade in Philadelphia was canceled.

The side effects of the storm forced the mercury to tumble as far south as the Gulf, where early morning temperatures today were in the 30s.

Body Dumped Into Parking Lot

PALMDALE (UPI) — The body of David W. Green, 25, South San Gabriel, was dumped onto an Antelope Valley parking lot from a speeding auto Thursday.

Green was found about 10 miles northeast of here near Lake Los Angeles. He had apparently suffered head injuries, but Sheriff's deputies declined to speculate on the cause of death.

Witnesses said they saw an auto drive onto the parking lot and then speed away shortly before the body was discovered.

Three Die In U.S. 99 Crash

KINGSBURG (UPI) —A headon crash on U.S. 99 south of here killed three persons and caused major injuries to four others Thanksgiving Day.

Listed in "questionable" condition early today at Valley Medical Center of Fresno was Hazel McGarity, 37, of Anderson. Her husband, Murphy, 34, was in satisfactory condition. Gary Vinante, 14, was in critical condition along with a brother, Ricky, 13.

The "Silva Method," as this method is known, was scientifically researched by Mr. Jose Silva from Laredo, Texas, a research scientist and a pioneer in mental training, researching since 1944. He is the discover of the new Science Psychorientology and the creator of the MIND CONTROL program. Mr. Silva states, "The discovery that Human Intelligence can learn to function with awareness at the Alpha and Theta frequencies of the brain will go down in history as the greatest discovery of man."

This discovery, he adds, "is sure to change our concept of Mind, Psychology, Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis, Hypnoanalysis and of the Subconscious."

Mr. Silva explains that there are four principal brainwaves: The Beta Wave, associated with the outer conscious levels, physical activity, anxiety, tension, etc.; the Alpha Wave, associated with inner levels of mental activity, tranquility, inspiration, creativity, concentration, E.S.P., accelerated healing process, memory, learning and many other phenomena; The Theta Wave, related to deeper levels of meditation, concentration, and potentially even greater learning and recall capabilities; and finally the Delta Wave, associated with deep sleep now known as total unconsciousness.

Mr. Silva continues, "in just hours of classroom instruction students learn to function with awareness at lower frequencies such as at the Alpha and Theta." This is accomplished with the use of the Silva Method of Mental Training without the use of Bio-feedback Equipment. MANY benefits are now known to exist for those who learn to function with controlled awareness at the Alpha and Theta Brain Frequencies. Our students report better memory, high grades, less tension and anxiety, faster revitalization and healing, release and rejection of Psychosomatic problems, control of sleep and headache problems, even migraine, control of smoking, weight problems, and some report correction of drug habits, and also maintenance of better general health. Mr. Silva adds that these abilities are just side benefits and that the real benefits is that the student, when at these lower frequencies, can sense information impressed on the brain cells of others at a distance.

Mr. Silva believes that this is what some call E.S.P. or Extra Sensory Perception, but he calls it Subjective Communication. The MIND CONTROL program has changed the meaning of E.S.P. which was uncontrolled, erratic and very evasive, to Subjective Communication which is controlled and effective. He adds that perfecting the means to communicate at this dimension will be the second phase of human evolution on this planet.

Subjective Communication results are guaranteed. At this time it is being used to become aware of information for problem detection and solving.

Mr. Silva states that we somehow have unconsciously learned to interfere with the body's self, natural, healing function and that this effect is known as the psychosomatic health problem. It appears that by learning to function with awareness at the Alpha-Theta brain frequencies, we automatically cease to interfere, allowing the body's internal organs and glands to return to their natural rhythmic self-healing function. We don't need to teach the internal organs how to function: Nature takes care of that when we do not interfere. The Silva Method is dedicated to help humans become healthier, more productive and better problem-solving agents. For references ask any of our graduates in the United States, Mexico or Canada.

ARMY CHOW LINES

Mess Sergeant's Era Nears End

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The image of the mess sergeant, wielding a big serving spoon and growling to keep the line moving, may disappear from Army chow lines.

Also there may be less of, say, liver and mustard greens.

In an experiment now underway at Ft. Lewis, Wash., the Army has done away with the mess sergeant who traditionally stood behind the pots and pans dishing out equal portions of food and who greeted the man dallying in hopes of a larger portion with "Keep the line moving!"

A survey at Ft. Lewis showed that the men felt they weren't getting enough from the mess sergeant. So now, they can serve themselves as much as they choose. They're taking more, but the Ph.D's who nosed around garbage pails as part of their research said the men eat what they take and aren't wasting much.

In a food preference survey, Army researchers cataloged the preferences for 416 food items given by 573 men at Ft. Lewis. The survey contained few surprises and confirmed opinions expressed by GIs for decades.

The survey showed that the men had no great love for sardines and beef liver, that they could do without a lot of prunes and figs, and that mustard greens, squash, okra, eggplant, rutabagas and parsnips weren't exactly their idea of the tastiest vegetables.

The purpose of the survey was to let the men have a say in what they would be served instead of leaving it to an older generation of meal planners in Washington.

Or as it was put by Dr. Robert J. Byrne of the Army's Natick Laboratories in Natick, Mass., the group which made the survey: "Why should I, at my age, try to decide what an 18-year-old is going to eat? I try it at my home and it doesn't work."

Mothers and dieticians may be relieved to hear the young GIs didn't ask to live off soft drinks and pizza. As a matter of fact, the men surveyed thought the Army was already serving them too much pizza but not enough pot roast and meat loaf.

In the vegetable ratings they uaid they were getting too much spinach. But they also said they liked spinach fairly well —it came out in the middle of the preference scale —and asked for lots more corn, both on and off the cob.

The Army went to all this trouble because it had a problem. It discovered that when the men had a choice of eating free in the Ft. Lewis mess halls or paying to eat at a commercial restaurant or in a PX, 50 to 55 per cent preferred to pay.

Those who made the survey believe that with the changes, 50 to 75 per cent more men can be attracted to the mess halls. In the first two weeks after the changes at Ft. Lewis, attendance jumped 22 per cent.

With the switch to an all volunteer force envisioned for mid-1973, the Army concluded it had better make its dining halls more appealing if it ever expected to keep men in the service. Food is considered part of the military pay package and if the men are eating on the outside because they can't stand the food on the inside, then their incomes are effectively being lowered.

One of the 461 dishes the servicemen were queried about was that old standard, creamed chipped beef on toast, better known to many veterans by a three-letter shorthand. The men rated it in the middle of the scale both when asked how well they liked it and how often they wanted it served.

The survey also showed that specialty foods were attractive to soldiers, especially Italian and Mexican dishes and (surprising to the researchers) so was seafood.

So, now at the evening meal the GI at Ft. Lewis has a choice of a specialty food in addition to the standard full course meal. The most popular specialty dishes are tacos and deep fat fried shrimp.

There's even a short order shop at Ft. Lewis where tuna fish sandwiches are the favorite. And the short order line stays open until 11 p.m. to quell late erupting appeties.

Although mustard greens got thumbs down in the survey, it is not likely to be eliminated. Dr. Herbert L. Meiselman of the Natick Laboratories wrote in his report that low rated foods "happen to be ethnically popular, the solution is to serve these dishes where there are large concentrations of the particular ethnic or regional group."

The Armed Forces Master Menu has not been the only problem. Mess sergeants vary in quality and while one company mess hall may be nearly empty, another nearby may be full.

To get around this, Ft. Lewis now has a centralized kitchen where the better cooks can prepare the meals and freeze them. The food is then sent out to satellite kitchens in the mess halls where they need only be reheated.

The centralized operations have allowed Ft. Lewis initially to cut kitchen manpower by more than 30 per cent —an important benefit now that salaries are soaring.

The final results of the Ft. Lewis experiment will soon be presented to the Army brass so they can decide whether and when to extend the system to other bases.

Britain Explains Its Rhodesia Settlement

LONDON (UPI)—The government began a tough uphill fight today to persuade skeptical world opinion and an angry British opposition that its peace settlement with Rhodesia was not a sellout.

It told all British embassies abroad to insist that the terms were fully consistent with the so-called "five principles" laid down by successive British governments as a condition for recognizing Rhodesian independence.

The five principles called for guarantees of unimpeded progress towards ultimate rule by Rhodesia's black African majority population. These total five million compared with 250,000 whites.

British officials conceded the terms will not be satisfactory to everyone. But they described them as "realistic" and said the choice lies between such a settlement and indefinite continuation of the present deadlock and economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Britain and Rhodesia Wednesday announced agreement to end the dispute which dates back to Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence from its mother country Nov. 11, 1965. The agreement came after 10 days of talks in the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury.

The government ordered a full-scale parliamentary debate on the settlement next Wednesday to push its campaign to convince public opinion.

Indications were that it would be difficult.

In Parliament Thursday after Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home outlined the terms, Denis Healey, foreign affairs spokesman for the opposition Labor party, asked Sir Alec pointedly whether the agreement is "meaningful."

He recalled that Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith had remarked to reporters in Salisbury "we already have majority rule."

"If this is the spirit in which he approaches the agreement, no member of this house and no rational person could regard the agreement as being meaningful at all," Healey said.

At the United Nations in New York, after Britain's delegate Sir Colin Crowe explained the agreement, Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik denounced it as a "racist imperialist bargain."

British officials said they fully expected similar reaction from most U.N. African members.

Honesty In Buying Plan Into Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has overruled the Food and Drug Administration and ordered immediate application of new rules to ensure honesty in "cents-off" promotions.

The FDA wanted a delay of several months to subject the rules to changes, but the Federal Trade Commission objected and the White House intervened on the side of the FTC, it was learned Thursday.

White House sources said that as a result, the rules probably will become effective Dec. 31 as scheduled, or shortly thereafter.

Under the new rules, the manufacturer will print the amount of "cents off" on the label. The retailer then will stamp on the reduced price. Also, the retailer must post a sign designating the regular price.

As originally issued by both the FDA and the FTC, the regulations would have required a single label listing the price this way:

Regular Price —30 cents.
Cents Off —8 cents.
You Pay —22 cents.

However, grocers complained that this was too much trouble for store clerks and too costly, and several retail chains said they would not handle cents off sales under such regulations.

"I don't think it will ever be the same," commented N. Gene Weaver, county maintenance foreman, adding that the rock concert had caused more cleaning problems than a dog show held last month.

Meanwhile, Sausalito pharmacist Frederick J. Mayer, promoter of the concert which was to benefit county drug abuse programs, reacted with amazement today at the damage estimate.

He maintained that a part of the damage attributed to the concert was caused by patrons of earlier performances at the auditorium.

Mayer said he had observed tears and burns in the rugs prior to Wednesday's concert which drew a standing-room-only crowd and featured Quicksilver Messenger Service and three other rock groups.

"I want to put in a plug for the supervisors," he said. "They were great and I can't thank them enough for allowing the concert."

Mayer said he is planning another rock concert — one which would require youths to bring their parents. "That would help the communication gap," he said.

Cambodian incursion ever, totaling 45,000 men.

From the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported that Cambodian officers told her the advancing South Vietnamese had agreed to confine their operations to the east bank of the Mekong River unless a serious threat developed to Cambodian positions around the major city of Kampong Cham and points west.

The South Vietnamese did plan to occupy the smaller town of Tonle Bet on the east bank of the Mekong, however, and U.S. military attaches assigned to the embassy in Phnom Penh flew to Kampong Cham today, she said.

The fresh incursion started early today when two regiments of the South Vietnamese 5th Division reinforced by armor sliced into Cambodia about midway between Snuol and Mimot, two plantations that have long been in Communist hands and provided bases for infiltration into the Saigon area.

The troops seized a portion of Highway 7 and an area near the mouth of the Chhlong River valley and began pushing southwest toward Mimot and northeast toward Snuol, field reports said.

mates' petition. "We are sincerely trying to correct the mistakes we have made in the past against other people."

They also insisted the rebellion occurred only after inmates "tried every other possibility to bring about changes in the above-stated complaint..."

Three of the six hostages were reported in good condition today at Rahway General Hospital, although Dr. Richard Newman said Vukcevich, 43, had two stab wounds in his back and "was worked over pretty good." It was learned that Vukcevich's wounds were treated in the prison by an inmate who served with U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Cahill revealed that only the insistence of Dr. Maurice Kott, acting state commissioner of institutions and agencies, and another unnamed state prison official prevented an assault on the prison early Thursday by about 150 armed and helmeted state police, local police and guards from other prisons.

"It was because the hope was there of a negotiated settlement that we declined to use force," said Cahill. "Fortunately, I didn't have to make that decision."

The rebellion erupted Wednesday night following a movie in the prison auditorium. Vukcevich and five guards were taken hostage by inmates who refused to leave the auditorium when another prisoner arose to speak on "injustices in society" and penitentiary conditions.

PLAN

only 74,000 acres of Marin, leaving the taxpayer burdened with somehow paying for maintaining more than 200,000 acres as open space.

Miss Ellinwood, chairman of the City-County Planning Council of Marin and a Tiburon city councilman, replied that the laws should be changed so that assessments can be made "only on the basis of the growth factor permitted under the plan."

Both moratorium-affected open spaces and areas already densely developed thus could obtain tax relief, she suggested.

Silver stressed that the countywide plan is not fixed and should always remain flexible. He said it attempts to solve countywide or regional problems such as open spaces, overall population, transportation, and an economic base. It makes no attempt to dictate how Marin's 11 cities' should solve local problems, but hopes for the cities' agreement on regional concepts, he explained.

In response to a caller's question, Schultz and Miss Ellinwood agreed that the formation of the city-county planning council, rather than the countywide plan it is sponsoring, may have been a first step in unified government. Silver warned that "one of the basic assumptions of the plan is that the form of local government won't change" within the next 20 years.

Both Schultz and Miss Ellinwood criticized the proposed National Parkway from Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Seashore, but "for different reasons," Miss Ellinwood said. Schultz opposed spending "$20 million, give or take $5 million" to build a road that won't serve" the permanent population of West Marin. Miss Ellinwood called for other transportation solutions such as the experimental West Marin service by Marin Transit Systems, Inc.

Colthurst complained that new employment envisioned in the plan would be filled by "transients, mostly not living in Marin" rather than help the local economy. "I can see no benefit in providing jobs for someone who lives in Sonoma County," Colthurst declared.

He repeatedly called for "hard figures on what the plan will cost" the taxpayer.

Silver explained that the county planning staff and the city-county council had conducted a series of hearings to obtain criticism before modifying the plan and presenting it to the cities for review and endorsement. The modified plan will go again through city-county planning council hearings before submission to the county planning commission and supervisors for eventual adoption, sometime in mid-1972, he said.

Today's broadcast, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Injunction Sought In Dock Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department, at President Nixon's request, sought today a Taft-Hartley injunction to send 45,000 striking longshoremen back to work at Atlantic and Gulf Coast docks.

Nixon took time out from his Thanksgiving celebration at the western White House to order Attorney General John N. Mitchell to file for the injunction when federal courts opened today.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Charna Perry Dies; Rites Set

Dr. Charna G. Perry, physician in Sausalito for 50 years, died yesterday at the Tamalpais in Greenbrae where she had lived since retiring two years ago. She was 77.

Dr. Perry was born in the Ukraine but left Russia with her parents in 1906, moving to Shanghai where she was reared and educated in a convent. (A brother, who remained in Russia as a professional soldier was killed during the revolution.)

Dr. Perry had planned to go to medical school at the University of Cambridge in England but ended up in Boston instead because of World War I. Finding that her choice of schools, Harvard University, was not coeducational, Dr. Perry instead attended Tufts University, graduating in 1920 cum laude with a degree in medicine.

She married Samuel S. Perry, an importer, whom she had known in Shanghai, shortly after her graduation and they moved to San Francisco. (Perry died in 1945.)

Dr. Perry did her internship at Children's Hospital and then opened the first well baby clinic in January 1921 in Sausalito. Later she was physician at seven such clinics throughout Marin. She also started the first

In Sausalito she maintained a practice as a pediatrician and general practitioner until she retired in November 1969.

Dr. Perry was a member of many medical societies, including the Marin Medical Society, of which she had served as vice president; Academy of General Practice, and the American Medical Association.

She traveled throughout the world attending World Health Organization conferences.

She also belonged to the Tufts University Alumni Association, Sausalito Women's Club, China Tiffin Club and the Women Physicians of San Francisco.

Upon her retirement, Dr. Perry was honored by the Marin Medical Society and Tufts University for her 50 years of medical service.

Dr. Perry is survived by a son, Jackson S. Perry of Sausalito; two sisters, Mrs. Flora Gramber and Mrs. Lena Uydens, both of San Francisco, and one granddaughter.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Hills of Eternity Chapel in Colma, with burial at Hills of Eternity Cemetery.

Victims Of Air Crash Are Found

I-J Special Report

WILLITS — The bodies of a Mendocino County family and their crashed plane were located yesterday just a few miles from Willits Airport where they took off in bad weather Tuesday night.

Killed in the crash were William Pulliam, 37, of Willits, his wife, Shirley, 35, and two sons, William Jr. and Dennis Pulliam, 13, according to the Mendocino County sheriff's office.

A C-130 from 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base, and a Civil Air Patrol pilot from Willits spotted the wreckage about nine miles north-northwest of Willits at 1:30 p.m., deputies reported.

The plane, a Cessna 175, was reported missing shortly after takeoff at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A Power Halt Halts Some Turkey Cooking

Some of those Thanksgiving turkeys took a little longer to cook around San Anselmo yesterday as a power shortage hit 1,746 Pacific Gas and Electric Co. customers.

Most of the affected customers were residential units in western San Anselmo, eastern Fairfax and Sleepy Hollow, a PG&E spokesman said.

He said service was out to 757 customers for 24 minutes, beginning at 4:53 p.m. 989 more customers had service out until 6:10 p.m., the company said.

Cause of the outage was undetermined.

ROCKEFELLER CENTER TREE

A crane lowers a 65-foot balsam fir to the ground at the Robert Bragg farm near Montpelier, Vt., for shipment to New York's Rockefeller Center where it will reign over the Christmas holidays. The tree, felled yesterday, is expected to arrive in New York Monday where it will be decorated with 10,000 bulbs. (UPI Telephoto)

More Fuel Added By Rehnquist Foes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another affidavit that William H. Rehnquist harassed black voters in Phoenix added more fuel today to the controversy surrounding President Nixon's nominee to the Supreme Court.

Aides to Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., one of the leading opponents of Rehnquist's nomination, said the affidavit merits further investigation, even though Rehnquist personally has denied he even was present at the voting precinct where he allegedly harassed voters in 1964.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Rehnquist's nomination 12 to 4 last week, and endorsed the uncontested nomination of Lewis F. Powell Jr. 12 to 0. Both nominations are expected to reach the Senate floor sometime next week, and there are indications Bayh's opposition may delay Senate adjournment, hoped for during the first week of December.

Earlier, two Democratic poll workers swore in Affidavits submitted to the Judiciary Committee that Rehnquist challenged the voting qualifications of three Negro women and ordered them to read from the Constitution.

The latest affidavit, still unreceived by the Judiciary Committee, was by the Rev. Snelson McGriff, pastor of the Church of God in Christ, in Phoenix.

McGriff said he was present at the Bethune School voting precinct in 1964 and that he saw a man challenging voters to read from the Constitution. The affidavit said McGriff had seen pictures of Rehnquist and if he was not the man "it's his twin brother."

McGriff said he intended to send his affidavit to Washington and an aide to Bayh said he was awaiting the document.

ROADS TO COURT — Recently graded roads ribbon the scenic property south of Nicasio between Samuel P. Taylor State Park and the Nicasio Reservoir. The grading (or pioneering as the developers refer to it) has prompted court action by the county which claims the developers did not have county permission. Here, an auto proceeds along the new road leading into the property from the San Geronimo-Nicasio Road. The road takes a sharp turn through a deep cut and continues through a scenic redwood grove.

Talks Continuing To End Teacher Strike

Negotiations were to continue today in an effort to resolve the 11-day lay teachers' strike against seven Bay Area Catholic high schools, including Marin Catholic in Kentfield, before school resumes on Monday.

No talks were held yesterday between the striking union and the Archdiocese of San Francisco which runs the seven struck schools. Catholic officials took the day off to observe Thanksgiving.

However, about 50 teachers from the striking union, Secondary Teachers Association Local 2240, staged a two-hour vigil yesterday in front of the San Francisco residence of Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

"This vigil is an attempt to communicate to the archbishop our desire to see a resolution to this crisis," said Gerald Killian, president of the teachers' association. He said it is the teachers goal to resolve the strike before schools reopen on Monday.

The walkout by 110 teachers at the seven schools forced reshuffling of classes and teachers, but failed to close any schools. At Marin Catholic 10 of 22 lay teachers joined the walkout as did four nuns.

A federal mediator was called in Saturday. Gene Barry, the mediator, said earlier this week the only remaining major disagreement is over pay raises for this school year.

Mary Pickford Wins Her Battle

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Veteran actress Mary Pickford finally won a 47-year fight with a natural gas holder.

In 1924 Miss Pickford was outraged at the 224-foot high steel Hollywood Holder No. 12 which was built at the rear of the Allied Artists studios. She said the structure offended her sense of esthetics and it was an ungainly background to a French provincial street set.

She sent representatives throughout the neighborhood demanding the tank be removed and hundreds of people signed her petitions.

Finally, after 47 years, the Southern California Gas Co. has torn the old holder down and only a gaping hole remains in its place.

Seat In FAO Awaits China

ROME (UPI)—China has a seat waiting for it in the concrete and glass palace which houses the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

The 125-nation biennial FAO conference voted Thursday to offer Peking the Chinese seat left vacant when the nationalist government, one of the FAO founders, quit the organization in 1952.

The conference voted 68-0 with three abstentions—including the United States—to authorize director general Addeke H. Boerma to bring Peking into the organization whenever it "manifests the wish to resume its place."

Supervisors To Get Hot Topic—Road Grading Issue

Changes to the county's grading and excavation ordinance, prompted by reports of illegal road grading in West Marin, will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors.

The proposed changes greatly restrict the extent of grading land developers may do and brings grading more closely under the control of the county department of public works.

Under the present ordinance, a land developer must simply apply for a grading permit and agree to rather broad engineering criteria.

Even so, developers allegedly have been attempting to bypass county supervision by "pioneering" roads without a permit. The most recent said to have been caught in violation are the developers of about 800 acres of land south of Nicasio.

The county counsel's office this week filed a 13-count criminal complaint against Lone Star Land Corp. of Yuba City and Pierce-Pinney real estate agents of San Francisco.

The county maintains the developers have cut from three to four miles of road on their property without county approval.

A spokesman said stream beds have been blocked with rubble from the grading and that erosion will occur during winter rains.

The property, about two miles south of Nicasio, is between Nicasio Reservoir and Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Conservations and the county planning commission have urged that the entire ordinance be revised to include a requirement that grading permit request be subject to review by an ecological impact review committee.

Soviet Union Bidding For Japanese Funds In Sibera

The profit-minded Japanese already are investing millions of dollars in the construction of a new Siberian seaport and are purchasing millions of dollars worth of Siberian timber.

Now the Russians are talking in terms of up to $1 billion from Japan to build the world's longest petroleum pipeline. But the Japanese are not sure they can raise the kind of money Russia wants.

Japan operates the world's third largest economy, its annual economic production of $201 billion ranking behind only the United States and the Soviet Union. But Japan's mountainous islands must import nearly all the raw materials required to fuel and feed its factories.

The United States and Russia offer Japan two neighboring supplies of petroleum and natural gas, in Alaska and Siberia. But engineers must build pipelines across thousands of frozen miles to seaports to make tapping of the Alaskan and Siberian wealth worthwhile.

The biggest project in Siberia is the development of the oilfields near Tyumen, which is located in western Siberia near the Ural mountains.

Development of Tyumen involves construction of a pipeline 4,380 miles long from western Siberia to the port of Nakhodka in eastern Siberia, where crude oil will be loaded aboard Japanese tankers. Such a pipeline would be almost one-fifth as long as the equator.

"Technically such a pipeline would be feasible," a spokesman for Keidanren, the Japanese federation of economic organizations said in an interview. Keidanren represents all of Japan's major corporations.

But the Japanese understand that the Russians want an investment of $1 billion to develop Tyumen petroleum. "That much credit from Japan's export and import bank is almost impossible," a Japanese business spokesman said.

The two governments are scheduled to discuss the Tyumen pipeline proposal in Tokyo next spring.

Another Siberian development involves the Udokan copper fields in central Siberia. By rail, Udokan copper is located about 2,700 miles from Nakhodka, the major Siberian port serving the Japan trade.

"Udokan can produce 400,000 tons of copper ore a year and Japan could take 100,000 tons," a Keidanren spokesman said. "We want Soviet copper very much because Japan is completely lacking in it."

But again, Russian investment terms seem steep to the Japanese. The Soviets have requested a credit line of $800 million from Japan to develop Udokan. But Japan is ready to put up only $100 million dollars.

The Russians say the total cost of copper ore exploitation would be around $1.6 billion. Moscow wants half of the investment to come from Japan.

The Japanese and the Soviets have reached agreement on port and timber developments.

Under a 1968 agreement, Japan is purchasing $180 million worth of Siberian timber over a five-year span. Japan is paying most of the bill by giving Russia $160 million worth of machinery to develop Siberian forest resources.

Japan also has agreed to invest $80 million in the development of a new Siberian seaport at Vrangel, about 10 miles northeast of Nakhodka.

Nakhodka, a well-sheltered port facing the Sea of Japan, is relatively small and its facilities are overtaxed. New port facilities at Vrangel are needed to expand Siberia's trade with Japan, particularly in oil, natural gas and copper.

Japanese officials say they run into problems because the Russians seem reluctant to permit Japanese engineers to make extensive surveys.

"Before we decided to put up $80 billion for Vrangel port, we were allowed to visit the port area for only three days," one Japanese said.

"When the Soviets proposed that we invest in the Udokan copper mines, we were only allowed to survey the area from a passing airplane.

"But once we reach agreement with the Russians, the work goes smoothly and efficiently. The Soviet side is never bothered by strikes or other such delays."

Dissolution Fee Waived

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court has ruled that indigent persons need not pay the $27 filing fee for dissolving their marriages.

In a unanimous decision Wednesday, the high court reversed a lower court ruling in the case of Mary Ann Earls, 38, Grover City. The Earls woman, mother of four children, desired to dissolve her marriage, but had an income of only $263 per month from welfare. She said she was unable to pay the filing fee.

Her husband was believed to be somewhere in Texas.

Life Plans Big Circulation Cut

NEW YORK (UPI)—Life magazine has announced it will reduce circulation to 5.5 million from seven million beginning with the Jan. 14 issue.

Its publisher, Garry Valk, said the circulation cutback was necessary in order to reduce advertising page rates and increase subscriber costs.

The subscription cost increase was necessary to meet the costs of proposed higher postal rates and Phase II price limitations, according to Valk.

Inmate's Girl Will Join Him

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI)—A 21-year-old girl friend of an inmate in the Contra Costa County Jail is behind bars because she tried to give him something to remember her by.

Miss Roberta Bobrosky was arrested while trying to pass Michael Aford, 28, a nude photograph of herself through the visitors's screen.

Aford is serving time for dealing in narcotics and possession of a gun while a parolee.

Sheriff's deputies said the lovers may now be in jail together but they won't be seeing each other because no visits are allowed between female and male prisoners.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Why Cross Bridge? Marin Offers Many Fine Chinese Restaurants

In the opinion of Stanley Toy, owner of Kublai Khan at Strawberry Town and Country Village, most Marin diners-out looking for Chinese food still go to San Francisco's Chinatown.

I am not sure that I agree with him, but if that is so then these folks are missing several good bets right here at home — including the Kublai Khan itself, which is a striking place with crystal chandeliers, beautiful napery and that subdued atmosphere characteristic of many elegant restaurants.

There seems to be nothing lacking in its Chinese menu that would encourage a migration across the Golden Gate Bridge — on the contrary, I have always enjoyed the food here, which is downright good and nicely served.

Be that as it may, Toy does not put all his egg rolls in one basket. If you were to analyze all the orders being served in the dining room (and some nights there are lots of them) you might find a preponderance of American dishes — mainly the filet mignon and New York steak special dinners — Kublai Khan specials.

They look good and obviously are very popular — but I still go along with the traditional Chinese dishes and come out smiling. In any case, whether you order a la East or a la West, it's almost a foregone conclusion you'll choose Kublai Khan's particularly tasty compromise for dessert — the ginger ice cream.

CELIA'S NO. 5 is starting a live music program tonight for dancing and this will be a regular Friday and Saturday night feature from 9 p.m. The entertainers now booked are known as Mundo and A. J. Sallacy Trio. The group is just back from playing in Hawaii and has also appeared at Tia Maria's on the San Francisco Peninsula and in other Bay Area spots.

Celia's is the new Mexican restaurant opened a short time ago at 1 Vivian Way, San Rafael. (Now there might be something interesting — Song of the Islands in Latin tempo).

AFTER 15 YEARS, Mary Harkins is giving up her colorful little El Paseo Dining Room in Mill Valley.

She will close out her operation here at the end of this month. She has served many meals and made many friends who will wish her well in her new full-time project.

In recent years she has had two separate businesses going — the restaurant and Mary Harkins Popovers,) a bakery operation whcih developed from one of her popular food specialties. Sometime ago she cut back serving dinners to three days a week — but even this short schedule took up so much of her time and energy it left her little opportunity to expand her bakery production. The latter, by the way, supplies many chain and independent retail stores and still more of them would like to be on the list.

The bakery will now be moved to a new location — probably in the San Rafael area. But it will take her until the end of the year to get it into full production again.

Moving into the restaurant at El Paseo will be Mark U.Bottmeyer of Mill Valley and Gunther W. Kollner of San Francisco, who will make it a French restaurant carrying the present name.

As I understand it, there will be French and Continental dinners but no lunches. Wines and beers will be served.

Both men have had about 16 years restaurant experience and recently have been working at Ernie's in San Francisco as waiters. Since quite a bit of remodeling at El Paseo is planned, they will be closed for at least two weeks from Dec. 1, when they take possession. It may be even longer.

WE REGRET reporting the closing of Boitano's Restaurant at the Corte Madera Cooperative Center. We have no information as to when this restaurant will be reactivated.

NITE LIFE DINNER CLUB has added a new "casual dinner" book to its coupon service. It covers 70 quick-service and small establishments throughout the Bay Area.

The club is now offering as a package this book — and three others: A Marin book with 30 dineries, a San Francisco book with 70 locations and an entertainment book, which covers theaters, sport events, motels and various other programs. Price is $6.

CONGRATULATIONS TO ETHEL BARRIE, who celebrates completion of her eighth year operating Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate Shopping Center next week.

ACCORDING TO OUR LAST COUNT, our annual North Bay Dining and Wining Guide, to be published in February, will report on 184 restaurants in Marin and Sonoma counties.

NEW ST. HELENA RESTAURANT A la Toque recently opened by Andre Marquer, former co-owner of the Normandie in San Rafael, is now closed on Mondays.

Seating capacity here is about 50 or 60. Address is 587-B Highway 29.

FEATURED at the Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile tonight, tomorrow night and Sunday is Van Morrison.

FOR DO-IT-YOURSELFERSv Ludwig's Liquor and Smoke Shop, 432 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo has added the Wine Art line of products for amateur winemakers.

The shop reports it has just about everything for this hobby — starter kits at $6.95 and up, wooden barrels (several sizes) and it even takes orders for winemakers to pick up their grapes in the Napa Valley.

ON THE SUBJECT of wine, the annual International Wine Tasting Festival will be held Sunday, Dec. 12, from 2 to 6 p.m. in the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. It benefits Aid Retarded Children.

Guests will be able to taste any of the 200 premium California and imported wines, poured by such vintners as Beaulieu, Beringer, Christian Brothers, Charles Krug and imports like Beccaro, Bertoli, Alexis Lichine, Sandeman, Moselblumenchen and many others — with sourdough French bread and fine cheeses between sips.

Donation is $2.50 per person.

NOW IN THEIR SECOND WEEK back at Speros' Red Vest in Novato are the Andrini brothers with Latin, European and old time song hits. Speros Halikas has them here before their recent return from Japan.

Italian and Greek dishes are the house food specialties.

Blaze Claims 3 Young Children

CANNELLVILLE, Ohio (UPI)—Three young children, left alone while their parents were milking the cows, died Thursday night in a fire that swept through their frame home in rural east central Ohio.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman, were unable to rescue the children.

Dead were Emma Freeman, 4, her brother, Earl, 2-½, and her six-month-old sister Anna.

Authorities said Freeman was milking the cows in a nearby barn and his wife put the children upstairs to play while she went out to help with the farm chores.

"They were gone only 10 to 20 minutes," police said. "The first thing they noticed was the lights were out. Then they saw flames everywhere."

Wallet Found After 50 Years

Webb, a teacher here, lost the billfold almost 50 years ago when he was a student.

"There wasn't any money in it when it was found," Webb said. "That doesn't surprise me. I didn't have any in those days."

Grand Rapids Folks Open Purses To Stricken Boy, 5

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Citizens have opened their hearts and pocketbooks to help keep alive a 5-year-old boy who has suffered since birth from a rare and usually fatal skin disease.

The Mary Freebed Hospital here has been home for Roger Alan Wojcik since shortly after his birth. He is "as friendly as can be under the circumstances," according to a hospital nurse. Roger enjoyed a rare treat Thursday —Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings —but ate alone because his parents thought they couldn't bear the emotional strain of a visit. Last Thanksgiving, his father was in a traffic accident because he couldn't keep his mind on the road when thinking about his son's plight.

Roger was born with epidemolysis bullosa, a condition described by Dr. George T.R. Fahlund, executive director of the hospital, as "a chronic, relentlessly progressive disease." It prevents the child from growing new skin and "results in large blisters and the skin breaks down in blotches all over the body," Fahlund said.

Friends and neighbors of Roger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wojcik, who live in the southwest Michigan community of Three Oaks, did not learn of the crushing emotional and financial problems faced by the family until just recently. When they found out, they did something about it.

Mayor Keith Gridley and Ronald Decker, a friend of the family, convinced the local Lions Club to raise money to help the Wojciks. The club established a special account at the Bank of Three Oaks to receive donations.

The Wojciks have accumulated more tpan $88,000 in hospital bills over the past 5 ½ years.

Insurance paid the first $20,000. The state, under The Crippled Children's Fund, has assumed a large share of the expenses but requires Wojcik to repay $80 a month and it regularly checks the family's earnings to determine if they can pay more.

Wojcik, 48, and his wife, Isabell, 46, both work fulltime in Michigan City, Ind., and together earn about $1,000 per month.

There is hope for Roger. Dr. Fahlund said that with persons born with epidemolysis bullosa who live to be 10-12 years of age, "chances of survival increase, and some of them do survive."

Roger's father is optimistic, too.

"They said he may not live five weeks and here is is over five years and he's still going," he said.

Pope Takes Time Out To Read Up On Judo

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI took some time off church affairs this week to read up on the rules of judo.

The 74-year-old pontiff disclosed it Wednesday in a brief address to members of the Italian Judo academy who attended his weekly general audience. He told them a reading of their rules and programs gave him "an impression of seriousness, of an almost ascetic way of life."

Top YMCA Aide Is Reelected

Marilyn R. Crowell of San Rafael, a member of the Marin County Board of Education, has been reelected chairman of the Marin Branch Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mrs. Crowell is the only woman who heads a YMCA branch board in the Pacific region, according to YMCA officials.

Also elected to serve in 1972 were John F. Plank, vice-chairman; Paul Hartman Jr., chairman of the finance committee, and David I. Fred, secretary.

Superb food, excellent drinks, and one lousy waiter.
A number of our friends in the restaurant business have made their reputations by providing the worst possible service. They allow you to wait for a table for an hour and a half, and then, if you're really lucky, you get a terribly rude waiter. Try as we might, we have been unable to accomplish this. We have only been able to come up with the owner's brother-in-law, who makes a pretty fair try at it. The rest, unfortunately, continue to do their jobs as best they can. Nevertheless, we've highlighted this one fellow in the hope that we may enjoy your patronage until we're able to improve our entire staff.

THE CONDUCTOR

British Prime Minister Edward Heath conducts the London Symphony Orchestra in a charity performance of Sir Edward Elgar's "Cockaigne" Overture at London's Royal Festive Hall. Mill Valley Session Will Be Wide Open

Communes, dogs, burglaries, parking woes, drugs, taxes, city services, growth limitations and the courts all have one thing in common. They're likely to be discussed Monday in Mill Valley.

Dubbed a gripe session by some and a town meeting by others, the session technically is an adjourned city council meeting. It's scheduled for 8 p.m. in the city hall council chambers.

Leading the discussion is likely to be talk about Mill Valley's anticommune ordinance, drug use, parking on narrow city streets, loitering and littering, burglaries and sanitation problems — all manifestations of Mill Valley's "hippie problem," according to some residents and councilmen.

Also to be discussed is the reporting of residential burglaries by the press, according to Mayor George E. Wickham. Some residents think burglary victims should not be mentioned by name or address.

Dog control probably will be a lively topic, with some citizens complaining about lack of patrols by the Marin County Humane Society, and other citizens claiming there's too much patrolling.

Limiting the growth of Mill Valley — Marin's fourth most populous city — and ways of cutting Marin's highest municipal tax rate also will be considered.

The locations of potential new downtown parking lots and the lack of parking space there also will be discussed.

Part of the discussion will focus on "what people expect from city government. The city is trying to do too many things," Wickham said.

Dinner Argument Ends In Slaying

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A squabble over who should get the light meat and who should get dark meat from the family's Thanksgiving turkey resulted in the shooting death of Glenn R. Williams, 19.

Williams argued with his uncle, Oscar Crawford, 57, at the Williams home Thursday, police said. Crawford allegedly went upstairs, returned with a .22 caliber rifle and shot his nephew.

Crawford was charged with murder.

Two Booked In Burglary Probe

Two San Rafael men were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary Thursday after police found them at a San Rafael home.

Thomas Eric Grayson, 21, of 247 D Street, Apt. 101, and Robert Louis Arnett II, 22, of 15 Sirard Lane were held in lieu of $3,500 bail each to appear in Marin Municipal court today.

Police said they responded to a burglary report at 2:48 p.m. at the residence of Jack G. MacPhee at 60 Woods Street and found Grayson outside the house and Arnett coming down the front stairs.

Two cameras which had been taken from a bedroom were found in the kitchen of the residence, police said.

E. Bay Man Is Held In Beating Case

A 21-year-old San Rafael woman was reported in satisfactory condition today at Kaiser Hospital in San Rafael, and a friend was being held at Marin County Jail on suspicion of beating her.

Pamela Laura Black of 45 Woodland Avenue, Apt. 29, suffered a cut scalp and multiple bruises, the hospital reported.

Johnnie Harris, 25, of Richmond, was booked by San Rafael police on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and possession of hashish. He was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Police said they were called to Miss Black's apartment at 3:29 a.m. today by neighbors who heard screams. When police arrived, they said, Miss Black ran to the door screaming for help. Harris was arrested on a balcony at the rear of the apartment, police said.

Officers said they found a small amount of hash in his pocket.

"Perhaps you can decide."

"I began my career in a small London catering shop when I was only eleven years old. At the age of fourteen, I began five demanding years of apprenticeship, working in some of the fine kitchens of England — at the Regent Hotel, the Strand, the Trocadero. Next came two years of more formal study. In recent years I have worked in excellent American restaurants — in New England, the South and here in California. And yet, with all of this experience ... I still can't tell you which is the finest dish at the Chez Pierre Restaurant. There are so many! Perhaps you can decide."

Fairfax Hearing Could Be Helpful Or Harmful

Under way in Fairfax is a process that illustrates the essential fairness built into our system of local government.

Discharged Police Chief James R. Orr, at his own request, is receiving a full public airing of charges against him which were made by the city administrator and on the basis of which he was fired.

The Fairfax Board of Review is conducting the hearing in impartial, judicial manner which would be a credit to any court — although its members are just citizens serving without pay, not wearers of the judicial robe.

THE HEARING IS painful at points, both to Orr's sympathizers and to his accusers. But such is inevitably the case in a search for truth in any such controversy.

Some of the testimony no doubt is startling to people unacquainted with the operation of a police force. Police work is no "pink tea." The officers must be prepared at all times for all sorts of situations, and in preparing them, the department perforce must operate somewhat along military lines. (How well Fairfax's force was prepared is one of the points at issue.) The job of a policeman is not always a pretty job. His training cannot be merely academic.

So far in the hearing — which is not continuous, as it must be set up to allow for the board members to go on with their regular occupations — the prosecution has been presenting its case. Chief Orr's defense is yet to be heard, except in the form of cross-examination of some prosecution witnesses.

Before the hearing is over, the ousted chief will have ample opportunity to present his case. The board members — Frank L. Lawrence, Freeman Blake, Hugh Gallagher, William T. Benson and Alfred F. Daubenfield — have shown every indication of being as fair to one side as the other.

WHAT ALL the evidence will show, and what the board's decision will be, are matters that should not be speculated on at this time.

Whatever the decision, the result can be either beneficial or harmful to the Fairfax Police Department — and therefore to the City of Fairfax — depending on the kind of response to the facts brought out at the hearing.

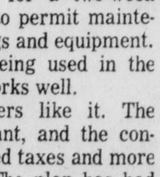
Orr's "trial" could be used politically to undermine law enforcement in Fairfax. That would be a most disastrous outcome.

On the other hand, it could be used wisely to make whatever improvements are indicated in organization and training of the city's police force — and might suggest to other police departments in Marin some overlooked areas needing improvement.

If the hearing leads to the second result, Fairfax — and perhaps other cities, too — will benefit, whether Orr is reinstated in his position or whether someone else takes over as chief.

If the hearing leads to the first result, no police chief will be able to build a properly functioning department in Fairfax.

By RUS WALTON:



Schools' Summer Shutdown Horse-And-Buggy Stuff

SACRAMENTO — My dad was never one to let the grass grow in his tomato fields. Or bugs either.

And if school wasn't out by the first of June, he was right there with the other farmers giving the board of education what-for.

Same thing in the fall. The board didn't dare start school until the last crop had been picked and the last crate shipped. Then it was "drop your basket and pick up your books and git!"

The summer was for crops and the farmers called the shots. That was long ago. Now things are different.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH year-round schools?

For years, now, we've kicked the idea around. We've talked about it, groused about it — and done little about it.

But at last things seem to be moving!

This year three bills promoting year-round schools have passed the legislature.

One by Assemblywoman March Fong, D-Oakland, calls for a five-year experiment with various approaches to all-year schools. The trial runs would be made in two school districts selected by the state superintendent.

The other two bills — one by State Sen. Clair Burgener (R-Rancho Santa Fe), and one by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, (D-Campbell) — deal specifically with school districts in San Diego and Santa Clara counties.

THE BURGENER and the Vasconcellos measures are both based on a unique 45-15 continuous school year plan.

Children would go to school for 45 days (nine weeks), be off for 15 days (three weeks), go back to school for another 45 days, and so on. All year long. In rotating groups.

Students at each school would be divided into four groups. Three groups would be in class while the fourth was on vacation.

Children in the same family would be assigned to the same group. Families could still do things together.

Children in the same neighborhood would generally be in the same group. Kids could share their free time and busing schedules could be better coordinated.

All kids, and teachers, would get off for Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. And all would be off for a two-week period in the summer to permit maintenance on school buildings and equipment.

THE 45-15 PLAN is being used in the East and Midwest. It works well.

Parents and taxpayers like it. The economies are significant, and the constant pressures for added taxes and more bonds have subsided. The plan has had the effect of increasing school building capacities by one-third. In one Illinois district this was equal to 60 classrooms which would have cost $6 million.

Even the kids seem to go for it. They get more out of their studies. For one thing it is easier for teachers to sustain student interest for the shorter periods. For another, the kids don't forget as much of their work in a three-week vacation as they did during the three-month summer hiaitus.

It sounds like a great idea. I hope the governor signs the bills. We've stood around long enough. Let's do something!

No nation ever had an army large enough to guarantee it against attack in time of peace or insure it victory in time of war. — Calvin Coolidge.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Why Is Doughboy Just Hitch-Hiking?

Why is our World War I soldier boy hitch-hiking along the road instead of being placed in a position of honor in front of the new memorial theater?

It would have been a very natural spot for him — I'm sure.

Deer Very Quiet Except When Startled

It amused me to read about the "Noisy Deer."

In residential areas, the deer are very quiet, cautious and fearful of dogs. They have no herd to protect them. It is usually one deer, who has been lying down and becomes frightened, that makes such a crashing noise. They must do it to freighten a dog away. The deer do not seem to fear women, but even when I distrub a sleeping or restind deer — what a noise he makes!

To watch the deer and see the serious little babies, who never play, is to love them. A dog seems crude and my cat seems somewhat insipid.

Bombing Editorial Recalls Promises

Your editorial on the increased military bombings recalled both Mr. Nixon's 1968 peace promises and General Curtis LeMay's shocking proposals to "bomb them back to the Stone Age." These nights when I am awakened by the terrible thunderings of the Hamilton jets, I am kept awake by thoughts of suffering and devastation. To think about the bombings is heartbreaking, but to ignore them is as dehumanizing as Nazism. Thank you for reminding us.

Mineral Society Show Successful

The 1971 show committee of this organization, at its Nov. 19 meeting which concluded its work, asked me to write you in expression of our appreciation for the publicity which you gave the show — particularly the front page picture on Nov. 13.

The committee felt that this had a marked effect on our Sunday attendance, and we are most grateful for such assistance toward success in our first independent show.

What Other Course Than Continue Bombing?

Regarding your editorial on bombing while the casualties are going down:

That Carnegie Institute blandly says that the bombings are doing no good. Coming from a university, what else could you expect? What they pointedly omit is any recommendation as to how else you can stop the Communists in Vietnam. The only conclusion you can draw is that whoever it is that drew up the report had no interest in preserving freedom in South Vietnam.

As for your own remarks on it, I think you also miss the main point — we aren't bombing for the fun of it. The Communists are trying to move material and make attacks on the non-Communist side and Nixon's way is at least holding the balance while cutting down American deaths. Both bombing and casualties will come down when the Communists quit trying to conquer the south.

Other Paper Boys, But None Like Michael

This is a letter of acknowledgement for the extraordinary and continousness in which our paper boy, Michael Gravel, does his work.

We have had other paper boys but none of them could nor would measure up to Michael.

We never have to worry about our paper in good weather, because the paper is always on our porch. In foul weather we need never worry, as our paper is in out of the rain. The paper is placed behind the screen door or handed to us.

We always know about what time our paper will arrive. Also the collection is on the same day.

I thought I would write this letter to show our appreciation in some small way. We are leaving this area, but will always remember Michael and the good services we received.

Vietnam Milestone — And Monstrous Waste

During the Balkan War of 1913 someone threw something explosive out of an airplane at someone else in what was supposed to be the first case in history of air bombardment. This precedent was followed by a considerable number of nations in the years since then.

This bit of history is important because we either already have or soon will pass an interesting milestone in Vietnam, that being that in Vietnam we shall have dropped more bombs than have been dropped by all sides in all the other wars, revolutions, insurrections, and practice missions since that ill-starred day in 1913.

One may protest that it is criminally immoral to pour such massive destruction on a ragged guerrilla army supported by the northern half of a fourth-rate Asian nation.

But such terms are unintelligible to the present administration. One must approach them from a point of view they can comprehend. Those who protest this abomination should instead point out the fantastic degree of military ineffectiveness of such use of massive air power. One should point out the monstrous waste of money, raw material, and effort. One should point out the terrible burden on taxpayers such a policy imposes, especially in an election year. This they will understand, not the one-sided killing of Asian people on a mass-production basis.

Sen. Jackson's Candidacy Offers Democrats New Kind Of Choice

WASHINGTON — Sen. Henry Jackson's bold reach for the Democratic presidential nomination is a threefold boon.

It is good for the country to have a man of his caliber seeking the presidency. It is good for politics. It is good for the Democratic Party.

He gives the Democrats the opportunity — if they so choose — to nominate a full-fledged man of the political center.

He gives them a candidate who would have, more than his competitors, the eager support of rank-and-file labor and union leadership.

He would give the voters an opportunity to choose a liberal Democrat who at the same time is determined to keep America strong. His view is that America can't expect to remain at peace by leaving the peace-keeping mostly to others.

IN THIS RANGE of choice, Jackson offers the Democratic Party a distinctive alternative, a candidate who, in the areas of both domestic and foreign policy, stands where every Democratic President has stood from 1932 to 1964.

This is why many Democratic leaders are relieved that Jackson is going after the nomination actively and energetically.

This is why Jackson has support from both Democratic and Republican middle-road conservatives. They trust his steadiness.

THE JACKSON STRATEGISTS are convinced that their bigger hurdle is not winning the election but winning the nomination. They believe he would be stronger than any other candidate against President Nixon. They see him as a most effective challenger to Nixon on the main issues. My information is that Nixon feels the same way. He would rather run against any other Democrat than Jackson.

His Democratic opponents want to cloud Jackson with the image of super-hawk. Yet super-hawk means he wants to see the United States be the world's long policeman, wants the United States to defend every piece of real estate in the world against aggression. This is false. He believes defending South Vietnam was prudent, but he opposed Nixon's incursion into Cambodia and as evidence of this he voted for the Cooper-Church amendment to keep GIs out of Cambodia.

"I'm neither a hawk nor a dove," he says in describing his stand on military and security matters. "I just don't want my country to become a pigeon."

The state of Washington has a balanced electorate — a large labor vote, a substantial farm vote, and urban and suburban constituencies. It is as balanced, if not more balanced, than Maine, Massachusetts or Minnesota. Jackson won reelection to the Senate in 1970 in his state by a higher percentage of the total vote than Muskie, Kennedy or Humphrey did in theirs. He won with 84 per cent of the votes, higher than any other Democrat running for office.

Canada's Gas Wells May Hold Trudeau's 'Revenge'

By ERNEST B. FURGUSON

MONTREAL, Can. — Anyone in the States who is at all conscious of the growing grumpiness in Canadian-American relations also is likely puzzled about it. Who is right — the United States, embracing Canada in a friendly bear hug that is smothering its economic and cultural personality, or Canada, seeking desperately to squirm out of the bear hug without losing all the benefits of our closeness?

Fortunately, for all those who have not figured out a clear answer to this frustrating situation, Ralph Nader gave the matter his brief attention the other day, and the truth is now a matter of public record.

Nader whipped into Montreal and told a series of audiences that Canada has lost its ability to defend against American economic domination, and in fact has become a mere "supercolony" of the United States. If Ottawa does not consider nationalizing its resources, such as oil, then Canada may wind up in ever closer economic union with the United States, he said. He added that a few gloomy statements by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau were an inadequate response to the economic problems created in Canada by Mr. Nixon's 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

HAVING SPOKEN, Nader headed for the airport to fly another bombing mission against General Motors or Florida orange juice or the people who own California or some other target, and as his plane took off the citizens of Montreal, Vancouver, Toronto, Winnipeg, Igloolik, Great Whale, Mammamattawa and unnamed fishing and lumbering settlements in Quebec and the Yukon stood just where they stood when he arrived — perceiving the problem perfectly, but still wondering how to solve it.

Those citizens and Canada's leaders know well that Canada's economy is tied so tightly to that of the United States that any drastic changes will hurt them at least as much as their absentee board members and trading partners south of the border. So what is done, if for purposes of politics and ego something must indeed be done, has to be carefully considered, as inoffensive as possible to Washington, and certain not to backfire to Canada's greater disadvantage.

In fact, even as Nader was needling Trudeau about his gloomy statements, the Canadian government was considering, rejecting and implementing various responses — accompanied by polite disclaimers that those moves had any connection at all with the Nixon surcharge that affects about 25 per cent of Canada's exports to the United States.

MITCHELL SHARP, the external affairs minister, told Commons that Canada had no intention of swapping any concessions for lifting of the surcharge. That would encourage other countries to impose such levies and then demand concessions for their removal. He said specifically that there was no truth to reports that Canada was going to bargain her energy resources against the American surcharge.

But earlier Trudeau cut off energy talks with American representatives promptly after the surcharge was imposed. And last week, at about the same time he indicated those talks might now resume, Canada's National Energy Board turned down the sale of 2.66 trillion cubic feet of natural gas to three U.S. companies — a deal worth $1 billion over the next 15 to 20 years. It was the first time since major gas sales to the United States began nine years ago that the board had flatly denied such applications.

No, of course, the decision had nothing to do with the surcharge, the government told questions. The National Energy Board is nonpolitical. But you and I and the rest of the world know that the best negotiations often start out in disguise. And the Canadian government is aware in great detail of the fact that consumption of natural gas in the United States has been growing at a rate of 6.6 per cent a year, and at that rate, proved reserves in the States are enough for only the next 13 years.

TALK ABOUT TRILLIONS of cubic feet of gas may mean nothing to the marching anti-American student with his placard or the trapper along Hudson Bay.

But if Mr. Trudeau is the pragmatist he professes to be, he will realize that most Canadians are quite happy with the high living standard that grows directly out of their ties with the United States. He will continue to cater to their pride without threatening their pocketbooks.

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 26, 1961

The Soviet Union proposed that the United States, France and Britain agree to ban all nuclear tests.

A group including three who were officers of the former First National Bank in San Rafael applied for a state charter for a new downtown bank to be called Bank of Marin County.

Marin County Board of Supervisors voted 3-to-2, T. Fred Bagshaw and Robert H. Trumbull dissenting, in favor of widening the Waldo Grade approach to the Golden Gate Bridge from four to six lanes.

Marin County supervisors authorized investigation of possibility of remodeling the old Coleman School building in San Rafael to accommodate the entire staffs of the county schools and road departments.

Thompson's Resignation Saddens Even His Most Bitter Enemies

It is probable that even trustee Robert Thompson's worst enemies were a bit disappointed at his recent resignation from the Sausalito School District board.

Even many of those who disliked him and his ideas and fought with him at every turn agreed he was a most worthy opponent and a witty, intelligent foe. Not everyone can make the people who hate him laugh, but Thompson had the ability to do just that.

With Thompson's resignation, control of the school board is again up for grabs, since the remaining board consists of one "liberal" and two "conservative" members.

It will be interesting to see whether the liberal contingent of the Sausalito community will make a real attempt to regain power from the conservatives who have held the reins for more than a year now.

AT STAKE NEXT year will be the future of the district, since trustees are considering plans for its reorganization.

Most school district watchers had assumed the city's liberals had died, moved away or been lost at sea, since almost none had been heard from since the successful recall election last June.

But a recent meeting of the school board to discuss the possible re-organization brought the old guard — including three former trustees — out in force. During the meeting reporters kept expecting former Principal Sidney Walton and former Supt. Phil Schneider to walk in the door at any minute, perhaps even hand in hand. But the two leaders of past district controversies did not appear.

IN THE LAST SEVERAL months many Marin residents and groups have begun to demand a recycling system for solid wastes and water in any new sewage treatment facilities planned in the county.

Some say the recycled solid wastes can be used as a mulch and fertilizer for pasture land and even for food crops.

If this comes to pass and recycled sewage catches on, it may produce an interesting and unexpected side effect, at least if reports from other areas where recycling is already taking place are accurate.

It seems that certain plant seeds are impervious to the treatment process and consequently sprout and grow wherever the recycled wastes are spread.

Our informants say that among the seeds which survived treatment are those of tomatoes and of that wicked devil weed, marijuana.

So the pot which is flushed either during a raid or as a convenient method for disposing of unusable seeds and stems may go on to another life, maybe even in the gardens of police, state and county officials!

A friend who lives near a Marin treatment plant confirms the story, saying that a bumper crop of marijuana grows up and flourishes every spring in the vicinity of the facility. He's not complaining, but refuses to give his address or the name or location of the plant in question.

2 Service District Aides' Terms Set

Richard L. Less and Vernon H. Nicholson, members of the newly combined Terra Linda community services district board, will serve two-year terms on that board.

The two short terms were decided upon at a meeting of the new board, which does not officially become effective until January, in order to stagger the election of board members in the future.

Less and Nicholson drew the two-years terms at the meeting Tuesday. The other newly elected board members — Robert N. Bennett, Hubert F. Cooper and Harold J. Reese — will serve four-year terms.

The new board was elected Nov. 2 when Terra Linda voters approved merger of the community services district and the recreation-park district.

Less said the new board members discussed reorganization plans in general Tuesday and made several decisions as well.

He said the budgets of the two districts will be retained through the end of this fiscal year. Beginning with fiscal 1972-73, the budgets will be combined.

Henry Chazankin, the only candidate not elected to the new board, was named by the board to serve as chairman of a citizens advisory committee to act as a liaison between the board and the community.

Less said the board is seeking volunteers for the citizens committee.

The outgoing community services and recreation-park boards will meet for further reorganization discussions at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13 at the recreation center, Less said.

David Harris To Appear In Marin

A speech by pacifist David Harris, sponsored by Marin Peace Coalition, is scheduled for 3 p.m. Dec. 4 at the College of Marin gymnasium.

Harris, former student-body president at Stanford University, spent 20 months in federal prison for refusing induction into the Army.

Since being released from prison last March, Harris, who is married to singer Joan Baez, has been speaking in opposition to the Vietnam war. He has said he considers himself a nonviolent revolutionary, advocating a complete overhaul of American institutions.

His appearance in Marin will be a benefit for the Alternative Institutions program of the peace coalition.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

'Refer To Staff' At Heart Of County Government's Ills

It was good to see and read the two editorials — Jack Craemer's 'Editor's Notebook' on Saturday and the editorial on the Civic Center in Tuesday's issue. They were right on target. I know because I was intensely involved in the matters they dealt with. If you missed either of them try and get a copy. It will be worth your effort.

Basically it's a matter of abdication — a policy of letting "staff" do it and we'll rubber stamp it. The following excerpts are prime examples. In a recent issue of the I-J this:

"REPLY TO '70 Grand Jury Due Study — Marin County's response to the 1970 grand jury report will be considered tomorrow at the county board of supervisor's meeting . . .

"The response, a 16-page document of quick answers to questions and findings of the 1970 jury, is more than five months late.

"According to a covering letter the delay is atrributed to a 'staff oversight,' which one county official blamed on (the) former county administrator . . .

"In part of the report, the supervisors responded to criticism that they had too great a dependency on the county administrator's office, saying that the problem has been corrected.

"Although the board of supervisors has minimized its reliance on the delegation to the county administrator, the board agrees that the 1970 incumbent (Bruce) in that office 'gave the image of excessive authority . . . Personnel changes since that time, have corrected the problem.' "

MY FRIENDS, that is just some more hoo-mali-mali. Will the supervisor or supervisors who wrote that 16-page reply please stand up?

Consider this: From this column of April 30 — At a dinner meeting of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, Bruce was the invited guest. Mrs. Margaret B. Azevedo, the chairman, paid him high tribute for courage and competence. Supervisors Michael Wornum, Peter Arigoni and Arnold Baptiste were also in attendance.

Wornum (apperantly acting as spokesman) expressed regret that "political necessity" had forced the supervisors to press for Bruce's resignation. He also said, "The job you did for the county can never be fully repaid."

Conditions haven't changed. They are all just trying to make less waves. All one has to do is the read the minutes of the board meetings. Are matters referred to different members of the board to report back? Not so! It's the same old gag. "Refer to staff." Makes things sound more important.

He's Back Playing 18 Holes Of Golf

ENID, Okla. — Two years ago, C.C. Waggoner gave up golf. It seemed a little strenuous.

But he's back now. On his recent birthday, he played 18 holes.

"I did fair," he said later. "The last hole, I made in four."

Hints For The Holiday Wardrobe

(I-J Special Report)

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — For a creative holiday wardrobe you can make party and at-home costumes in little more than an hour, according to the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, who suggest three basic designs.

Endless variations begin with a basic bodysuit, a yard or so of fabric and some paste-on holiday trim.

A Miss Santa Claus suit starts with a bold-ribbed bodystocking in green. A wraparound miniskirt and a Santa hat are fashioned from red velvet with bunny fur circling the hem of the skirt and the neckline and wrists of the stocking.

Ideal for relaxed gatherings, intimate holiday dinners or evenings at home is the ensemble which begins with either a lacy or a textured bodysuit. An accent of luxury comes from a plush velvet skirt, slit up the side and highlighted with a contrasting waistband. A neckband, made from the waistband material, is spotlighted with a sprig of holly.

A MEDIEVAL look can bring centuries of Christmas tradition to this year's party, and its basic is a bodysuit in either a sparkling metallic thread or a solid color. A tunic is worn over the bodysuit. In maxi or minilength it is especially easy to make from felt, which requires no hemming or lining. Trim the tunic with contrasting or metallic braid or an applique design.

The beauty of these moodmakers is their simplicity. Few, if any, patterns and very little time required.

The big secret is the bodysuit which you'll find in hosiery departments and the new stretch yarns make possible a good fit for petite and mature silhouettes.

After the holidays, you can combine the same bodysuit with skirts or pantsuits, and continue wearing them throughout the winter season.

Old Drape Uses

Drapes that are badly worn can be used to make covers for machines, as packing material and as dust cloths. Your first impulse may be to try to make slipcovers from such drapes. But don't unless the drapes pass this test: Wet a spot that has hung near center of window and pull with fingers. If damage results, don't waste time making slipcovers. The drapes are too worn.

A new razor has two parallel blades and the manufacturer says it removes about 40 per cent more hair than does a single blade edge applied over the same conditions. The razor for women weighs only one ounce, the manufacturer says.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Should There Be Double Standards For Living, Dead?

DEAR HELEN:

Talk about double standards — they apply not just to men and women but to the dead and living.

Lately there's been a rash of exposes about the private lives of famous men, now dead. While these presidents and political leaders were alive, we peons were led to believe that they were great family men and would never stray from the marital bed.

But let them be gone for a few years and facts — which were certainly known in inner circles all along — get printed.

Here's my question: If it's news now, why wasn't it even greater news when the men were alive? My opinion is that a man's love life is his own private affair and should be honored as such, at least until all his immediate relatives (who could be hurt by scandal) are also dead.

If chroniclers don't feel this way, then they should follow their "honesty" through and tell the truth about the famous man at the time it is happening. What do others think? — DAN

DEAR DAN:

An unwritten law of politics is: hit your opponent with everything but his extra-curricular sex life — possibly because he can pay you back in kind. After he's dead, you can't affect his vote-getting power, so a "personal story" is no longer considered dirty pool. (Instead, it's highly saleable "dirty linen.")

I'm with you, Dan. We have precious few heroes. Why tarnish their memories with exposes about affairs we considered their own private business while they were living? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Two years or so ago you quoted the director of a home for unwed mothers as saying that perhaps half of the under-15-year-olds were there as the result of incest. I was shocked and unbelieving — then. I'm not any more.

Thank heavens our Nancy, age 13, could have an abortion. But the mental damage is what frightens me. She won't talk about the pregnancy. Says it was caused by "a boy," but she had no boy friends, was so over-protected by her father that there were no opportunities. She is painfully shy.

There were opportunities at home. I'll never be sure, but how can I keep on living with a man I suspect? How can I keep my daughter in this house? How can I keep us all from going crazy? We live in silence. I can't sleep at night. I'm ever watchful. I can't voice my suspicion to anyone. The only thing worse than living with uncertainty is to find out beyond doubt that it is true. Knowing why husband — it could be!

What can I do? — SHATTERED LIFE

DEAR S:

You can't go on living with this kind of suspicion, whether you stay with your husband or leave him. Nor can your daughter carry her burden alone all of her life — whether it's protecting a twisted father or facing your silent accusations.

Counseling for both you and your daughter is an absolute necessity. I don't know what you'll learn, but believe me, the truth won't be nearly as bad as the uncertainty! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother thought my dad was the world's greatest, truest man. After his death, I was going through his papers and came across a love letter which strongly indicated he was having a long-time affair with his secretary, now also dead. Does mother have a right to know? — SON

DEAR SON:

NO! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

'Let Me Be The First To Wish...'

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Oh, brother, I thought to myself. What's this fool up to? I tried to ignore the man who was grinning broadly and honking his horn as he paced his car alongside mine as we drive toward the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

He continued to honk and wave.

Maybe it's an emergency — my rear tire is flat. (Nope.) He's a long lost friend that I don't recognize — an Afro-American Rip Van Winkle. I glanced at him again. (Nope.) A stranger (with emphasis on strange).

HE SEEMED please to catch my eye at last and waved wildly.

An escaped mental patient? A drunk? I changed lanes. He made a similar adjustment and soon we were again lane by lane — side by side.

Smiling broadly, he continued to gesticulate. I glanced his way again. Actually, he looked quiet comical, but I didn't dare smile. After all, this is the big city and one never knows what kind of nut one's dealing with. If he were on the make, he would take the smile as a positive response to his attentions. If he were a paranoid schizo, he might interpret a smile as "making fun of him" and go into a rage — in so doing, accidentally ram my car off the bridge and into the bay. I changed lanes again.

He continued to smile and honk his horn as we neared the toll station. Finally, he dashed in front of me and stopped to pay his toll. I drove up behind him.

The toll agent was obviously amused. "No charge lady, the guy up ahead just paid your toll for you."

I DROVE as slowly (reverse psychology) as the flow of traffic would permit, but soon he was at my side again. Honking his horn, he held up a red sign with black lettering — "Let Me Be the First."

This fool is really crazy! The first what? For crying out loud, I've got three kids. And for the price of the bridge toll . . .

Up popped another sign — "To Wish You A Merry Christmas."

Still grinning, like a fool, he took the next exit off the freeway and disappeared.

Well, that was certainly one way to participate in Holiday Mania USA — that frosted fantasy that has become a commercial monster, much in need of human revitalization.

Suffice it to say, because reality for many people is very harsh, the Christmas fantasy is not one were likely to give up. But there are ways to salve some of life's tediousness, harshness and unhappiness.

DURING THE 25 or so shopping days until Christmas, especially for those folk with one lean paycheck until Christmas, we might shop around for humanitarian ways to convey the holiday feeling of "goodwill toward men." These attitudes and actions will hopefully carry over after the holiday season.

Try speaking to someone you know only vaguely. Smile at a stranger, even a paranoid schizophrenic. Congratulate your children on an improved spelling test. The kids can congratulate mom on making the hot cereal lumpless for a change and clean up their rooms without grumbling.

Write just a line to a friend or relative you have put off writing to all year. Call your ex-husband's mother and return the books you borrowed from the local "soft touch" resident.

Let an elderly person have your bus seat. Hopefully it won't shock him to death, and tell your spouse you still have a thing mentally for him or her.

There are ways and, by the way, let me be the first, or second, if you've met that nut on the bridge, to wish you a Merry Christmas.

Parental Guilt Tied To Family Breakdown

(I-J Special Report)

SAN FRANCISCO — Responsibility often changes to guilt for parents of children who have problems, according to social worker Ken Miller, who works with parents of girls living at Mount St. Joseph's Home for Girls in San Francisco.

Without knowing what has happened, communication lines close between parent and child, and the generation gap becomes a crises, he says.

Often when teen-agers cannot face up to family problems such as a parent's remarriage or the mental breakdown of a parent, they begin to skip school, stay away from home or experiment with drugs. Their behavior compounds the original problem, and parents find themselves with a teen-ager they cannot control.

The home is one of several in the Bay Area providing substitute home care in cases where family counselors or the court recommend out-of-home placement.

The small group living under constant adult supervision and emphasis on remedial education to bring girls up to grade level are important aspects of programs of the homes. A new approach is to provide counseling for a girl and her family beginning at the time of her admission. In some cases early counseling has restored a sense of worthiness to parents who felt stigmatized because of a misbehaving child.

By understanding their own behavior, the parents are able to provide constructive help for their daughters in less time than before.

Physicist Creates A Fabric

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)— Elsa Garmire doesn't really like fashion shows.

But she had to go to one put on by the Wool Bureau Inc., at the California Institute of Technology, and to the dinner preceding it at the faculty club, because she was the guest of honor.

The young Cal Tech physicist used laser beams to create a swirling multi-colored print for the fabric in a spaceage eveninggown being modeled as the climax of the show.

"I'm anti-fashion," she said. "But I've been working with lasers for 10 years, and I'm interested in promoting the idea of laser art.

Dr. Garmire had been photographing laser beam abstracts and selling them as wall hangings, and doing laser light shows for quite some time.

"Then a newswoman interviewed me as one of Cal Tech's 'groovy people,'" she said with a laugh.

"I showed her what I have been doing with lasers, and said I thought it could be used for printing fabric. She got in touch with the Wool Bureau and they got in touch with me about the idea."

DR. GARMIRE projected the laser-image onto a wall and photographed it. Then Andre Dorlet made a silk screen of it and it was printed on wool jersey in more muted tones.

"I guess they had to do that, so it wouldn't be too gaudy," Dr. Garmire said, with a touch of regret.

"I'm a scientist and an artist," Dr. Garmire says. "I don't like things to be put in boxes—art here, science here. I want to combine them, so anyone can do anything they want."

The native of Hinsdale, Ill., met her husband, Gordon, a physics professor and expert on cosmic x-rays, when she was studying physics at Radcliffe and he at Harvard.

"I'm a very unliberated woman," she says.

"I got married on the day I graduated from college, and I'm just lucky I picked someone I still get along with so well."

THE COUPLE got PhDs at MIT, where she worked with Dr. Charles Townes, who won the Nobel Prize for innovative physics while she was studying under him.

Her elder daughter, Lisa, 6, was born the day she finished her thesis.

Now Dr. Garmire is a senior research fellow in integrated optics, but she works only part-time, devoting her attention to Lisa and Marla, 3.

A vice president of the Los Angeles chapter of the organization, Experiments in Art and Technology, Dr. Garmire was a consulting engineer on pavilion at Expo '70, and made two trips to Japan to oversee the light designs and safety measures.

"It's my secret dream to make laser art as popular as Peter Max designs," she said.

Pressure On Children's Programs

Because a Newton Center, Mass., mother became incensed over what her children were seeing on television, there is now a national group dedicated to upgrading children's TV programming.

Evelyn Sarson, who started it all in 1968 with three of her Newton neighbors, is now president of Action for Children's Television. As a result of ACT's members, numbering some 800 with thousands of other supporters, the Federal Communications Commission is now considering ACT's guidelines.

THE GUIDELINES recommended that commercials in children's shows, be replaced with a mention of the sponsor's name at the end of the show, that shows be designed for children of varying ages, and that children's program hosts be prohibited from touting products on the air.

So far, ACT has generated some 80,000 letters to the FCC to this end.

In an article in the November McCall's magazine, Mrs. Sarson, who had worked for the news service Reuters prior to coming to the U.S., says that her own rules for her children's television watching are time limits.

"I ALLOW them to watch whatever they like, and often on Saturday mornings I sit with them to get their reactions. Sure, they watch a lot of junk, but I think parents should express their opinions. If you think the programs are terrible, say so," she said.

Her own children are a daughter, 8, and a son, 7. ACT operated from members' home until a few months ago when a private grant enabled it to rent an office at 46 Austin Street, Newtonville, Mass. There Mrs. Sarson works each day until the children come home from school.

Pantsuits Up

Sales of pants and pantsuits this fall are up about 35 per cent, report women's clothing stores, according to Women's Wear Daily. The pants are remaining more popular than the ankle-length skirt, which has also been a best-seller. Classic sportswear and layered look are reasons given for the popularity of the pants this fall.

Modest Minismock For The Expectant

The modest minismock coat is the ensemble ladies-in-waiting will wear next summer, according to Women's Wear Daily.

The snappy cotton smock and matching coat with a floral chintz yoke is one of the maternity looks both French and American mothers-to-be will wear.

Right Facial Makeup Is A Matter Of Need

When choosing the correct facial makeup, a woman must consider her own specific complexion needs, according to beauty authority Max Factor, if she is to achieve the most beautiful results.

On normal skin almost any makeup will be suitable, so it is simply a question of personal preference, depending upon the amount of coverage desired.

If you have a dry skin make sure your complexion is getting an abundance of beneficial moisturizers. Select a moisturizing foundation, and apply an undercoat of untinted under makeup lotion for added protection.

Oily skin looks best with a light, non-greasy cake foundation. For young makeup users whose skins tend to be oil and sensitive, a gently medicated, hypo-allergenic foundation.

A combination skin, one that is dry in some areas and oily in others, is particularly enhanced with a light liquid or fluid foundation. In this instance, apply an under makeup moisturizer to the dry areas.

Not Dull, Drab

Selecting meals that have something from each of the four food groups (milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals) does not mean they must be dull or drab. A juicy hamburger patty, topped with crisp lettuce and sliced ripe tomatoes, served on a toasted enriched bun along with a glass of cold milk, is an excellent example of a meal that includes each of the four food groups.

A Sewing Tip

No more tangled threads on spools in the sewing box if you place a thumbtack on one end of the spool and twist the thread around it.

Marriage Rate On Rise During The Last Decade

(I-J Special Report)

NEW YORK — The marriage rate in the United States has risen 26 per cent in the last decade, according to a study on international marriage trends by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Last year, the United States recorded 10.6 marriages per 1,000 population, compared to a record low of 8.4 in 1961, and now has the highest rate in the world.

Nevertheless, note statisticians, although the United States ranks high, in the past seven years Canadian marriages increased more than 27 per cent, with the annual number of marriages reaching new highs in each of the last three years.

All English speaking countries are reporting increases in marriage. Another example is Australia, which recorded a rise of 24.3 per cent in the past decade.

Puerto Rico's marriage rate is also high, paralleling that of the United States and Canada — 10.5 par 1,000 population, or a 15.4 per cent increase.

Needlework Festival Brings In $5,500

The Festival of Needlework held this month at the Hall of Flowers in San Francisco netted $5,500 to be used for a training program for high school students at the San Francisco Community Rehabilitation Workshop.

The second festival of needlework has already been scheduled for November, 1972, at the Hall of Flowers.

New Bra Line

A new line of bras, for the first time, comes in odd number sizes — 33 to 39. Current sizes come in even numbers. The manufacturer says in coming out in odd number measurements the bras aren't being changed in girth alone. The contours of the odd-numbered bras are being changed, too.

Rotate Drapes

Rotate curtains and drapes several times a year so that those exposed to strongest sun rays will get a "rest."

SILVER SPRINGS, Md. (UPI)—Colors on modern fabrics are subject to fading in both sun and artificial light.

Think twice before you hang a garment out to air. And keep the lights off in clothes closets, advises the National Institute of Drycleaning.

Nader Hits U.S. On Auto Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Contending that the government's auto safety agency is moving too slow, Ralph Nader today urged Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe to personally intervene in the investigation of defective engine mounts on 1965-69 Chevrolets.

The consumer advocate said the Transportation Department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) has spent two years investigating complaints about engine mounts and still has not acted. In a letter to Volpe, Nader said he has received more than 300 complaints about engine mounts since September.

General Motors has received "at least 1,500," and the automaker also has conceded that it had replaced under warranty guarantee "some 100,000 engine mounts," Nader claimed.

"You must act to halt the spread of this mechanical epidemic which may afflict as many as one in 10 cars now on the nation's highway," Nader told Volpe.

He accused the NHTSA of "callous disregard" for the safety of 1965-69 Chevrolet owners, and urged Volpe to take immediate action to order GM to notify the owners of the possible defects.

"Under the pressure of your action and complaints from thousands of owners, General Motors might also be awakened to their responsibility to repair the remaining defective Chevrolets at their expenses," Nader said.

$42,000 For Birth Pill Mixup

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A married couple has won a $42,000 judgment against a drug store they said mixed up a birth control prescription, causing them to have a child.

Maxine Pearson, 46, and her husband Albert, 47, a plastering contractor, said Mrs. Pearson was given sleeping pills instead of birth control pills, resulting in the birth of their son David, now 6.

They already had three children, all grown, they said, and a grandchild who is a year older than David.

Their suit asked for $67,000 but the jury voted 9-3 to award them $42,000, based on the estimated cost of raising the Child to the age of 21.

Burglary Suspect Pleads Innocent

Christopher Kevin Greene, 20, of Mill Valley has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set preliminary hearing for Dec. 7.

Greene was arrested Sunday by Fairfax police, who said they found him inside an apartment storage building at 2525 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Officers said they found in Greene's car some property taken during a Nov. 7 burglary of the same building.

Innocent Plea To Dope Possession

Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman has set his preliminary hearing for Dec. 7.

McReynolds was arrested Nov. 4 on a Fairfax arrest warrant, which charged that he dropped a small plastic bag containing heroin when police approached him on a Fairfax hill on Sept. 24.

GRACE IN MOTION

A graceful leap is accomplished by Ann Marie DeAngelo of the San Francisco Ballet Company, shown performing the Don Quixote Pas De Deux. She will appear with Novato's Conservatory of Ballet in "The Nutcracker" at Novato High School at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 3.

A Bright Outlook On The Economy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Poll says President Nixon's wage-price freeze has put Californians in a more hopeful mood about their economic well being.

More than three times as many think they will be better off economically a year from now as believe they will be worse off.

Statistical results from the poll, released Thursday, showed that statewide, 66 per cent favored controls on wages and prices; that 38 per cent think the cost of things families buy went up and 54 per cent believe they stayed the same since the Aug. 15 freeze on wages and prices.

Thirty-six per cent of the public believes salaries and income have kept pace with inflation during the past year, and 57 per cent feel that salaries and income have not kept pace, the poll said.

Some 42 per cent feel they will be better off financially a year from now, while 41 per cent expect no change. Thirteen per cent think they will be worse off.

Novato Players Ready Mystery

The Novato Community Players will hold tryouts for Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution" Sunday and Monday at Novato Community House.

Tryouts will be from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday and 7 to 11 p.m. Monday, reported Paul Terry, publicity chairman.

The courtroom drama will be presented Feb. 25 and 26 and March 3 and 4.

Evans Burke, who directed the community players' "Burlesque Ain't Dead" and "The Fantasticks," will direct the play.

Auditions are open to persons at least 21, Terry said. There are roles open for men and women.

Concert Set By College Band

The College of Marin Community Band, conducted by John H. Myers, will present its first concert of the school year at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 11 in the college's Fine Arts Theater.

Other numbers on the program, to be conducted by Myers, include "Music for a Festival" by Gordon Jacob and "March on Sea Songs" by Vaughn-Williams, both original works for band.

The bank also will perform transcriptions of "Rienzi Overture" by Wagner, Polka and Fugue by Stravinsky and "Danza Final" by Ginastera.

Comedy Planned At Redwood

A student production of Woody Allen's "Don't Drink the Water" is scheduled for 8 p.m. next Thursday, Friday and Dec. 4 in the Little Theater at Redwood High School.

The two-act comedy, directed by Joe Wadlington, revolves around an American family accused of spying in a Communist country.

FAMILY

"Black Beauty" — This classic tale of a boy who trains and loves a remarkable horse, only to lose him when the farm is sold. The odyssey of Black Beauty's travels until he meets his trainer again is delightfully portrayed.

Le Mans" — An account of the most taxing and grueling of all auto races in the world. Fictional story seems unimportant to racing fans.

"Marooned" — Film tells of plight of three astronauts who, after completing their test mission in an orbiting space laboratory find they are marooned in space. All technicalities are authentically detailed.

"On Any Sunday" — The variety of motorcycle competitions across 100,000 miles of track around the world is presented in a documentary style with frequent touches of humor. Great photography.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Beneath the Planet of Apes" — Second in a series. As space explorers flee from apes who control earth they discover a civilization beneath the earth.

"Bless the Beasts and Children" — A tragi-comedy gives a realistic and depressing picture about six teenage boys and a camp counselor, all misfits. Their reaction to seeing sadistic sportsmen slaughtering penned-up buffalo is thought provoking.

"Catlow" — An amusing friendly-enemy relationship exists between Catlow, a quick-draw-good-badman and the marshal. Plenty of action, good score, acting and photography. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Escape From Planet of Apes" — The third in a series shows how a young woman and two men cross through a time barrier and land on earth in the year 2000. Their reception is hilarious. The ending would be upsetting for small children.

"Kotch" — Strong on honest sentiment this human comedy is about a grandfather who leaves his son's home and sets up housekeeping for a young unmarried pregnant teen-ager. Highly entertaining.

"The Last Run" — A retired gangster decides to test himself on a last run in helping an escaped convict. Scott's protrayal cancels out movie's defects. Brutal violence, cursing and sex.

"Let's Scare Jessica To Death" — An unintentional parody of bad horror films, this tale of a woman just released from a mental institution is haunted by voices trying to lure her to death. Gory ending and some sex scenes.

"Murphy's War" — British merchant seaman is obsessed with getting revenge against the submarine responsible for the loss of his shipmates. Well done.

"One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" — A grim story about small happenings during one day of a 10-year sentence in a Siberian labor camp. Excellent acting. Filmed in Norway.

"The Organization" — Sidney Poitier returns as Lt. Virgil Tibbs, detective, in search of a murderer following a $4 million heroin robbery. (Boxoffice Magazine).

"Paint Your Wagon" — A lusty, irreverent musical of Gold Rush days in a mining town. Elaborately mounted broad comedy, at times raucous and tasteless.

"Planet of Apes" — A provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodramatic science fiction about three American astronauts who crash-land through a bend in time and discover they are on earth in the year 4000.

"Sacco and Vantzetti" — A controversial film reveals how prejudice and corruption can infiltrate the courts and result in the execution of innocent men. Based on a true case.

"Something Big" — A fair western potpourri mixes satire, comedy and some action about a cavalryman and an outlaw leader who both plan to retire after they accomplish "something big." Sex jokes are quite tasteless.

"Take the Money and Run" — Woody Allen fans will love this hilarious farce about a little sad sack, a bumbling crook, who could never successfully climb the ladder of criminal success.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Play Misty for Me" — A terrifying suspense film about a disc-jockey and a mentally deranged woman who pursues him. Her use of knives on anyone who crosses her path makes this a bloodbath. Amateurish direction.

ADULTS ONLY

"Carnal Knowledge" — The sex lives of two men from college days to middle life done in a two-dimensional, cynical, satirical style which does become tiresome. Language and sex are explicit.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — Set in a frontier town in Washington in the 1890s the conflict in this story revolves around the big boss of the town and the owner of the saloon and brothel. Vulgarity, broad humor and brutality are abundant and graphic.

Weapons Seized

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops exchanged fire with gunmen in Londonderry today and seized a cache of weapons and ammunition from a Roman Catholic school in Belfast, the army said.

DISHEARTENING AFTERMATH — Marion Irving stands amid the blaze-swept ruins of her home. The Irving family faces five homeless months before the house is rebuilt, a plight shared by many Marin families each year. But some aren't as lucky as the Irvings — no one was hurt in their fire and much of the house was untouched by flames.

THE IRVINGS OF TAM VALLEY

What A Family Faces When Its Home Burns

By GEORGE NEVIN

No classroom gives lessons on how Marin families are supposed to cope with problems arising from a disastrous house fire, but if one did, Jay Irving of Tamalpais Valley would be a likely teacher.

Irving has been through it all — the search for food, shelter and clothing, the loss of irreplaceable belongings, the time lost from work — since his home at 511 Shasta Way extensively burned on Nov. 8.

The 53-year-old electrician's plight is similar to that faced by the many Marin families whose homes are partially or completely destroyed by fire each year.

No precise figures are available on how many houses burn in Marin each year or the total amount of loss, according to the fire division of the Insurance Services Co. of San Francisco, formerly the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau.

Irving's family — which includes his wife Marion and three sons, Russell, 16, James, 13, and Jack, 8 — has been living in a nearby hotel since the fire.

Irving said he learned two lessons, and he hopes other Marin families will profit from them: his house was underinsured and it wasn't as fire-resistant as he would have liked.

When Irving bought the two-story frame house in 1956, it was insured for $16,000. Market value of the structure, according to figures released by the Marin County tax assessor, is $15,500, but that doesn't tell the whole story.

For one thing, Irving said, the law requires that many changes be made when the house is rebuilt in order to bring it up to county standards. These changes will be expensive.

Also adding to the cost will be improvements Irving intends to make in order to prevent a repeat of the blaze.

"You can damn well bet there'll be some changes when we're done," said Irving, a hefty man with graying hair, a level gaze and an even voice.

Wooden doors will be replaced by fire-retardant ones, and sheetrock paneling will be used instead of wood, among other changes.

Although insurance will cover most of the rebuilding cost, it won't pay for clothing, furniture and other personal possessions, and it won't pay for motel bills, lost work time and inconvenience.

Irving's experiences immediately following the fire furnish an idea of what fire-stricken families can expect.

Within hours after the blaze was under control, the Irvings, who lost most of their clothing, were reclothed and housed in a motel through efforts of the Marin County chapter of the American Red Cross.

Red Cross worker William L. Braden said the agency has helped 61 Marin families since July 1970, with $5,886 in cash plus clothing and food donations. Most of the families were fire victims, though some were flooded out of their homes, he said.

The role of the Red Cross, Braden said, is to provide assistance until the family gets back on its feet. All donations are made without expectation of repayment, he said.

Assistance came from other sources: a stove, refrigerator and furniture from neighbors; cash from Tamalpais Volunteer Firemen's Association and paid firemen; clothing from Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Fairfax, and money and offers of building materials from Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club.

There's irony in the fact that young Jack Irving discovered the fire almost in time to keep it from spreading — almost, but not quite.

It's even more ironic that one of the Irving's six sons (three live away from home) is a full-time fireman with Tamalpais Fire Department, another son is a volunteer fireman and a third is a former fireman.

When Jack Irving came home about 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 8, he found the two family dogs whining at the front door and the living room filled with smoke.

Inside, he saw a lamp overturned on a couch pillow. The light bulb had burned through the shade and the pillow was smouldering.

"I ran out to get a hose," Jack said, "and then I tried to get the pillow out of the house but it fell apart, burning."

A neighbor was summoned and the fire department was alerted, but by the time the engines arrived the house was engulfed in flame.

Firemen managed to halt the blaze before it completely leveled the house, and two bedrooms were untouched by flames, though not by smoke and water.

Not much else was spared, though. Living room and kitchen were gutted; the roof was burned through in several spots; the garage was partially destroyed; books in the living room had their spines burned off, though the pages and covers were left intact, and almost everything that didn't burn was damaged by smoke and water, including most of the family's clothing.

Mrs. Irving has been running load after load of smoke-damaged clothing through the washing machine in a salvage attempt.

A staggering job faces the Irvings. The house must be cleaned up, and then it'll be five months before the house is rebuilt. Irving has had no luck finding a cheap rental for five persons and two dogs.

Another alternative is nothing fancy but big enough for all — "An old, funky house trailer," Irving said.

"I could park a trailer in the driveway and be close to the house so I could work on it in my spare time."

He intends to do much of the rebuilding himself in order to cut costs.

Thanksgiving Day Strangers Brought Together For A Feast

A hundred and twenty strangers came to dinner yesterday for a Thanksgiving feast sponsored by the Unity Octave in San Rafael's First Presbyterian Church.

Many of the guests came from hotel rooms and boarding homes where they otherwise would have spent a solitary holiday, without any of the family and friendship that are the tradition of the day.

And along with turkey and trimmings, guests were served big helpings of that friendship from Unity Octave volunteers — lay members of four San Rafael churches.

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini was there, table-hopping and shaking hands. Many of the guests he knew; to others he cheerfully introduced himself and chatted.

At least one guest insisted on joining the kitchen crew, and happily toiled an hour serving other visitors until Unity Octave members persuaded him to sit down and eat.

Another guest, Jean Andrew, dined, then stayed on to help clean up after dinner before traveling to San Francisco to see a hospitalized daughter.

Volunteer Nadine Chapman worked all day at the gathering, then went home to find she and her family had nothing but luncheon meat sandwiches for their own Thanksgiving dinner.

The Octave had planned for 200 guests, according to organizers Robert Smith of St. Raphael's and Sherry Ford of First Presbyterian.

"The members were delighted to have time to sit and talk with the visitors, instead of rushing to serve dinner to bunches of guests," Smith and Mrs. Ford reported.

The remaining food was being delivered today to the Street Ministry in Mill Valley, and to the Marin Economic Opportunity Council for distribution in Marin City.

Octave members already were planning today for another Thanksgiving feast next year.

"We'll go to the hotels and the boarding houses and personally invite" more guests, Mrs. Ford said. "Some may have stayed away because they thought it would be churchy. But it wasn't. It was just a good, community, neighborly thing."

The Octave, which draws its members from the Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist and Episcopal churches in midtown San Rafael, was joined by volunteers from other congregations, the Street Ministry, EOC, Marin Senior Coordinating Council, and other groups and individuals in providing the dinner.

Crash Victim Hospitalized

A San Diego man remained hospitalized today with injuries suffered yesterday when a car skidded off Shoreline Highway near Muir Beach at 10:15 p.m.

Three other San Diego residents also were injured.

The California Highway Patrol said he was a passenger in a car being driven south on Shoreline Highway 2.5 miles north of Muir Beach by Manuel F. Chagas, 28. The auto apparently ran off the road on a curve, then caught fire and burned, officers said.

Chagas was treated at the hospital for a bruised shoulder and knee. Also injured were Graham H. Richardson, 26, treated for bruised ribs, and Walter Grzyb, 43, treated for a broken nose and chin and nose cuts.

Petaluma Boy Held On Arson Charge

A young Petaluma boy has been arrested on suspicion of arson in connection with the Nov. 7 fire at Petaluma Junior High School.

Police refused to identify the youth, but said he had been booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall. The fire in the towel room and locker area of the school gymnasium caused $8,000 to $10,000 damage.

Sausalito Worker Killed In Head-On

The California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred at 12:01 a.m. near East Washington Street when Auda's southbound car collided with a car driven by Adolph Edward Fernandez, 35, of 942 Samuel Drive, Petaluma. Officers said Fernandez's car was traveling north in the southbound lane.

Fernandez was reported in fair condition and under intensive care at Hillcrest Hospital with chest injuries and face cuts. Officers said their reports were incomplete and that they had not yet questioned Fernandez, employed as manager of a Petaluma supermarket.

Auda was born and reared in England. He had served the English merchant marine for three years and was a waiter aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth for nine years.

Auda had been a waiter at Ondine's for the past three years and was a member of the Marin County Culinary Workers Union.

He is survived by his wife, Yvonne; a son, Roman Auda; a daughter, April Auda, all of Penngrove; his father, Vincent Auda of Bournemouth, England; and a sister, Mrs. Robert Durham of Ewell, England.

Funeral will be Monday at 2:30 p.m. at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be private.

Boy, 15, Draws 12-Year Term

SYDNEY (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to murdering a woman earlier this year so he "could undress her and see what sex was like" today was sentenced to 12 years in prison.

Martin Carl Leukin, a postal trainee at Collarenberi, about 400 miles north of Sydney, admitted he had stabbed Mrs. Yvonne May Dorrstein, 18, on June 1967.

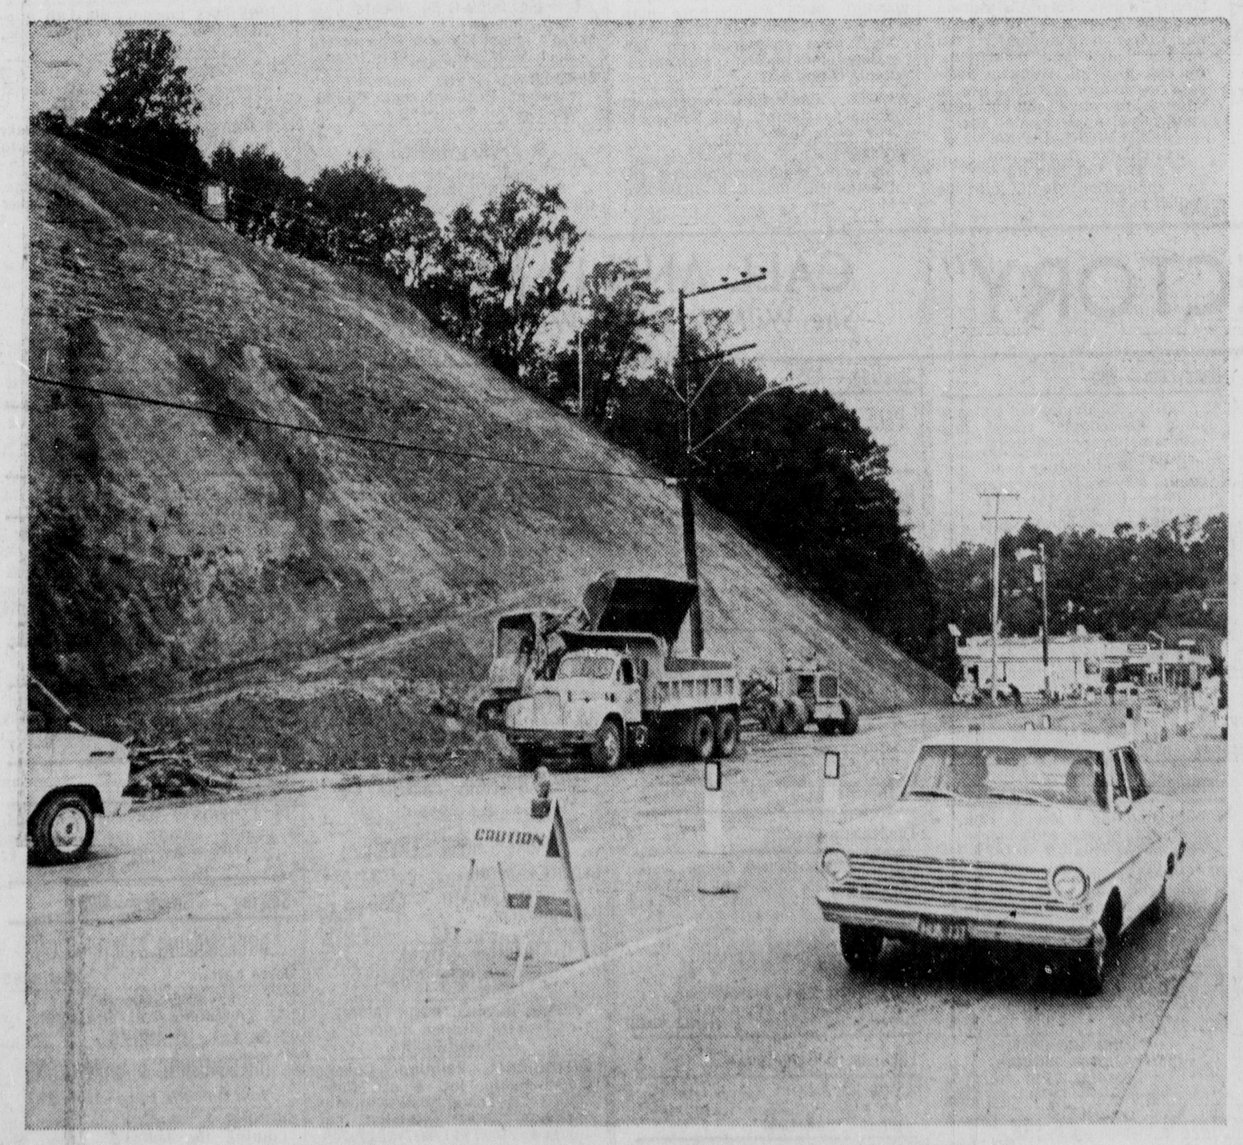
He said even though the crime was "shocking, grave and serious," a life sentence would "destroy and crush" Luekin.



A SOON-TO-BE-GREEN HILLSIDE

Heavy earthmoving equipment digs into the last of the Miller Avenue landslide in Mill Valley as the 10-day slide cleanup project comes to an end. On Monday the bare hillside will be hydromulched — treated with a spray of grass seeds, fertilizer and plastic fibers — and in two weeks it will be "the greenest thing in Mill Valley," in the opinion of City Engineer Stanley M. Bala. He said he expects a small amount of mud to ooze from the slide during the winter rains but nothing that can't easily be hosed off Miller Avenue.

Administration Is Hit On Road Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Chairman Jennings Randolph of the Senate Public Works Committee charged today the administration was delaying completion of the interstate highway network by refusing to commit sufficient funds provided by Congress for the construction.

Randolph said impoundment of funds over the past four years has accumulated approximately $5.4 billion in highway obligations that must be made to the state.

"Until this money is released, interstate building is delayed and inflation continues to push the cost of construction higher," the West Virginia Democrat said.

Randolph made the remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the Commonwealth Club.

He did note that the administration recently released $400 million of impounded funds.

"I hope this action signals an awakening to the facts and a change of attitude that will permit the highway program to come back on schedule," Randolph said.

"Completion of the interstate system and thus the development of a new program is being delayed, though, by the refusal of the national administration to commit all of the funds provided by Congress for the highway program," he added.

Randolph estimated completion of the interstate would cost $74 billion, including ?68.5 billion in federal funds.

In his speech, the chairman said he was convinced the highway program must become more involved in meeting mass transportation needs, especially bus travel.

"For the vast majority of our communities, mass transit, now and in the future, can be provided only with buses," he said. "Even in those areas where rail transit is feasible, a strong feeder bus system is essential to make the rail operation successful."

Randolph said the present $200 million authorization for the next two years for urban highway improvement was "far too low."

"This new system is designed solely to improve the movement of traffic within urban areas," Randolph said, "and I intend to push next year for a fiscal authorization more nearly commensurate with the need."

GOP Senator Defects On Support Of Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In a significant defection from Republican ranks, Sen. James B. Pearson asked President Nixon today to find another agriculture secretary nominee and drop Earl L. Butz —"the wrong man for the wrong job at the wrong time."

In a letter to Nixon written Wednesday and made public today, the Kansas Republican said he was "reluctantly persuaded" that Butz would never gain farmers' confidence.

At least 13 Democrats and two Republicans have announced their intention to vote against confirmation of Butz, who served as a lieutenant to Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson in the Eisenhower Administration and who is portrayed as favoring corporate farming over family farms.

Pearson said he may still vote for Butz if Nixon does not take his advice to withdraw the nomination "because Ixelieve so strongly in the prerogatives of the chief executive to name his cabinet."

"Mr. President," Pearson wrote Nixon, "after careful consideration there is a growing conviction on my part that Dr. Butz is the wrong man for the wrong job at the wrong time."

"During this critical period for the farm economy, it is essential that farmers have full confidence in the man who is to be the chief architect and executor of the nation's farm policy," he said.

Pearson said he doubted Butz could arouse such confidence "and in the absence of confidence, tte best designed plans are destined to failure."

Two other farm state Republicans —Iowa's Jack Miller and North Dakota's Milton R. Young —already have announced their opposition to the nomination of the Purdue University professor and executive of the Ralston Purina Co.

Pearson's announcement was significant because his fellow Kansan, Sen. Robert Dole, chairman of the GOP National Committee, is leading the fight for confirmation.

The administration has conceded that as many as 30 senators will vote against Butz when the nomination comes before the Senate early next month.

New Thai Government Given Official Blessing

BANGKOK (UPI) — Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn tonight read on a nationwide broadcast a letter from King Bhumibol Adulyadej in which the monarch gave his blessing to Thailand's new revolutionary government.

Thanom, who rules the nation as head of the national executive council, pledged that he would be willing to sacrifice his life to preserve the monarchy.

"I hereby acknowledge the seizure of power by the national executive council in order to improve a situation which is dangerous to the nation," Thanom read from the king's letter in a broadcast that was carried on television in Bangkok and throughout the nation on radio.

The king's letter assured the people that the ruling council "will not change the national institution of monarchy and safeguards will be provided to preserve this institution.

"I request the national executive council to carry out its duties with justice for the people and to maintain the unity of the people," the king's letter said. "Thailand will continue to exist as an independent country."

After reading the letter, Thanom turned to face a portrait of the king and the national anthem was played.

Then thanom made a brief statement in which he pledged that the ruling council would "act in accordance with his majesty's letter to the people."

"We will be loyal," Thanom said. "I would sacrifice my life for the monarchy."

It was Thanom's first broadcast since the Nov. 17 coup. A revolutionary party headed by Thanom, then prime minister, staged the bloodless coup which abrogated the constitution, dissolved the cabinet and parliament and imposed martial law throughout the kingdom.

On the night of the coup, revolutionary party leaders met with the king and reported to him what had taken place. The new party quoted the king as saying the monarch hoped the new government would bring unity and progress, but the letter read tonight comprised the first direct quotes from the king on the takeover.

The king and the royal family are revered throughout Thailand.

Thanom has said he will rule Thailand at the head of the council while an interim constitution is being drafted and a new cabinet selected.

There has been no overt opposition to the takeover. The new government has ordered "absolute punishment" for any who act against the national interest and, under martial law, that could mean execution by firing squad.

'Mr. Atlantis' Buried Today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Henry Eichner, honorary national chairman of the Count Dracula Society and leading researcher on Atlantis, was scheduled to be buried today.

Eichner was well known among horror fiction devotees and fantasy fans. His research into the mythical lost kingdom of Atlantis earned him the nickname "Mr. Atlantis."

He wrote three books on the subject, the last of which, "The Atlantean Chronicles" will be published later this month.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Winter Itch Is Common Among The Elderly Due To Drying Skin

Winter itch due to dry skin is a common complaint among the elderly. With age, the skin becomes thinner and amore fragile. In addition, the glands that produce oil and sweat are less active in the winter and more so when the individual bathes too often. The importance of the latter cannot be overemphasized. Good results can be expected if the oldster uses less soap and water, adds bath oil, and applies an emollient after bathing. Oral remedies, such as Periactin or Temaril, may be helpful.

When the usual remedies for itching (pruritus) fail, the elderly person should have a thorough physical examination. The underlying cause for the symptom may be diabetes, a blood disorder, such as leukemia, a lymphoma or cancer or a liver or a kidney disease. Now and then the annoying sensation is of psychogenic origin.

LOCALIZED ITCHING (especially in the pelvic area) may be extremely bothersome. Sudden spasms of intense itching of the anal area (pruritus ani) may stem from a surrounding dermatitis or from fissures, inflammation of tumors of the anal canal. Yeast infections also may be a side effect of the use of antibiotics. In any age group, pruritus ani may represent an allergy to citrus fruits. Emotional stress, sweating and prolonged sitting are other possible culprits.

Temporary relief is obtained by keeping the anal area scrupulously clean. Lukewarm sitz baths are helpful when followed by careful drying and applications of a steroid ointment or a bland dusting powder. Eliminating the cause leads to permanent cure.

PRURITUS VULVAE in older women usually stems from dryness of the vaginal membranes. Estrogen hormones are most helpful. Occasionally the itching comes from a yeast infection (moniliasis), scabies, parasites or a fungal disorder. Emotional stress, sweating, or excessive vaginal secretions may also be responsible.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

EXERCISE AND BURSITIS

K. C. writes: Is exercise good for bursitis of the elbow?

REPLY

Not if the exercises aggravte the distress. There are many good remedies, such as X-ray, diathermy, and hydrocortisone injections.

SEA WATER

O. D. writes: Would it be safe to drink sea water?

REPLY

FERTILITY PILL

Mrs. P. writes: I've heard of birth control pills, but wonder if there is any pill that I can take to get pregnant.

REPLY

Yes, provided you and your husband have no structural defects of the reproductive organs. Thyroid extract is sometimes helpful. And gonadotrophic hormones are valuable if tests show that your ovaries are not producing ova (eggs).

Light Quake Is Felt In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A light earthquake was felt in western sections of the city and in neighboring Inglewood and Culver City today at about 9:13 a.m.

No property damage was reported.

California Institute of Technology seismologists said the quake was very light and were checking their instruments for a more precise reading.

At the University of California seismograph station in Berkeley, a spokesman said "no significant activity" was observed.

He Was Only Doing A Favor

Rahman said he had a dream in which a dead woman asked him to pass on her regards to a relative. He traced the relative, who became hysterical when she heard what he had to say. The result —Rahman ended up in jail.

Police released him Thursday when they found the name of the dead woman and other details Rahman reported in his dream were correct.

U.S. May Lift Top Russ Trade Barriers

MOSCOW (UPI) —Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans indicated today that the United States soon may drop all significant restrictions on exports to the Soviet Union.

"We pointed out restrictions have been greatly reduced in the last year and that we are in the constant process of reducing them," Stans said.

"We think that in a relatively short period of time this will not be a significant issue at all between the two countries."

Elimination of U.S. export restrictions would be a major stride forward in Soviet-American economic relations.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) Wednesday that Soviet -American trade relations "have so far been developed quite insignificantly and are completely discordant with the possibilities of both countries. It should be stated frankly that this situation is due primarily to the preservation of a number of artificial restrictions on trade with the Soviet Union."

Stans was in the visitors gallery as Kosygin spoke.

Stans, the first Nixon cabinet official to visit the Soviet Union, met newsmen before flying to the southern Soviet Union for more talks with officials. He arrived in the Soviet Union Saturday for a 10-day fact-finding and exploration mission.

Diplomatic sources said Stans was "not negotiating anything."

"Our trip has been extremely successful in permitting the occasion to discuss very fully all aspects of the economic relations between the two countries," Stans said.

"We concluded on a note of optimism on both sides that there are some very substantial opportunities for increasing trade in both directions between the two countries."

The Soviet share of American trade is tiny compared with the worldwide U.S. export total of some $60 billion in 1970.

The United States exported $118 million, mostly machinery and leather, to the Soviet Union in 1970 and imported $64 million of Soviet fur, diamonds and ores. The U.S. export figure will double this year, due mainly to sales of surplus grain to the Soviet Union.

Sonoma Wife Held In Killing

SANTA ROSA (UPI) —The wife of a young fireman was jailed Thursday on suspicion of killing her husband.

Mrs. Linette Hagerman, 21, was booked at the Sonoma County Jail.

Nebraska Gets 35-31 Win

TOUCHDOWN — Nebraska's Jeff Kinney (35) hurdled a pile of Oklahoma defenders to score from a yard out in the second quarter Thursday in the college football battle for number one ranking. The white-clad Nebraskans won 35-31 on the loser's field in Norman, Okla.

(UPI Telephoto)

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—P. T. Barnum and "Ben Hur" met on a football field Thursday. It was one of those rare occasions in sports when the product was as great as the promotion.

No. 1-ranked Nebraska defeated No. 2-ranked Oklahoma, 35-31, but it was one of those games that had no loser. The conflict transcended the victory.

Everywhere in the tumultuous Nebraska dressing room, players were shaking their heads and mumbling, "Wasn't that something?" or, "My God, What a game!"

The silence was deafening in the Oklahoma dressing quarters. It was a difficult pill for the Sugar Bowl bound Sooners to swallow —the fact they had played their best and it was not good enough.

Coach Chuck Fairnks said it all when he intoned, "We played it down to the wire and came up short."

Twice the Sooners roared into the lead after being 11 points behind. But the game evolved into which team had the ball last with enough time to do something with it.

That angel of mercy smiled on the Orange Bowl-bound Cornhuskers. They accepted the challenge with 7 minutes, 5 seconds to play with the football at their own 26-yard line.

"There were two things in my mind at that time," quarterback Jerry Tagge said. "We felt all along we could score and we wanted to eat up as much of the clock as possible.

Tagge accomplished both goals. With Jeff Kinney running seven times for 33 yards, the posed and relentless Nebraskans stampeded 74 yards in 12 plays. Kinney carried the last four times from 15 yards out, scoring from the two with 1:38 left to play.

For the afternoon, Kinney ran 34 times for 174 yards and scored four touchdowns.

"This was the last game of our career," the 210-pound McCook, Neb., senior said. "We weren't about to lose this one.

Kinney may be forgiven if he momentarily forgot about Hawaii next week and Alabama on Jan. 1.

Oklahoma's last desperation effort fell far short when quarterback Jack Mildren, who played like an unbeatable tiger all day, was drilled on fourth down at the Oklahoma 15 as he tried to launch another long pass to Jon Harrison.

Outland Trophy winner Larry Jacobson and middle guard Rich Glover nailed Mildren, the attempted pass falling harmlessly to the artificial turf after Glover batted it down.

"It was supposed to be the same route we'd scored on twice," said Mildren. "Someone got in pretty fast. We just took a shot at the touchdown."

Mildren ran for two touchdowns and hit Harrison, a former high school teammate at Abilene, Tex., with 24 and 16-year scoring passes.

A record crowd of 63,385 watched the battle for the national championship unfold at Owne Field along with a national television audience that probably exceeded 80 million.

"Yes, sir, they sold a lot of popcorn today," Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney kidded President Nixon when he called after the game. The conversation, which lasted five minutes, came after Nixon held his end of the line for 30 minutes waiting for Devaney to reach the telephone.

The President also called Fairbanks and mentioned, "I didn't like some of their calls." Nixon didn't identify who he was talking about, leaving his comment open to speculation.

Glover, the brilliant 231-pound junior who made 22 tackles and recovered a fumble, was a constant thorn in Oklahoma's offensive scheme.

"Most of my job was reading the center and going to the fullback," he said. "We felt bad after the first half and we just made up our minds to go out and put it to 'em in the second half."

Oklahoma, with 467 yards total offense, struck with lightning efficiency in the last minute of the first half after being backed up to its 33. Milldren hit Harrison for 43 yards to the Nebraska 24, then did it again for a touchdown with five seconds to go before intermission for a 17-14 lead.

Nebraska, working against a chilling 15-mile an hour wind, tallied twice in the third quarter with Kinney going three and one yard. But Mildren swept end for three yards, then hit Harrison with a 16-yard pass on a fourth-and-five play with 7:30 left in the game.

That set the stage for the Cornhuskers' drive for pride.

"It was an odd feeling for this year," admitted Tagge, noting Nebraska had not been behind on the scoreboard this season.

"But it wasn't anything new to us. We had to do it against LSU in the Orange Bowl. I think I could have killed myself if we'd lost. But we never felt like we were going to lose, we only thought about scoring."

SPORT NOTES

Two Marin Players In Key Soccer Tilt

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Soccer, the European brand of football, is a fast growing sport on the prep and intercollegiate level. With all the ink being spilled about football, American style, the fact that two of the better college teams in the nation are right here in the Bay Area is sometimes overlooked.

These two high-power teams — University of San Francisco and San Jose State — will be squaring off tomorrow at Kezar Stadium, 2 p.m. in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) regionals. Winner of the match will go against the winner of a Chico State-UCLA game for the right to advance to the semi-finals Dec. 28-30 in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

An office visitor the other day was Steve Negoesco, USF soccer coach and resident of Corte Madera. A former USF soccer star from 1947 through the '50 seasons, Negoesco was All-American, and is one of only six men in the USF Soccer Hall of Fame.

ALTHOUGH HE'S one of the most successful coaches in the country, he does it "as a hobby." He actually earns the money to support his wife and six children by teaching biology at Giannini Junior High School in San Francisco.

"I think soccer has come a long way in 10 years in this country," Negoesco said. A man who was born in this country in Jutland, New Jersey — and reared in Romania, Negoesco has done more than his share in promoting the sport. He was the force behind the birth of kids playing in the San Francisco Junior Soccer League.

Five years ago, USF allowed three scholarships for the soccer program. Today seven scholarships are made available to potential soccer stars. Two of the 17 players on the USF varsity are products of Marin high schools — Urbano Boucsieguez of San Marin and Bill Mejia of San Rafael. Both are freshmen, two of the five freshmen on the team. (The NCAA rule to allow freshmen to compete in varsity competition was passed in 1967.)

BOUCSIEGUEZ HAS been a very busy young man this fall at USF. In addition to his soccer playing, he kicks extra points and field goals for the Dons' football team.

"Urbano is very fast, a good dribbler, kicks accurately with either foot, and has a very good attitude," said Negoesco. What more can you say?

USF HAS a record of 13-1 going into tomorrow's game, the lone loss to Chico State. Negoesco's remarkable record at USF is 109 wins, 14 losses, 7 ties. He's taken USF to the regionals seven times, the national quarter-finals five times and the national finals twice. The Dons won the national title in 1966, and ranked No. 2 this year behind St. Louis University, have a good chance to win the big prize this time.

In their one meeting this season, USF blanked San Jose State, 3-0. The Spartans of San Jose, 14-2 this year, are coached by Julie Menendez. Julie has brought San Jose State's soccer program to the top of the class after earlier coaching the school's boxing team for many years, winning NCAA boxing titles along the way.

Ryman, Warmath Ousted

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Football Coach Murray Warmath and Athletic Director Marshall Ryman of the University of Minnesota have been asked to resign after a poll of the university Board of Regents, an informed source said.

The regents secretly polled themselves and were nearly unanimously opposed to retaining the two men in their present positions, the source said Thursday night.

Both Warmath and Ryman have been offered other duties in the administration, it was learned, but neither has responded.

WARMATH TOLD

Warmath was told of the decision last Friday, a day before his team finished its season by defeating Wisconsin 23-21.

Warmath was said to have given little resistance to the decision.

Among those being considered for the athletic directorship were Glen Reed, assistant athletic director; Gordon Soltaus, former Gopher football player; Jerry Kindall, former professional baseball player and now assistant Gopher baseball coach; and Paul Giel, a former Minnesota football star and now a Twin Cities radio announcer. It was learned Giel has turned down the offer once.

Administrative officials have been meeting individually with the other team coaches to inform them of the decision.

SENTIMENT PRESENT

There was sentiment in favor of selecting the athletic director before the coach, so he can have a hand in the coach's selection, the source said.

Warmath, 58, completed his 18th year at Minnesota last Saturday. He has a career coaching record of 97-84-10 and coached Minnesota to the Rose Bowl in 1960 and 1961.

His teams won Big Ten championships in 1960 and 1967, but had losing seasons the last three years and attendance had fallen badly.

SURVIVED THREATS

Warmath survived similar threats to his $28,300 a year job in other years. In 1959, he was hanged in effigy after a 2-7 season, but remained as coach. The next year, his team was crowned national champion, went to the Rose Bowl and Warmath was named the coach of the year.

In 1967 black players publicly charged discrimination against him. The players later signed a petition denying the charges.

That year, the Gophers finished with an 8-2 record and a share of the Big Ten title.

TENNESSEE NATIVE

Warmath, a native of Humboldt, Tenn., was president of the American College Football Coaches Association in 1969. He received tenure in 1963.

The athletic department is projected to have a $390,000 debt by the end of this fiscal year, and regents have expressed concern with the financial situation.

A formal announcement of the decision was expected within a few days.

AUBURN QUARTERBACK

Pat Sullivan Receives Heisman Trophy Honors

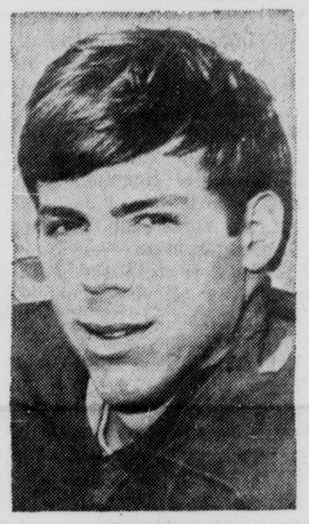
NEW YORK (UPI) —Pat Sullivan, the passing whiz from the University of Auburn, edged Cornell's rugged running back Ed Marinaro to win the Heisman Trophy Thursday night and gain the title of the "nation's best college football player."

In a unique presentation ceremony carried over nationwide television, Sullivan sat stunned in his living room in Birmingham, Ala., as John H. Ott, president of the Downtown Athletic Club in New York announced the winner of the award between halves of the Georgia-Georgia Tech game.

"I never though I had a chance," said Sullivan. "I just sat there."

In voting by sportswriters and sportscasters across the country, Sullivan received 355 first place votes for a total of 1,597 points. Sullivan was the top vote getter in the South and the Southwest while Marinaro was second.

Marinaro, who took the East, the midwest and the far west, finished with 295 first place votes and 1,445 points. Sullivan's overwhelming majority in the south and the belief that Marinaro played against inferior competition in the Ivy League, apparently swung the voting in Sullivan's favor.



PAT SULLIVAN
Heisman winner

Greg Pruitt, a junior running back from Oklahoma, was third with 586 points, Alabama's tailback Johnny Musso was fourth with 365 points and Lydell Mitchell, who has scored an NCAA record 28 touchdowns for Penn State already this year, was fifth with 251 points.

The remainder of the top 10 included; Jack Mildren of Oklahoma (208), Jerry Tagge of Nebraska (168), Chuck Ealey of Toledo (137), Walt Patulski of Notre Dame (121), and Eric Allen of Michigan State (109).

Other players receiving votes were Bill Taylor of Michigan (86), Bob Moore of Oregon (50), Terry Beasley of Auburn (50) and Sonny Sixkiller of Washington (45).

Sullivan has led the fourthranked Tigers to a 9-0 season and a trip to the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day. Auburn still has one regular-season remaining against third-ranked Alabama this Saturday.

In his three varsity seasons at Auburn, Sullivan has become the Southeastern Conference's most prolific passer. The 6-foot; 190-pound quarterback has thrown for 1,891 yards and has led the Tigers to 25 victories in 29 games. He has accounted for 26 touchdowns this year to raise his career mark to 71, the most ever in the history of the NCAA.

As a junior last year, Sullivan led the nation in total offense with 285.6 yards per game and finished sixth in the Heisman balloting.

Marinaro was the favorite to win the award in the east but his skeptics in the south were more impressed with Sullivan's passing and field generalship than with Marinaro's running feats.

The 21-year-old from New Milford, N.J., broke the all-time NCAA career rushing this season as he piled up 1,881 yards to raise his 3-year total to 4,715 yards.

Sullivan, a 21-year-old who is a business administration major, will fly to New York next Thursday to receive the trophy, a 25-pound bronze statue of a football player.

Crashes Mar Road Races In Georgia

It was the second serious prerace injury. In practice earlier in the week, Bob Tullis, captain of the British-backed Group 44 team, was hospitalized with injuries suffered in the crash of his Triumph TR6.

Mission, Kans., will start on the pole in the first event of the 16race series. He qualified his Formula Ford Merlyn at 95.1 miles an hour.

Warriors Upended By 76ers

CHICAGO (UPI) —Minus an injured Nate Thurmond, the Golden State Warriors open a four-game road trip tonight against the Bulls in Chicago.

It's no bull that the Warriors lost Thurmond, Jeff Mullins and Joe Ellis in the second half Thursday night while bowing to the Philadelphia 76ers 112-111 before 4?346 fans at the Oakland Coliseum, Arena. Fred Foster's driving layup with three seconds remaining was the clincher.

But more important is that Golden State will be without the services of the 6-11 Thurmond for at least the next two games because of a gash on his shooting hand. He slammed the hand into the backboard in the third period and it took 10 stitches to close the wound.

Thurmond will miss tonight's game and Saturday night's game at Buffalo. He may be ready to return to action next Tuesday in Milwaukee against Kareem Jabbar and the Bucks.

HERITAGE GOLF

Irwin Leads 'Big 3' In South Carolina

HILTON HEAD, S. C. (UPI) —It seemed rather fitting that Hale Irwin should steal the thunder from the big names in the Heritage Golf Classic on the day that Nebraska and Oklahoma were playing their football classic.

After all, Hale was a Big Eight safety when he was playing for Colorado in the mid 60s —and, to be truthful, he had been pretty anxious Thursday to finish his round so he could rush to the clubhouse to see the BIG game.

The 26-year-old, bespectacled Irwin, from Boulder, Colo., finished the first day's play one stroke ahead of everybody's favorite, Arnold Palmer, and Dave Eichelberger, who did win the Milwaukee Open this summer but actually isn't a lot better known than Hale.

This is the first tournament in four months that has featured all three of this country's top three golfers — Jack Nicklaus, Palmer and Lee Trevino. Trevino may not make today's 36-hole cut since he went into the water four times Thursday and wound up with a 7-over-par 78.

Spurrier May Start Against New York Jets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There's a chance forgotten quarterback Steve Spurrier may start, or see some action, for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday against the New York Jets.

Coach Dick Nolan, who usually announces his starting lineup on Thursday, replied, "I haven't decided," when asked about his starting quarterback against the Jets.

"I haven't said that I wouldn't use (John) Brodie or that I would use Spurrier," he continued. "It's just that I haven't made a decision."

Brodie is completing nearly 53 per cent of his passes for sizeable yardage but he has thrown 21 interceptions in 10 games. In addition, the 49ers failed to score a touchdown last week (against the Rams) for the first time in years.

Nolan has contended right along that the poor offensive showing of the 49ers is not all Brodie's fault.

"When things go wrong, people blame either the quarterback or the coach," said Nolan.

Buy low. Sell high.

The day you sell your car could very well be Black Tuesday.

A common Volkswagen Beetle.

Seasoned traders have known that since a Beetle requires very little upkeep, you don't have to make big investments in oil and gas issues.

When we introduced the Beetle in 1949, a lot of car makers did sell us short.

Now they're trying to make their own.

We'd guess after twenty-three years and eighteen million Volkswagens, somebody out there has spotted a trend.

Marin Deer-Take Plummets To 388

By AL GIDDINGS

Some near final statistics on this year's deer hunts were released by the Dept. of Fish and Game this past week. In Marin County, the deer-take dropped from 422 bucks in 1970 to a 388 low for 1971.

Mendocino County reported the most bucks taken with a count of 3,368 as compared to 4,155 in 1970. Siskiyou reported 1,906 compared to 1,900 in 1970. Lassen had 1,954 in 1971, down about 150 bucks from last year. Modoc County dropped to 1,097 this year; last year the count was 1,430. The only special hunt held in the above counties was in Modoc where 1,025 special hunt deer were taken. The total take statewide for 1971 was 39,864, 449 more than last annum.

Plumas County leads with 96 bucks taken by archers; Mendocino County had 36. Statewide, 419 bucks were taken by archers.

Some 5,413 pheasant hunters were checked through the ten shooting areas operated by the Fish and Game Dept. for the pheasant season opening. They took 1,719 cock pheasants, up from last years take of 1,287 birds. Gray Lodge was the hot spot where 963 hunters took 809 pheasants. Sutter National Wildlife Refuge was second with 305 hunters taking 223 birds. Pheasant hunting in Marin County is almost entirely restricted to the pheasant clubs where the birds are raised and planted by the club owners.

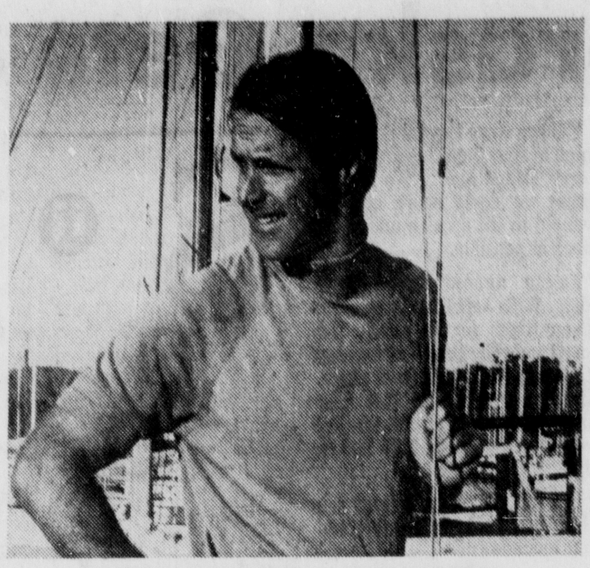
SAY, I was "bamboozled" this past week. I reported to you Tuesday that Pete Valconesi of Point Reyes had taken two silver salmon that weighed 17 and 16 pounds. I was taken in. Here's how it happened. Marty Medin came by and told me that Pete had just told him that he had taken two salmon. Pete swears Marty to secrecy. Of course Marty tells me swearing me to secrecy too! I tell you, naturally swearing you to secrecy.

Well, today, I see Pete and question him about the size of the fish. A seventeen and a sixteen pounder are pretty good fish in anybody's book! Pete now says that he didn't catch any salmon. I've already sent the column to press. What to do? We were at the firehouse, so I asked Pete for his home phone number. I wanted to call Ardel, Pete's wife.

HE GAVE me the number, and I made the call. Ardel told me that Pete caught these two fish; she even mentioned the weights. Naturally, I thought Pete was lying so I'll not report his secret fish to you. Then the phone rang. Pete answered it, and I could hear Ardel giving him you-know-what for making her lie to me. She didn't know I was standing next to Pete, so naturally the whole fabrication came to light. So if you hear about that Pete Valconesi catching any salmon — don't you believe it. And Angels — they lie too. Please note, Father Barron.

While checking duck hunters in Tomales Bay last week, a real old timer came along. It was Walter Frizzi of Larkspur still skulling for ducks as he has done for the past 60 years. He admitted to 74 years, but he's as tough and healthy as ever. The gun he shoots with looks bigger than he is. He had a boat full of birds, and I thought: "Good grief, what's he done?" But with things tougher these days, 15 of his birds were mudhens, much to my relief. He had the first brant I've checked this year — but just one. Two other hunters using decoys had two limits of wigeon.

I GUESS you are wondering what's happened to Sam Knoles. Would you believe it; I questioned all of his friends and buddies about the number of fish he has taken through deer season and my vacation. No one can come up with anything except one seventeen pound striper. The other day I saw him fishing by himself, so I pulled up alongside and proceeded to catch a 75-pound, 66-inch sturgeon. He has been taking pills ever since, so they tell me. This took place below the Richmond Bridge on the first trip out this year. It was on the fly rod — took 25 minutes, using shrimp as bait.



THE SMILE OF A CHAMPION

Mill Valley's Ted McKown exuded joy after being informed he had won this season's Yacht Racing Association's Knarr Championship in San Francisco Bay. The decision, although reached Nov. 10, was withheld pending the conclusion of point tabulations and protest decisions. Once these matters were settled, the YRA figures were released, showing McKown with a low of 20½ points, three points less than runnerup Wynn Oliver of San Francisco. Sausalito's Knud Wibroe was third with 24½ in the 11 regatta series which began May 8 and concludes Sept. 19.

Landry's QB Pays Dividend

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tom Landry's decision to install Roger Staubach as the No. 1 quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys is beginning to return dividends.

Staubach started the season splitting the quarterback assignment with Craig Morton, but the Cowboys' offense suffered from the two-quarterback system and the team had a very mediocre beginning.

But two weeks ago coach Landry gave the No. 1 quarterbacking assignment to Staubach, and the former Heisman Trophy winner from Navy has not let his coach down.

Last weekend he ran 29 yards for a touchdown as the Cowboys downed the Washington Redskins and took over first place in the NFC's Eastern Division, and Thursday he tossed for two touchdowns and set up another with his running as Dallas downed Los Angeles, 28-21.

Staubach's two TD passes were a 51-yarder to Bob Hayes with just 2:06 left in the half and a 21-yarder to Lance Alworth early in the third quarter. His 11-yard scramble in the opening minute of the final period set up Duane Thomas' five-yard TD run for the Cowboys' final score.

The Cowboys, who boosted their record to 8-3, also got an 89-yard TD kickoff return from rookie Isaac Thomas.

Quarterback Greg Landry was the star of the Lions' triumph, passing for two touchdowns and completing 15 of 22 passes for 225 yards. Landry connected on scoring passes of six yards to Charlie Sanders and 17 yards to Earl McCullouch in helping the Lions boost their record to 7-3-1.

Ed Podolak scored three touchdowns for Kansas City, but the Chiefs were unable to overcome their own mistakes and the precision passing of Landry. The Lions' quarterback completed seven passes in a row at one stage.

The big game Sunday is the Baltimore-Oakland clash. Oakland now leads Kansas City by a full game in the AFC's Western Division while Baltimore must win to stay within striking distance of Miami in the AFC's Eastern Division. The Raiders are a three-point choice.

Green Bay is eight over New Orleans, Minnesota seven over Atlanta, Washington four over Philadelphia, San Francisco seven over the Jets, Pittsburgh eight over Denver, Cleveland seven over Houston, the Giants six over St. Louis, Cincinnati six over San Diego and New England and Buffalo is rated a tossup.

Alabama In Battle For Second

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The No. 3 Crimson Tide and No. 4 Tigers, square off Saturday at Birmingham, Ala. in their traditional year-end rivalry and chances are the winner will slip by once-beaten Oklahoma into the No. 2 spot in the nation.

MISSISSIPPI WINS

In the other major college action Thursday, Mississippi trounced Mississippi State 48-0, and Georgia beat Georgia Tech, 28-24. Among the small colleges fifth-ranked C. W. Post was upset 14-12 by Hofstra while No. 7 Samford defeated Ohio Wesleyan 20-10 in the third annual Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl.

In addition to the crucial Alabama-Auburn matchup, other Saturday games include Army-Navy at Philadelphia, 17th-ranked Iowa State at San Diego State, Florida at Miami, Tulane at 10th-ranked LSU, Arizona at ninth-ranked Arizona State and Clemson at South Carolina.

ALABAMA PICKED

Orange Bowl-bound Alabama (10-0) is a six-point favorite over Sugar Bowl-bound Auburn (9-0) in the Southeastern Conference title showdown. The Crimson Tide boasts a strong ground attack led by All America candidate Johnny Musso, while the Tigers are one of the few teams in the nation this year to rely on the passing game.

But with Heisma Trophy winner Pat Sullivan calling signals and Terry Beasley doing the receiving, it's easy to see why Auburn prefers to travel by air. Sullivan and Beasley, both cinches for All-America honors this year, have teamed up for over 700 yards. Beasley has 11 touchdowns and 66 points while Sullivan has a 59.2 completion percentage, 20 touchdowns and 1,891 yards. Sullivan also has a fine receiver in Dick Schmalz, a sidekick from high school.

STRONG RUNNING

But if Auburn is to defeat Alabama it must also contain the Tide's running game. Musso has carried 158 times for 921 yards and quarterback Terry Davis is 120 for 412 as the playmaker of 'Bama's Wishbone T offense. Up front there's a quick, strong offensive line headed by 274-pound tackle John Hannah, another 'Bama All America candidate.

On defense, Alabama is as scrapy and aggressive as Bear Bryant teams of years past, yielding less than 10 points per game. Defensive ends Robin Parkhouse and John Mitchell however, will have to keep the pressure on Sullivan. The Parkhouse-Mitchell duo has been hailed as the best in the south. Auburn will be a good test for that claim.

'Game Enjoyable'—Nixon Tells Devaney On Phone

NORMAN, Okla. — It took President Nixon 30 minutes to get through Thursday, but he persevered to tell Nebraska coach Bob Devaney how much he enjoyed the biggest game of the 1971 college football season.

Devaney declined to comment on what the President told him but Devaney's comments could be heard loud and clear in the Nebraska dressing room. At least part of the conversation obviously dealt with Nebraska's appearance against Alabama in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

"Thank you, sir," Devaney said to the president. "Alabama is a fine team, but I don't think our boys are looking past Hawaii next week."

Devaney was smiling when he made that comment.

The president's phone call came to the press box at Owen Field seconds after the games ended. Several attempts were made to patch the call into the locker room, but finally the operator said Devaney could call back to the White House.

"He can call collect, if he likes," the operator said.

VANCOUVER — Grey Cup festivities got off to a rousing start Thursday when quarterback Don Jonas of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers was named the Most Outstanding Player of the Year in the Canadian Football League.

Montreal Alouette's receiver Terry Evanshen was chosen the Canadian Player of the Year and Wayne Harris, middle linebacker of the Calgary Stampeders, was selected as Lineman of the Year.

Hockey

CHICAGO — A bomb scare delayed the return of several players of the Montreal Canadiens to their homes Thursday, Air Canada disclosed.

The Canadiens had played the Chicago Black Hawks to a 3-3 tie here Wednesday night, and some of the players left in late morning on Air Canada flight 730 for Montreal.

About five minutes before the noon departure time, the air line said, it received a call saying there was a bomb on board "the Canadiens" charter flight," although the departing flight was regularly scheduled and not a charter.

The plane had left the ramp area at O'Hare International Airport and the line halted it, deplaned the passengers and removed all luggage and freight. Authorities and passengers inspected all contents before the flight was permitted to leave.

Bowling

CHICAGO — Larry Laub, San Francisco, moved from fourth to first place Thursday in the $85,000 Brunswick World Open Bowling Tournament, drubbing eight straight opponents for the lead into today's two semifinal blocks.

Laub, holder of two Professional Bowlers Association crowns, averaged just under 234 in match play on efforts of 234, 225, 223, 241, 254, 191, 207 and 216 for a total of 8,866 points in 40 games.

Basketball

SEATTLE — The Seattle Sonics of the National Basketball Association announced today 6-9 center Bob Rule has been sent to the Philadelphia 76ers for two future draft choices and cash.

Bob Houbregs, Sonics general manager, announced the club will receive a second-round draft choice in 1972 from the 76ers and another second-round pick in 1974.

Rule, a first-round draft choice of the Sonics and the lone remaining member of the original team, suffered a torn achilles tendon last year and has seen little action this season.

Texas A & M Coach Fired After Team Loses Finale

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M football coach Gene Stallings, who endeared himself to Aggie alumni in 1967 by defeating the University of Texas and winning a Southwest Conference title, Thursday lost to the Longhorns and with it his job.

The A&M Board of Directors in a late night meeting at the home of university president Jack Williams voted to relieve Stallings of all athletic responsibilities—including his position as athletic director —effective Dec. 1.

The announcement came within hours after the Texas Longhorns trounced Texas A&M 34-14, preserving a Southwest Conference title and knocking the Aggies out of a trip to the Liberty Bowl.

Stallings' job as head coach had been shakey for some time and his firing was not an unexpected decision. The 36year-old coach had produced only a 27-45-1 record in his seven years at the East Texas university.

"A committee consisting of representatives of the athletic council, administration and board of directors will be formed to begin a search for Stallings' successor," a spokesman for the university said. "Marvin Pate, associate athletic director, has been named acting athletic director."

Stallings declined to meet with newsmen after the meeting but said shortly after the Thanksgiving Day game that he had been promised a lifetime contract by the late university president, Dr. Earl Rudder.

"After we won the championship in '67, president Rudder, who has since died, told me that I did not need a contract on paper. He said 'you can be coach at Texas A&M as long as you want to be'," Stallings said. "My contract was not with Dr. Williams. He wasn't here at the time."

"I have never signed a contract since I've been here," he said. "I feel like I should finish out the contract through next year and renegotiate at that time."

When Stallings was hired in 1964, he was heralded by A&M university officials and alumni as "the perfect type to coach an Aggie team."

He had captained the last undefeated Aggie team in 1956 under coach Bear Bryant. He then was an assistant coach under Bryant at Alabama.

Stallings' 1967 team upset Texas 10-7, knocking the Longhorns out of the Cotton Bowl. The Aggies then defeated Alabama on New Year's Day in Dallas. It was the first time the Aggies had played in the Cotton Bowl since 1940.

But since the championship year, A&M slipped to an overall 13-29. The Texas loss Thursday was the crusher.

"I don't think I did a poor coaching job," Stallings said. "The only discussion on my contract was with the president last year. He said it was necessary to have a pretty good season this year. I asked 'what is that?' He said he couldn't base it on X-number of games but we would have to be a contender. When you play your last game with a chance to go to a bowl you're contending for something."

Stallings said Thursday afternoon he wasn't worried about his job despite a 5-6 record.

"I do not believe tonight's decision will be negative," he said. "If I, as an Aggie, were going to make the decision tonight, I would have to vote for me. If we had continued as we started at the first of the year, I would have voted against me."

Wilt's Rebounding Paces Laker Win

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The 7-foot-2 giant is simply playing the best defense of his career—blocking shots, harassing shooters, making the quick feed off the rebound. In short, he's become the most formidable balihawk in the league.

And with each shot Wilt blocks, with each rebound he catches, with each enemy gunner he intimidates into a poor shot, the Lakers may be moving closer to a happy ending to their frustrating saga as the bridesmaids of the NBA.

The man who once averaged 50.4 points a game was up to his new tricks Thursday night and it produced two felicitous results: a club record 12th straight win—139-115 over Seattle—and a one-game increase in the Lakers' lead over Golden State in the Pacific Division of the Western Conference.

Phoenix dropped Detroit, 122-103 in other games Thursday night.

Chamberlain batted away 10 of the SuperSonics' shots, collected 15 rebounds and scored 17 points as the Lakers led from the time Jerry West connected on a jump shot for the opening score. Los Angeles led by 33 points at one point in the fourth quarter as it ran its record to 18-3.

West, involved in all of the Lakers' seven fruitless attempts at the league championship, paced all scorers with 26 points. Jim McMillian added 21. Spencer Haywood was high for Seattle with 24.

Neal Walk scored 20 points in 24 minutes of playing time to lead Phoenix to its first win this season over an opponent in its own Midwest Division.

The Suns had been 0-6 against division rivals before getting good shooting from Walk, rookie Dennis Layton (21 points) and Paul Silas, (18 points). The Pistons, now tied with Phoenix for third place in the Midwest with a 9-11 mark, were led by Howard Komive's 17 points.

Charlie Scott Scores 41 In Virginia Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The 6-foot-6 swingman of the Virginia Squires, the second-place team in the East Division, poured in 41 points Thursday night to spank a 131-118 win over the Pittsburgh Condors.

But the Squires couldn't gain any ground on Kentucky, which had all five starters hit in double figures as the Colonels trounced the New York Nets, 133-117, to retain their three-game lead.

Scott must be feeling frustrated. Wednesday night he popped in 42 points but the Squires absorbed a 120-113 loss to Utah.

Scott did gain the satisfaction, however, of helping halt Virginia's five game losing skid, hitting for 17 of his points in the second quarter as the Squires ran amok with a 43-point effort which broke open a contest that stood at 33-32 after the first quarter. Julius Erving contributed 31 points to a winning effort.

George Thompson's 32 points could not prevent the Condors from taking their third straight loss.

Led by Dan Issel's 34 points, the Kentucky starters totalled 120 points as Artis Gilmore contributed 31, Darel Carrier 29, Cincy Powell 16 and Louie Dampier, 10.

Dampier led a fast-breaking attack that tied the team assist mark of 36. The 6-foot former Kentucky star had 10 of the assists.

Dolphins Swap Stofa To Denver For Draftee

DENVER (UPI)—John Stofa was the Cinderella man of Miami when he first met the Denver Broncos in 1967. Now he's just a quarterback looking for a job and he thinks the Broncos might be the team to give him what he wants.

Miami gave up the 6-foot-3, 210-pound signal caller to Denver for a future draft choice. The Broncos wanted Stofa as a reserve quarterback for young Steve Ramsey, a second year man who moved into the starting position because of injuries to Don Horn.

The first time Stofa came to Denver was in 1967 as a member of the Miami Dolphins. He broke his ankle in the game, a costly injury that deprived him of his starting position and eventually resulted in his being traded to Cincinnati.

Versatile Girl Can Really Hit

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Kendra Samuelson is 13 and batted .500 for a Little League season. Her coach says, "She's one of the best I've ever worked with. She can pitch, play second base and hit the ball 'way out there.'"

When she read that girls don't know anything about baseball, she got most indignant. "Some goofy guy wrote that article. I've never struck out in a baseball game."

Practice And Thought Can Produce Slam Bidding Finding Aces, Kings

With practice and thought, you can learn to bid the kind of slam that depends on aces and kings. The early bidding tells you that the partnership has a count of about 33 points, and then you use your favorite slam-bidding device to find out about the aces and kings. The situation is different when one of the partners has a singleton or void suit since slam is possible if the combined count is less than 30 points — provided there is a good "fit."

Opening lead — ♠ K

LEAPS INTO SLAM

In today's hand, South has 14 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton — almost a minimum opening bid. Nevertheless, it is South who eventually leaps to a slam.

North begins by bidding two diamonds since his hand is a trifle too strong for an immediate jump to three hearts. North plans to "show" his singleton in spades.

South naturally rebids the hearts, and North now makes a key bid: three clubs. This might be simply a club suit, but North has further plans.

COMPLETES STORY

After South shows a preference for diamonds, North completes his story by jumping to four hearts. The jump makes it clear that North is not reluctantly supporting hearts; clearly, North's hearts were good enough for an earlier raise. Why, then, did North take time out to bid his clubs?

INDIRECT MESSAGE

Experts agree that a player who bids three suits, including a jump (or a reverse bid) promises a singleton in the fourth suit. The jump to four hearts suggests a slam if South has the right cards for the kind of hand North has shown.

South would pass if he had K-Q-J of spades, with only low cards in diamonds and clubs. The point count would be the same, but the "fit" would be wrong. In the actual hand, South knows that his two side kings are working cards and that his three low spades are not a threat. He therefore jumps to the slam in hearts.

The defenders can take the first trick, but then South gains the lead, draws trumps and runs the diamonds to make 12 easy tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 10 9 6 2
♡ - 6 3
◇ - 9 8
♣ - Q 10 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. You cannot afford a stronger bid despite the excellent trump support for spades.

'Burglar' Caused Hubby's Lockout

CAIRO (UPI)—When Mohammed Sidky returned from early morning prayers he found himself locked out of his home.

His wife had stacked all the dining room furniture against the door because, she said, she was afraid of burglars.

Sidky believed her until he heard a noise in the bedroom and found a naked man —his wife's lover—in the cupboard.

Sidky locked the man in the cupboard and called police.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Microwave: What Is It All About?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please tell me what is Microwave and the nature of its business? — J.B.

A. Microwave Assoc. (AMEX) is engaged primarily in the design and manufacture of highly specialized components for microwave equipment used in radar and telecommunications systems. Government business, direct and indirect, accounts for roughly 66 per cent of the firm's domestic volume. Sales of components and related subassemblies contribute about 80 per cent of revenues with solid state microwave transmitters and receivers making up the remainder.

Microwave's equipment line is used in the common carrier, instructional television field and broadcast industry for various communications purposes. Although these areas have had their ups and downs in recent years, the total market for Microwave's nondefense communications systems is growing at a rapid pace. Markets which now seem to be coming into their own and which augur well for the company's future growth include: all solid-state television relay equipment for broadcasting and a complete helicopter-borne television system developed by Microwave for use by urban police departments for traffic and riot control. The firm also is gaining entry into the indoor surveillance market with a system for check verification and surveillance in banks. Stock is presently selling at about 24x 1971's estimated net.

Q. What would you recommend as regards to the General Telephone & Elec. (NYSE) plan for reinvesting dividends? I have 250 shares. — O.J.

A. The answer to your question hinges on whether you are building a portfolio or using the dividends for income. If the former is your aim, then dividend reinvestment is a painless means to your investment end.

Based on the current price and dividend rate, you could increase your holdings to 263 shares in one year and to 277 shares in two years. Obviously dividend and price cannot be expected to stay level, but the resulting share holdings won't be too far off.

A Better Showing By The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market put on one of its best showings in weeks today but the dull volume tarnished the performance.

Shortly before the noon hour, the Dow Jones industrial average had rolled up a gain of more than 7 points to 805.64. Volume, however, was around 4-million shares, well off from the average figure for the period.

Of the 1,325 issues traded, there were 693 advances and 321 declines. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a gain of 0.38 to 90.71.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange gained on moderate volume. There were 371 advances against 207 declines of the 790 issues on the tape.

Active Amex issues included Amco Industries, off 1-4 to 8 7-8 on 30,700 shares, and McCulloch Oil, unchanged at 24 7-8 on 19,900 shares.

The rise on the Big Board was led by the electronics and glamors, with IBM, Polaroid and Xerox jumping at least 2 points apiece. Burroughs added 1 5-8, Motorola 1 3-8 and Walt Disney 1 5-8. Pigh-priced Corning Glass slipped 1 3-4.

Dow Chemical added 3-8. The company announced price rises for liquid caustic soda and two other products, adding that the chemicals, Eastman Kodak added 7-8, Allied Chemical and Du Pont 1-2 each.

This represents a 50 per cent reduction in the previous quarterly cash dividend rate. Regular dividends on all classes of preferred shares outstanding will be paid Jan. 1. The Occidental decision to conserve cash was prompted by the possible need for extensive capital for drilling activities in South America by the end of the first quarter.

Across-Board Price Increase

DETROIT (BW) — Chrysler Corp. is increasing manufacturers suggested retail prices on 1972 cars, trucks and optional equipment 3 per cent across the board.

The new prices are effective with shipments made Nov. 26.

Skyjacker Hunt Blunted

WOODLAND, Wash. (UPI)—Fog and rain today hampered the search for a daring hijacker who parachuted from an airliner with $200,000 ransom and disappeared in the Western wilderness.

Police, sheriff's officers and FBI agents fanned out along the foothills of the Cascade mountains, but a search by planes and helicopters was restricted by the weather.

The hijacker, who used the name "D.B. Cooper," took over the Northwest Airlines 727 jet over Oregon Wednesday, collected the ransom —largest ever paid in an American skyjacking —along with four parachutes at Seattle, ordered the plane to Reno, and disappeared somewhere along the way.

It was reported today that one of the two parachutes missing when the plane landed at Reno was sewn shut, but authorities said an experienced parachutist would have used the other one first, and there was even some question as to whether he could have even strapped on the non-functioning chute.

About 35 to 40 law officers took part in the ground search, which the FBI said was centered around Woodland since that was the last place of contact between the crew and the hijacker.

"He's probably no more D.B. Cooper than I am," the agent said.

There were no federal sky marshals aboard the Northwest flight, considered a "milk run" among scheduled flights.

According to Linn Emrick, who supplied one of the four parachutes handed over to the hijacker, one of the two parachutes apparently used in the jump was inoperable.

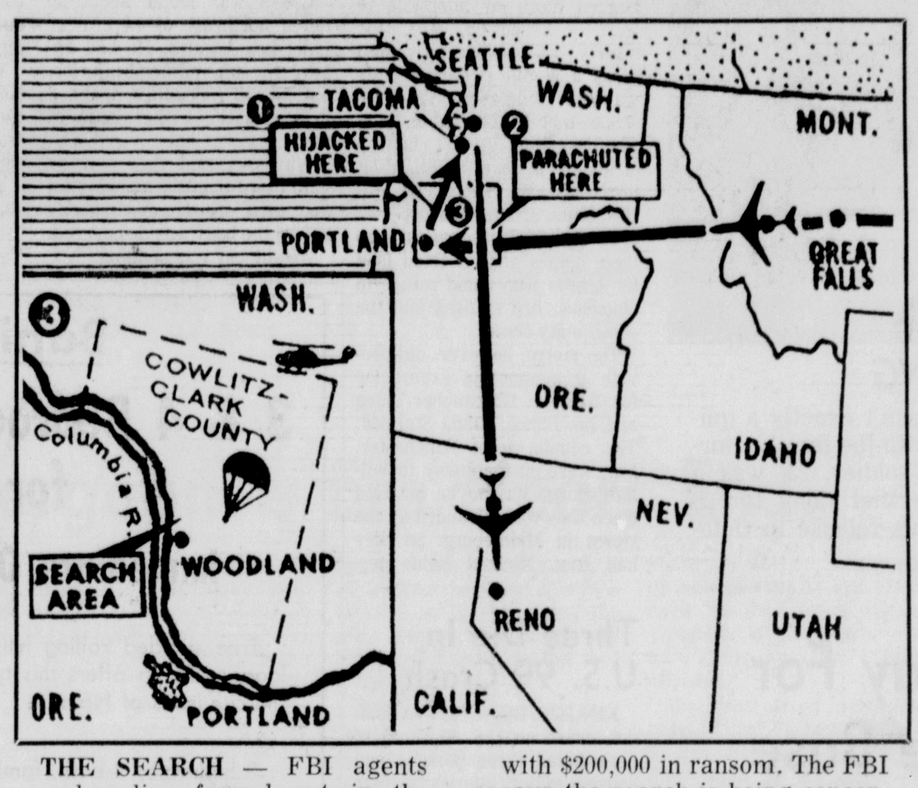
Emrick, of Sky Sports Inc, Issauah, Wash., said the 'chute was for ground practice only and the canopy was sewn shut.

"I didn't know it when I went over and picked it out," he said.

However, most experienced parachutists would use the back pack first and Emrick's was the chest device.

"We're either looking for a parachute or a hole in the ground," said Clark County under sheriff Tom McDowell.

The FBI said the suspect was about 6 feet tall, 175 pounds, with black hair and an olive complexion.



THE SEARCH — FBI agents and police fanned out in the Cascade foothills today, searching for a daring hijacker who parachuted into the wilderness with $200,000 in ransom. The FBI says the search is being concentrated in the Cowlitz-Clark County area of southern Washington. (UPI Telephoto map)

A Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 was hijacked late Wednesday with 42 persons aboard on a flight from Portland, Ore., to Seattle, Wash. The methodical hijacker allowed the 36 passengers to disembark after he received the ransom and four parachutes.

The hijacker, described as middle-aged and "very relaxed," disappeared as the plane flew on from Seattle-Tacoma International Airport to Reno, Nev.

The FBI said the search was being concentrated in the Cowlitz-Clark County area in southern Washington as a result of information provided by the crew and "strictly conjecture on our part."

An FBI spokesman said the 75-square mile area was selected because the crew reported a slight shift in the plane's balance while over this farmland region.

Searchers were aided by helicopters and light planes.

Two stewardesses were allowed to deplane with the passengers at Seattle-Tacoma. Two flight officers and a stewardess were locked up in a rear compartment while the pilot flew the aircraft to Nevada. He had told the pilot he wanted to fly to Mexico City.

The pilot, Capt. William Scott, said he last communicated with the hijacker near the Washington-Oregon border.

The FBI said the hijacker tentatively was identified as "D.B. Cooper." Agents said they have not been able to amplify on the name. They said he paid cash for a ticket at Portland.

The jetliner, flight 305, originally took off from Washington, D.C., and stopped at Minneapolis, Minn.; Great Falls and Missoula, Mont.; and Spokane, Wash., before touching down at Portland.

The hijacker gave a note to a stewardess and showed her "two red cylinders with wires," officials said, the alleged bomb was in a suitcase.

The man told the captain at Seattle that the crew and passengers would be killed if his demands for $200,000 and four parachutes were not met.

When Northwest acceded to his request, the plane took off on a southward course. Two air Force jet planes tailed the commandeered airliner to Reno. Officiers said the hijacker could have bailed out unnoticed because of the darkness and because the jetliner was flying so low.

It was a dramatic landing at Reno. Hundreds of persons were gathered at the airport terminal to witness the event. Scores of police and FBI agents surrounded the field.

Upon landing the crew disembarked, but there were no signs of the bomb, the money, two of the four parachutes or "D.B. Cooper."

Northwest Airlines declined to release the crew's report on the flight, but information available from other sources indicated the plane flew at low altitude and low speed, with the rear door open.

It was reported that of the two missing parachutes one was a training pack that would not open.

When the hijacker ordered two chutes at Seattle, authorities called for a pair from the Air Force at nearby McChord Air Force Base and also asked a sports parachute club to provide alternates. Linn Emrick, of Sky Sports Inc., Issauah, Wash., said he inadvertently sent a practice chute that would not open.

The other chute missing when the plane landed was one supplied by Renton Aviation. Its manufacturer said it would "work fine."

Sadat In Missile Warning

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat warned President Nixon that giving Israel new missiles would be a "very serious escalation" of the Middle East crisis, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

The newspaper said Sadat's message to Nixon was delivered Thursday to Donald C. Bergus, the American diplomatic representative in Cairo, by Hafez Ismail, Sadat's adviser on national security affairs.

It said the message was the result of "reports from Washington" that the United States was considering granting to Israel a number of Lance surface-to-surface missiles, which would be installed on the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula. They reportedly have a range of from 50 to 70 miles.

Sadat's message, Al Ahram reported, said "the supply to Israel of American ground-to-ground missiles would be a very serious escalation of the explosive situation in an area which is considred the most tense in the world at present."

Meanwhile, Israel left little doubt that it considers the resumption of war in the Middle East likely—perhaps imminent —but thinks the delivery of more U.S. Phantom jet fighters could help prevent it.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban presented the Israeli case to U.S. Ambassador H. Walworth Barbour today in a 45-minute meeting. Radio Israel said the two also discussed "certain hostile remarks" about Israel that were attributed this week to U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The afternoon newspaper Ma'ariv quoted Rogers as having told a group of eight U.S. senators that Israel is "falling apart because of internal strife."

Eban and Prime Minister Golda Meir outlined the Israeli view of the Middle East situation to a Labor party conference Thursday night.

Both leaders warned the Israeli people to be prepared for a resumption of fighting on the basis of war-like statements from Sadat and other Egyptian leaders.

"I cannot promise myself and others that there is not an imminent danger of war," Mrs. Meir said. "...Our duty is to accept it as if there is a danger of war...we have to learn to face the possibility of the resumption of war."

Eban said in his speech "we face now both political blackmail and military threat. Therefore we have to prepare ourselves to face both...saving the peace could well be dependent on some extra dozen planes."

Eban was referring to Israel's request for more Phantom jets, which the United States had declined to give them for the time being.

Rock Concert Mess Draws County Fire

Future Of Such Inside Vets Building Doubted

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Whether future rock concerts will be permitted at the new veterans auditorium appeared in doubt today as county officials reacted to damage caused during Wednesday's concert — the first such affair at the new building.

"I feel bad about the building," Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni said. "I'm sure the board will take a long, hard look at (allowing) future hard rock concerts" at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Arrigoni's announcement came as maintenance men at the $3.5 million auditorium prepared to steam-clean carpeting and seats damaged during a benefit rock concert Wednesday.

However, cleanup operations will be limited to especially hard hit areas until after a second rock concert — scheduled for tomorrow.

Following Wednesday's concert, damage was estimated at about $5,000 — mostly from cigarette burns and soft drink and wine spills on carpets and seats — but that may prove too high a figure.

The concert drew the largest crowd in the building's short history — 2,200 persons.

Arrigoni said County Administrator John F. Barrows had approached him and other supervisors about calling off a second rock concert planned for tomorrow.

"The consensus was that we (supervisors) have already committed ourselves to Saturday's concert," he said.

(Tomorrow's rock concert will feature two performances of Delaney, Bonnie and Friends. The shows are scheduled for 7 and 10:30 p.m.)

"The building got a year's wear and tear in one night," Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said today. He said sponsors of the concert have insurance to cover damage and added that a $2,000 security bond deposited before the show will be used pending settlement with the insurance company.

Barrows, meanwhile, said he didn't think the damage would have "a direct cost" of $5,000.

"I don't think it will be that high because we're in no position for a wholesale replacement of rugs," he said, adding that that was what the $5,000 estimate included. He said, however, some sections of rugs may have to be replaced.

Barrows said that while "direct costs" may not run as high as previously estimated, the "indirect costs" (the loss of life expectancy) of wear and tear on the furnishings would exceed that total.

He declined to comment on any recommendation he planned to make to the supervisors on Tuesday. He said he was awaiting a complete survey of damage.

At the auditorium, maintenance crews worked through yesterday afternoon cleaning damage and were expected to return today.

Jersey Swings Into Action On Rahway Prisoner Pleas

RAHWAY, N. J. (UPI)—Gov. William T. Cahill today called a meeting of the state's top law and correction officials to set guidelines for negotiating the demands of Rahway State Prison inmates who staged a 24-hour revolt and held five guards and the warden hostage.

The governor also scheduled a meeting with "community leaders" to discuss the disturbances Thursday during which 500 inmates controlled two wings of the maximum security prison.

A spokesman for Cahill said the meetings were "the first step in setting up machinery for negotiating the prisoners' demands," which were part of a no-reprisals agreement reached between the rebellious prisoners and the governor.

Warden U. Samuel Vukcevich, recovering from "stab wounds" which inmates said a guard had accidentally inflicted, and the five guards were released about 10 p.m. EST Thursday. The five guards also were hospitalized but all were reported in good condition with no serious injuries.

Vukcevich held a bedside news conference at which he said he felt some of the prisoners' demands were reasonable.

Following their release Cahill said his administration "intends to carry out our part of the commitment to guarantee there will be no brutality and that we will meet with and talk to the prisoners in relation to their complaints."

Archibald Alexander, head of the Citizens Committee advising the governor on penal affairs, went to the prison to sleep overnight. He was accompanied by Raymond Brown, a prominent criminal lawyer.

Alexander said "there will be no reprisals of any sort taken against the inmates." He and Brown were the two main negotiators for the state in the talks with the inmates. The prisoners complained about the medical care at the prison, food, high prices in the prison commissary, parole procedures, inadequate educational and vocational opportunities, disciplinary procedures, racial discrimination, lack of black cultural classes, lack of religious freedom, delay of incoming mail, low wages, "meager" expenses given to released prisoner and lack of rehabilitative opportunity.

"To be treated as human beings is all that we ask of this administration," said the in-

Junk Mail Rate Hike Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Postal Service today applied to the Price Commission for a 23.9 per cent increase in third class mail rates, the largest boost in prices sought since Phase II of President Nixon's economic stabilization program began two weeks ago.

The proposed increase would affect mainly advertising circulars and other "junk" mail. first-class and air mail would be unaffected.

The Postal Service originally scheduled the rates to go into effect Sept. 15, but they were caught in the 90-day wage-price freeze which began Aug. 15.

The Price Commission also rejected a price hike request for the first time —from the Bassett Furniture Company, Bassett, Va., for a 1.8 per cent boost. The Commission said Bassett's application was "denied because of insufficient justification." It gave no other details.

The commission received 36 new applications, including 13 from coal companies and four from steel companies.

The coal applications came from the Consolidation Coal Co. and from 12 coal companies owned by the Prittston Co. — the Clinchfield, Badger, Buffalo, Feds Creek, Jewell Ridge,

E. Pakistani Guerrillas Reported In Control Of Area Along Border

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

East Pakistani guerrillas have taken control of much of the countryside and forced Pakistan army troops to withdraw into urban areas of the rebellious province, a spokesman for India's eastern military command in Calcutta said today.

The spokesman, who denied that Indian troops were involved in the fighting, said the guerrillas control portions of Jessore sector along the border with India as well as areas of Faridpur and Feni and also the central sector of Tangail.

Radio Pakistan said, however, that Pakistani troops had halted or driven back advances that it claimed were made by Indian army troops on five fronts in East Pakistan. It identified Jessore and Feni as two of the fronts and listed Sylhet, Naubara and Hilli as the others.

Radio Pakistan, broadcasting from Karachi, said more than 300 Indian troops had been killed in fighting around Jessore, located about 20 milee inside East Pakistan's western border with India.

UPI correspondent Ajit K. Das, reporting from the Indian town of Bongaon, about four miles from the border of the Jessore sector, said sounds of fighting from the border sector were audible earlier this week but no longer could be heard.

Das said the silence indicated fighting may have moved farther into the interior. Newsmen were prohibited from traveling in the area.

On the political front, sources in Calcutta said key members of the Pakistani rebel Bangla Desh (Bengal Land) cabinet were called to New Delhi by Indian authorities to discuss possible recognition by the Indian government. A decision was expected within 10 days.

Conflicting reports on the role Indian troops might have played in the fighting around Jessore from both New Delhi and Islamabad, the capital of West Pakistan.

India said the fighting was being carried out by East Pakistani guerrillas.

Das said Indian military traffic continued to move toward the frontier. Roads around Bongaon were being widened and wooden bridges were being strengthened, Das said. Indian military officials refused to comment.

Jessore, with a Pakistani army camp and an airport, is a key town on the route to Dacca, capital of East Pakistan.

With concern mounting in world capitals over the danger of the conflict in the east spreading to the West Pakistan borders, the chief of Pakistan's diplomatic mission in New Delhi, Sajaad Hyder, met Thursday with Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh. Details of their talks were not disclosed.

Nixon, Heath Set Bermuda Conference

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —President Nixon will meet with British Prime Minister Edward Heath in Bermuda Dec. 20-21, the western White House announced today.

In a joint announcement with London, the White House said Cixon will be the prime minister's guest in a "strictly business" meeting to consult with the British leader in advance of President's forthcoming trip to Peking and Moscow.

Telephone Accounting Plan Is Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Supreme Court today struck down the Pacific Telephone Company's accounting methods, saying the company had been "imprudently" paying too much taxes and passing the costs along to its subscribers.

The high court ruled unanimously that the State Public Utilities Commission erred when it decided in 1970 Pacific Telephone did not have to use "accelerated depreciation."

A 1968 decision by the PUC had figured telephone company rates as if this method of accounting had been used.

The result was that the telephone company was paying higher and unnecessary income taxes, which were passed on to the rate payers, the Supreme Court said.

Saigon Puts New Units In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Two fresh regiments of South Vietnamese troops moved into Cambodia between the Snuol and Mimot rubber plantations 80 miles north of Saigon today, while the Communists laid siege to a fire base well inside South Vietnam, field reports said.

American B52's struck in force yesterday and today along with U.S. helicopter gunships and tactical fighter bombers, laying down a curtain of fire to protect advancing South Vietnamese troops from Communist resistance to their drive into the sanctuaries.

The U.S. command, bent on meeting President Nixon's 25,000-man December withdrawal deadline, Friday ordered home about 60 helicopter gunships that would otherwise have been used to support South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia.

The orders came in part of a new withdrawal announcement that covered 3,233 men, including another battalion of the 101st Airborne Division's 3rd Infantry Brigade, seven U.S. Army aviation units and a medical detachment.

But aside from a scrap at an isolated fire base on "Hill 95" (named for its height in meters) about nine miles south of the border, there was still almost no contact in the five-day drive which may become the biggest

Marin General Plan Pros, Cons Weighed

By JEFF GREER

Marin's proposed countywide general plan was criticized as unfair to property owners and taxpayers during radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" program today.

In answer, a defender of the plan called for legislative changes in taxes and assessments to make the plan's proposed growth restrictions acceptable.

The critics were developer Neils J. Schultz Jr. of Greenbrae and Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera; the plan's proponents were Anne L. Ellinwood of Tiburon and Sol Silver, county planning aide.

All agreed that the countywide plan might be a step toward unified city-county government for Marin — at least 20 years in the future.

Schultz, chairman of Marin Property Owners Association's planning and conservation committee, a former county and city planning commissioner, and a Greenbrae developer, attacked the plan's moratorium on population growth except along the eastern corridor adjoining Highway 101.

"How are you going to say to a landowner in the central corridor that everybody east of the ridge is going to develop land to high use and more profits, but "you're going to maintain your land in a pristine state'?" he said.

Colthurst, executive director of the property owners association and a Corte Madera city councilman, charged the plan would concentrate all growth in

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Recaptured

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Mich. (UPI) — Three inmates who escaped from Thealger County Jail in Munsing, Mich., late yesterday were recaptured today when they came here to pick up the girlfriend of one of the men.

Police said the three forced the girl to leave home and her mother called police, who arrested the men.

Massive Lockout

BONN (UPI) — A lockout of more than 350,000 factory workers in West Germany's key metal industries went into effect early today apparently without incident.

Early shift employees arrived at plants in the North Baden and North Wurttemburg regions of South Germany to find doors locked and covered with placards reading "this factory locked out." Most workers went home.

Employers closed down the factories in response to a four-day-old strike by 120,000 metal workers over a pay dispute. It was the first official West German metal industry strike since 1963.

Ulbricht Elected

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German parliament unanimously elected aged and ailing Walter Ulbricht chairman of the council of state, or chief of state, today.

Ulbricht resigned as party leader May 3 because of his advanced age and bad health.

The party had discussed dropping Ulbricht as chief of state, too, and elevating Premier Willi Stoph to that post but it finally decided to keep Ulbricht until his death.

Priests Sentenced

MOSCOW (UPI) — Authorities in Soviet Lithuania sentenced two Roman Catholic priests to one year in prison for giving religious instruction to children prior to their first communion, Catholic sources said today.

The sources circulated a report on the arrests, interrogations and trials of the Rev. Jouzas Zdebskis of Prienal and the Rev. P. Bubnis of Rasiainiai.

The report said Zdebskis was beaten after his arrest in August, and that his mother could not recognize him later because of the beatings.

Bubnis was tried the following day.

Radiation Leak

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — Radiation leaked into the atmosphere from a secret underground nuclear blast at the Nevada Test Site earlier this week, but it presents "no health hazard" to anyone, the Atomic Energy Commission said Thursday.

The maximum reading taken was 12 microroentgens, only thousandths of the radiation absorbed by a person taking a chest X-ray, the AEC said.

"The radiation was slightly above normal background levels. There is no health hazard either on or off the Nevada Test Site," the AEC said.

EX-POW'S THANKSGIVING

S. Sgt. John Sexton Jr. celebrated his first Thanksgiving in three years with turkey, trimmings, and 40 friends and relatives in Clinton Township, Mich. But with the world watching through the eyes of five television cameras, it wasn't exactly a quiet, at-home-with-the-family turkey day. The soldier, 23, was a captive of the Viet Cong for 26 months until his release in October.

Varied Thanksgiving Day For Nixon At San Clemente Base

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon spent Thanksgiving with a turkey, the telephone and two television sets —discussing crises, passing out holiday greetings and watching his football prediction go wrong.

Nixon had two television sets going at once in the Western White House, so he could watch both the top college contest, Oklahoma-Nebraska, and the Dallas-Los Angeles professional game.

Nixon, with his wife Pat warning him not to make football predictions in public, told friends Wednesday the Nebraska-Oklahoma game would be decided "by one point," but kept to himself who he thought the winner would be.

Nebraska beat Oklahoma 35-31.

Nixon telephoned the coaches, Bob Devaney of Nebraska and Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma, telling them it was "a great game" and the coaches "could be proud of their performances."

Nixon drove up the Western White House telephone bill with a blizzard of calls, including a half-hour transatlantic talk with British Prime Minister Edward Heath in England on the India-Pakistan border flareup. He also spoke to Attorney General John N. Mitchell in Washington, directing him to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction to end the dock strike at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Then, while he was in the mood, he telephoned similar holiday greetings to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, six cabinet secretaries, and the congressional leaders of both parties.

Thousands Stranded In Big East Coast Storm

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Thousands of Thanksgiving travelers missed turkey dinners Thursday when the first Northeaster of the season lashed the North Atlantic Seaboard and the Appalachians, stranding them in mounting snow drifts.

Highway crews from Virginia to New England also passed up their holiday dinners to battle the mammoth drifts and rescue motorists.

More than 2,000 vehicles were marooned in snow on interstates 80 and 81 in northeast Pennsylvania; 1,000 more were bogged down on Interstate 70 west of Frederick, Md.; and nearly 1,000 were stranded along a 30-mile stretch of highway near Middleburg, Va.

Snowmobiles carried milk to families with small children stranded in cars in hard-hit northeastern Pennsylvania. Residents of Middleburg, Va., took trapped motorists into their homes and collected food for others who found refuge in churches, fire stations and the community center.

The storm, however, did provide a memorable experience for fireman Christopher Allen and his fiance, Linda Stafford. The couple, from Winchester, Va., were on their way to Williamsburg, Va., to be married when they were stranded by the storm in Middleburg. So they had Rev. Michael Noble perform the ceremony at the Middleburg Methodist Church.

The storm completed its swing up the coast today and headed for Canada, leaving in its wake a two-foot deep shroud of snow in much of the northeastern highlands.

Two feet piled at Bondville, Vt., and 22 inches at Albany, N.Y.,—a record for November. Twenty inches of snow fell at Thomas, W.Va., The Plains, Va., and Wilkes Barre-Scranton, Pa.

The storm only sideswiped the big coastal cities of the Northeast with heavy rains, driven by high winds. The Gimble's Thanksgiving Day Parade in Philadelphia was canceled.

The side effects of the storm forced the mercury to tumble as far south as the Gulf, where early morning temperatures today were in the 30s.

Body Dumped Into Parking Lot

PALMDALE (UPI) — The body of David W. Green, 25, South San Gabriel, was dumped onto an Antelope Valley parking lot from a speeding auto Thursday.

Green was found about 10 miles northeast of here near Lake Los Angeles. He had apparently suffered head injuries, but Sheriff's deputies declined to speculate on the cause of death.

Witnesses said they saw an auto drive onto the parking lot and then speed away shortly before the body was discovered.

Three Die In U.S. 99 Crash

KINGSBURG (UPI) —A headon crash on U.S. 99 south of here killed three persons and caused major injuries to four others Thanksgiving Day.

Listed in "questionable" condition early today at Valley Medical Center of Fresno was Hazel McGarity, 37, of Anderson. Her husband, Murphy, 34, was in satisfactory condition. Gary Vinante, 14, was in critical condition along with a brother, Ricky, 13.

SILVA MIND CONTROL SEMINARS have had tremendous success throughout the nation in teaching practical applications of controlled E.S.P. The reason for such rapid growth and success is attributed to the Silva Method of Mental Training. This is the first and only method in history known to be effective in developing controlled E.S.P.

The "Silva Method," as this method is known, was scientifically researched by Mr. Jose Silva from Laredo, Texas, a research scientist and a pioneer in mental training, researching since 1944. He is the discover of the new Science Psychorientology and the creator of the MIND CONTROL program. Mr. Silva states, "The discovery that Human Intelligence can learn to function with awareness at the Alpha and Theta frequencies of the brain will go down in history as the greatest discovery of man."

This discovery, he adds, "is sure to change our concept of Mind, Psychology, Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis, Hypnoanalysis and of the Subconscious."

Mr. Silva explains that there are four principal brainwaves: The Beta Wave, associated with the outer conscious levels, physical activity, anxiety, tension, etc.; the Alpha Wave, associated with inner levels of mental activity, tranquility, inspiration, creativity, concentration, E.S.P., accelerated healing process, memory, learning and many other phenomena; The Theta Wave, related to deeper levels of meditation, concentration, and potentially even greater learning and recall capabilities; and finally the Delta Wave, associated with deep sleep now known as total unconsciousness.

Mr. Silva continues, "in just hours of classroom instruction students learn to function with awareness at lower frequencies such as at the Alpha and Theta." This is accomplished with the use of the Silva Method of Mental Training without the use of Bio-feedback Equipment. MANY benefits are now known to exist for those who learn to function with controlled awareness at the Alpha and Theta Brain Frequencies. Our students report better memory, high grades, less tension and anxiety, faster revitalization and healing, release and rejection of Psychosomatic problems, control of sleep and headache problems, even migraine, control of smoking, weight problems, and some report correction of drug habits, and also maintenance of better general health. Mr. Silva adds that these abilities are just side benefits and that the real benefits is that the student, when at these lower frequencies, can sense information impressed on the brain cells of others at a distance.

Mr. Silva believes that this is what some call E.S.P. or Extra Sensory Perception, but he calls it Subjective Communication. The MIND CONTROL program has changed the meaning of E.S.P. which was uncontrolled, erratic and very evasive, to Subjective Communication which is controlled and effective. He adds that perfecting the means to communicate at this dimension will be the second phase of human evolution on this planet.

Subjective Communication results are guaranteed. At this time it is being used to become aware of information for problem detection and solving.

Mr. Silva states that we somehow have unconsciously learned to interfere with the body's self, natural, healing function and that this effect is known as the psychosomatic health problem. It appears that by learning to function with awareness at the Alpha-Theta brain frequencies, we automatically cease to interfere, allowing the body's internal organs and glands to return to their natural rhythmic self-healing function. We don't need to teach the internal organs how to function: Nature takes care of that when we do not interfere. The Silva Method is dedicated to help humans become healthier, more productive and better problem-solving agents. For references ask any of our graduates in the United States, Mexico or Canada.

ARMY CHOW LINES

Mess Sergeant's Era Nears End

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The image of the mess sergeant, wielding a big serving spoon and growling to keep the line moving, may disappear from Army chow lines.

Also there may be less of, say, liver and mustard greens.

In an experiment now underway at Ft. Lewis, Wash., the Army has done away with the mess sergeant who traditionally stood behind the pots and pans dishing out equal portions of food and who greeted the man dallying in hopes of a larger portion with "Keep the line moving!"

A survey at Ft. Lewis showed that the men felt they weren't getting enough from the mess sergeant. So now, they can serve themselves as much as they choose. They're taking more, but the Ph.D's who nosed around garbage pails as part of their research said the men eat what they take and aren't wasting much.

In a food preference survey, Army researchers cataloged the preferences for 416 food items given by 573 men at Ft. Lewis. The survey contained few surprises and confirmed opinions expressed by GIs for decades.

The survey showed that the men had no great love for sardines and beef liver, that they could do without a lot of prunes and figs, and that mustard greens, squash, okra, eggplant, rutabagas and parsnips weren't exactly their idea of the tastiest vegetables.

The purpose of the survey was to let the men have a say in what they would be served instead of leaving it to an older generation of meal planners in Washington.

Or as it was put by Dr. Robert J. Byrne of the Army's Natick Laboratories in Natick, Mass., the group which made the survey: "Why should I, at my age, try to decide what an 18-year-old is going to eat? I try it at my home and it doesn't work."

Mothers and dieticians may be relieved to hear the young GIs didn't ask to live off soft drinks and pizza. As a matter of fact, the men surveyed thought the Army was already serving them too much pizza but not enough pot roast and meat loaf.

In the vegetable ratings they uaid they were getting too much spinach. But they also said they liked spinach fairly well —it came out in the middle of the preference scale —and asked for lots more corn, both on and off the cob.

The Army went to all this trouble because it had a problem. It discovered that when the men had a choice of eating free in the Ft. Lewis mess halls or paying to eat at a commercial restaurant or in a PX, 50 to 55 per cent preferred to pay.

Those who made the survey believe that with the changes, 50 to 75 per cent more men can be attracted to the mess halls. In the first two weeks after the changes at Ft. Lewis, attendance jumped 22 per cent.

With the switch to an all volunteer force envisioned for mid-1973, the Army concluded it had better make its dining halls more appealing if it ever expected to keep men in the service. Food is considered part of the military pay package and if the men are eating on the outside because they can't stand the food on the inside, then their incomes are effectively being lowered.

One of the 461 dishes the servicemen were queried about was that old standard, creamed chipped beef on toast, better known to many veterans by a three-letter shorthand. The men rated it in the middle of the scale both when asked how well they liked it and how often they wanted it served.

The survey also showed that specialty foods were attractive to soldiers, especially Italian and Mexican dishes and (surprising to the researchers) so was seafood.

So, now at the evening meal the GI at Ft. Lewis has a choice of a specialty food in addition to the standard full course meal. The most popular specialty dishes are tacos and deep fat fried shrimp.

There's even a short order shop at Ft. Lewis where tuna fish sandwiches are the favorite. And the short order line stays open until 11 p.m. to quell late erupting appeties.

Although mustard greens got thumbs down in the survey, it is not likely to be eliminated. Dr. Herbert L. Meiselman of the Natick Laboratories wrote in his report that low rated foods "happen to be ethnically popular, the solution is to serve these dishes where there are large concentrations of the particular ethnic or regional group."

The Armed Forces Master Menu has not been the only problem. Mess sergeants vary in quality and while one company mess hall may be nearly empty, another nearby may be full.

To get around this, Ft. Lewis now has a centralized kitchen where the better cooks can prepare the meals and freeze them. The food is then sent out to satellite kitchens in the mess halls where they need only be reheated.

The centralized operations have allowed Ft. Lewis initially to cut kitchen manpower by more than 30 per cent —an important benefit now that salaries are soaring.

The final results of the Ft. Lewis experiment will soon be presented to the Army brass so they can decide whether and when to extend the system to other bases.

Britain Explains Its Rhodesia Settlement

LONDON (UPI)—The government began a tough uphill fight today to persuade skeptical world opinion and an angry British opposition that its peace settlement with Rhodesia was not a sellout.

It told all British embassies abroad to insist that the terms were fully consistent with the so-called "five principles" laid down by successive British governments as a condition for recognizing Rhodesian independence.

The five principles called for guarantees of unimpeded progress towards ultimate rule by Rhodesia's black African majority population. These total five million compared with 250,000 whites.

British officials conceded the terms will not be satisfactory to everyone. But they described them as "realistic" and said the choice lies between such a settlement and indefinite continuation of the present deadlock and economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Britain and Rhodesia Wednesday announced agreement to end the dispute which dates back to Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence from its mother country Nov. 11, 1965. The agreement came after 10 days of talks in the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury.

The government ordered a full-scale parliamentary debate on the settlement next Wednesday to push its campaign to convince public opinion.

Indications were that it would be difficult.

In Parliament Thursday after Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home outlined the terms, Denis Healey, foreign affairs spokesman for the opposition Labor party, asked Sir Alec pointedly whether the agreement is "meaningful."

He recalled that Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith had remarked to reporters in Salisbury "we already have majority rule."

"If this is the spirit in which he approaches the agreement, no member of this house and no rational person could regard the agreement as being meaningful at all," Healey said.

At the United Nations in New York, after Britain's delegate Sir Colin Crowe explained the agreement, Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik denounced it as a "racist imperialist bargain."

British officials said they fully expected similar reaction from most U.N. African members.

Honesty In Buying Plan Into Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has overruled the Food and Drug Administration and ordered immediate application of new rules to ensure honesty in "cents-off" promotions.

The FDA wanted a delay of several months to subject the rules to changes, but the Federal Trade Commission objected and the White House intervened on the side of the FTC, it was learned Thursday.

White House sources said that as a result, the rules probably will become effective Dec. 31 as scheduled, or shortly thereafter.

Under the new rules, the manufacturer will print the amount of "cents off" on the label. The retailer then will stamp on the reduced price. Also, the retailer must post a sign designating the regular price.

As originally issued by both the FDA and the FTC, the regulations would have required a single label listing the price this way:

Regular Price —30 cents.
Cents Off —8 cents.
You Pay —22 cents.

However, grocers complained that this was too much trouble for store clerks and too costly, and several retail chains said they would not handle cents off sales under such regulations.

"I don't think it will ever be the same," commented N. Gene Weaver, county maintenance foreman, adding that the rock concert had caused more cleaning problems than a dog show held last month.

Meanwhile, Sausalito pharmacist Frederick J. Mayer, promoter of the concert which was to benefit county drug abuse programs, reacted with amazement today at the damage estimate.

He maintained that a part of the damage attributed to the concert was caused by patrons of earlier performances at the auditorium.

Mayer said he had observed tears and burns in the rugs prior to Wednesday's concert which drew a standing-room-only crowd and featured Quicksilver Messenger Service and three other rock groups.

"I want to put in a plug for the supervisors," he said. "They were great and I can't thank them enough for allowing the concert."

Mayer said he is planning another rock concert — one which would require youths to bring their parents. "That would help the communication gap," he said.

Cambodian incursion ever, totaling 45,000 men.

From the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported that Cambodian officers told her the advancing South Vietnamese had agreed to confine their operations to the east bank of the Mekong River unless a serious threat developed to Cambodian positions around the major city of Kampong Cham and points west.

The South Vietnamese did plan to occupy the smaller town of Tonle Bet on the east bank of the Mekong, however, and U.S. military attaches assigned to the embassy in Phnom Penh flew to Kampong Cham today, she said.

The fresh incursion started early today when two regiments of the South Vietnamese 5th Division reinforced by armor sliced into Cambodia about midway between Snuol and Mimot, two plantations that have long been in Communist hands and provided bases for infiltration into the Saigon area.

The troops seized a portion of Highway 7 and an area near the mouth of the Chhlong River valley and began pushing southwest toward Mimot and northeast toward Snuol, field reports said.

mates' petition. "We are sincerely trying to correct the mistakes we have made in the past against other people."

They also insisted the rebellion occurred only after inmates "tried every other possibility to bring about changes in the above-stated complaint..."

Three of the six hostages were reported in good condition today at Rahway General Hospital, although Dr. Richard Newman said Vukcevich, 43, had two stab wounds in his back and "was worked over pretty good." It was learned that Vukcevich's wounds were treated in the prison by an inmate who served with U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Cahill revealed that only the insistence of Dr. Maurice Kott, acting state commissioner of institutions and agencies, and another unnamed state prison official prevented an assault on the prison early Thursday by about 150 armed and helmeted state police, local police and guards from other prisons.

"It was because the hope was there of a negotiated settlement that we declined to use force," said Cahill. "Fortunately, I didn't have to make that decision."

The rebellion erupted Wednesday night following a movie in the prison auditorium. Vukcevich and five guards were taken hostage by inmates who refused to leave the auditorium when another prisoner arose to speak on "injustices in society" and penitentiary conditions.

only 74,000 acres of Marin, leaving the taxpayer burdened with somehow paying for maintaining more than 200,000 acres as open space.

Miss Ellinwood, chairman of the City-County Planning Council of Marin and a Tiburon city councilman, replied that the laws should be changed so that assessments can be made "only on the basis of the growth factor permitted under the plan."

Both moratorium-affected open spaces and areas already densely developed thus could obtain tax relief, she suggested.

Silver stressed that the countywide plan is not fixed and should always remain flexible. He said it attempts to solve countywide or regional problems such as open spaces, overall population, transportation, and an economic base. It makes no attempt to dictate how Marin's 11 cities' should solve local problems, but hopes for the cities' agreement on regional concepts, he explained.

In response to a caller's question, Schultz and Miss Ellinwood agreed that the formation of the city-county planning council, rather than the countywide plan it is sponsoring, may have been a first step in unified government. Silver warned that "one of the basic assumptions of the plan is that the form of local government won't change" within the next 20 years.

Both Schultz and Miss Ellinwood criticized the proposed National Parkway from Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Seashore, but "for different reasons," Miss Ellinwood said. Schultz opposed spending "$20 million, give or take $5 million" to build a road that won't serve" the permanent population of West Marin. Miss Ellinwood called for other transportation solutions such as the experimental West Marin service by Marin Transit Systems, Inc.

Colthurst complained that new employment envisioned in the plan would be filled by "transients, mostly not living in Marin" rather than help the local economy. "I can see no benefit in providing jobs for someone who lives in Sonoma County," Colthurst declared.

He repeatedly called for "hard figures on what the plan will cost" the taxpayer.

Silver explained that the county planning staff and the city-county council had conducted a series of hearings to obtain criticism before modifying the plan and presenting it to the cities for review and endorsement. The modified plan will go again through city-county planning council hearings before submission to the county planning commission and supervisors for eventual adoption, sometime in mid-1972, he said.

Today's broadcast, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Injunction Sought In Dock Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department, at President Nixon's request, sought today a Taft-Hartley injunction to send 45,000 striking longshoremen back to work at Atlantic and Gulf Coast docks.

Nixon took time out from his Thanksgiving celebration at the western White House to order Attorney General John N. Mitchell to file for the injunction when federal courts opened today.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Charna Perry Dies; Rites Set

Dr. Charna G. Perry, physician in Sausalito for 50 years, died yesterday at the Tamalpais in Greenbrae where she had lived since retiring two years ago. She was 77.

Dr. Perry was born in the Ukraine but left Russia with her parents in 1906, moving to Shanghai where she was reared and educated in a convent. (A brother, who remained in Russia as a professional soldier was killed during the revolution.)

Dr. Perry had planned to go to medical school at the University of Cambridge in England but ended up in Boston instead because of World War I. Finding that her choice of schools, Harvard University, was not coeducational, Dr. Perry instead attended Tufts University, graduating in 1920 cum laude with a degree in medicine.

She married Samuel S. Perry, an importer, whom she had known in Shanghai, shortly after her graduation and they moved to San Francisco. (Perry died in 1945.)

Dr. Perry did her internship at Children's Hospital and then opened the first well baby clinic in January 1921 in Sausalito. Later she was physician at seven such clinics throughout Marin. She also started the first

In Sausalito she maintained a practice as a pediatrician and general practitioner until she retired in November 1969.

Dr. Perry was a member of many medical societies, including the Marin Medical Society, of which she had served as vice president; Academy of General Practice, and the American Medical Association.

She traveled throughout the world attending World Health Organization conferences.

She also belonged to the Tufts University Alumni Association, Sausalito Women's Club, China Tiffin Club and the Women Physicians of San Francisco.

Upon her retirement, Dr. Perry was honored by the Marin Medical Society and Tufts University for her 50 years of medical service.

Dr. Perry is survived by a son, Jackson S. Perry of Sausalito; two sisters, Mrs. Flora Gramber and Mrs. Lena Uydens, both of San Francisco, and one granddaughter.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Hills of Eternity Chapel in Colma, with burial at Hills of Eternity Cemetery.

Victims Of Air Crash Are Found

I-J Special Report

WILLITS — The bodies of a Mendocino County family and their crashed plane were located yesterday just a few miles from Willits Airport where they took off in bad weather Tuesday night.

Killed in the crash were William Pulliam, 37, of Willits, his wife, Shirley, 35, and two sons, William Jr. and Dennis Pulliam, 13, according to the Mendocino County sheriff's office.

A C-130 from 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base, and a Civil Air Patrol pilot from Willits spotted the wreckage about nine miles north-northwest of Willits at 1:30 p.m., deputies reported.

The plane, a Cessna 175, was reported missing shortly after takeoff at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A Power Halt Halts Some Turkey Cooking

Some of those Thanksgiving turkeys took a little longer to cook around San Anselmo yesterday as a power shortage hit 1,746 Pacific Gas and Electric Co. customers.

Most of the affected customers were residential units in western San Anselmo, eastern Fairfax and Sleepy Hollow, a PG&E spokesman said.

He said service was out to 757 customers for 24 minutes, beginning at 4:53 p.m. 989 more customers had service out until 6:10 p.m., the company said.

Cause of the outage was undetermined.

MRS. COMPANEY

More Fuel Added By Rehnquist Foes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another affidavit that William H. Rehnquist harassed black voters in Phoenix added more fuel today to the controversy surrounding President Nixon's nominee to the Supreme Court.

Aides to Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., one of the leading opponents of Rehnquist's nomination, said the affidavit merits further investigation, even though Rehnquist personally has denied he even was present at the voting precinct where he allegedly harassed voters in 1964.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Rehnquist's nomination 12 to 4 last week, and endorsed the uncontested nomination of Lewis F. Powell Jr. 12 to 0. Both nominations are expected to reach the Senate floor sometime next week, and there are indications Bayh's opposition may delay Senate adjournment, hoped for during the first week of December.

Earlier, two Democratic poll workers swore in Affidavits submitted to the Judiciary Committee that Rehnquist challenged the voting qualifications of three Negro women and ordered them to read from the Constitution.

The latest affidavit, still unreceived by the Judiciary Committee, was by the Rev. Snelson McGriff, pastor of the Church of God in Christ, in Phoenix.

McGriff said he was present at the Bethune School voting precinct in 1964 and that he saw a man challenging voters to read from the Constitution. The affidavit said McGriff had seen pictures of Rehnquist and if he was not the man "it's his twin brother."

McGriff said he intended to send his affidavit to Washington and an aide to Bayh said he was awaiting the document.

ROADS TO COURT — Recently graded roads ribbon the scenic property south of Nicasio between Samuel P. Taylor State Park and the Nicasio Reservoir. The grading (or pioneering as the developers refer to it) has prompted court action by the county which claims the developers did not have county permission. Here, an auto proceeds along the new road leading into the property from the San Geronimo-Nicasio Road. The road takes a sharp turn through a deep cut and continues through a scenic redwood grove.

Talks Continuing To End Teacher Strike

Negotiations were to continue today in an effort to resolve the 11-day lay teachers' strike against seven Bay Area Catholic high schools, including Marin Catholic in Kentfield, before school resumes on Monday.

No talks were held yesterday between the striking union and the Archdiocese of San Francisco which runs the seven struck schools. Catholic officials took the day off to observe Thanksgiving.

However, about 50 teachers from the striking union, Secondary Teachers Association Local 2240, staged a two-hour vigil yesterday in front of the San Francisco residence of Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

"This vigil is an attempt to communicate to the archbishop our desire to see a resolution to this crisis," said Gerald Killian, president of the teachers' association. He said it is the teachers goal to resolve the strike before schools reopen on Monday.

The walkout by 110 teachers at the seven schools forced reshuffling of classes and teachers, but failed to close any schools. At Marin Catholic 10 of 22 lay teachers joined the walkout as did four nuns.

A federal mediator was called in Saturday. Gene Barry, the mediator, said earlier this week the only remaining major disagreement is over pay raises for this school year.

Mary Pickford Wins Her Battle

In 1924 Miss Pickford was outraged at the 224-foot high steel Hollywood Holder No. 12 which was built at the rear of the Allied Artists studios. She said the structure offended her sense of esthetics and it was an ungainly background to a French provincial street set.

She sent representatives throughout the neighborhood demanding the tank be removed and hundreds of people signed her petitions.

Finally, after 47 years, the Southern California Gas Co. has torn the old holder down and only a gaping hole remains in its place.

Seat In FAO Awaits China

ROME (UPI)—China has a seat waiting for it in the concrete and glass palace which houses the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

The 125-nation biennial FAO conference voted Thursday to offer Peking the Chinese seat left vacant when the nationalist government, one of the FAO founders, quit the organization in 1952.

The conference voted 68-0 with three abstentions—including the United States—to authorize director general Addeke H. Boerma to bring Peking into the organization whenever it "manifests the wish to resume its place."

Supervisors To Get Hot Topic—Road Grading Issue

Changes to the county's grading and excavation ordinance, prompted by reports of illegal road grading in West Marin, will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors.

The proposed changes greatly restrict the extent of grading land developers may do and brings grading more closely under the control of the county department of public works.

Under the present ordinance, a land developer must simply apply for a grading permit and agree to rather broad engineering criteria.

Even so, developers allegedly have been attempting to bypass county supervision by "pioneering" roads without a permit. The most recent said to have been caught in violation are the developers of about 800 acres of land south of Nicasio.

The county counsel's office this week filed a 13-count criminal complaint against Lone Star Land Corp. of Yuba City and Pierce-Pinney real estate agents of San Francisco.

The county maintains the developers have cut from three to four miles of road on their property without county approval.

A spokesman said stream beds have been blocked with rubble from the grading and that erosion will occur during winter rains.

The property, about two miles south of Nicasio, is between Nicasio Reservoir and Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Conservations and the county planning commission have urged that the entire ordinance be revised to include a requirement that grading permit request be subject to review by an ecological impact review committee.

Soviet Union Bidding For Japanese Funds In Sibera

The profit-minded Japanese already are investing millions of dollars in the construction of a new Siberian seaport and are purchasing millions of dollars worth of Siberian timber.

Now the Russians are talking in terms of up to $1 billion from Japan to build the world's longest petroleum pipeline. But the Japanese are not sure they can raise the kind of money Russia wants.

Japan operates the world's third largest economy, its annual economic production of $201 billion ranking behind only the United States and the Soviet Union. But Japan's mountainous islands must import nearly all the raw materials required to fuel and feed its factories.

The United States and Russia offer Japan two neighboring supplies of petroleum and natural gas, in Alaska and Siberia. But engineers must build pipelines across thousands of frozen miles to seaports to make tapping of the Alaskan and Siberian wealth worthwhile.

The biggest project in Siberia is the development of the oilfields near Tyumen, which is located in western Siberia near the Ural mountains.

Development of Tyumen involves construction of a pipeline 4,380 miles long from western Siberia to the port of Nakhodka in eastern Siberia, where crude oil will be loaded aboard Japanese tankers. Such a pipeline would be almost one-fifth as long as the equator.

"Technically such a pipeline would be feasible," a spokesman for Keidanren, the Japanese federation of economic organizations said in an interview. Keidanren represents all of Japan's major corporations.

But the Japanese understand that the Russians want an investment of $1 billion to develop Tyumen petroleum. "That much credit from Japan's export and import bank is almost impossible," a Japanese business spokesman said.

The two governments are scheduled to discuss the Tyumen pipeline proposal in Tokyo next spring.

Another Siberian development involves the Udokan copper fields in central Siberia. By rail, Udokan copper is located about 2,700 miles from Nakhodka, the major Siberian port serving the Japan trade.

"Udokan can produce 400,000 tons of copper ore a year and Japan could take 100,000 tons," a Keidanren spokesman said. "We want Soviet copper very much because Japan is completely lacking in it."

But again, Russian investment terms seem steep to the Japanese. The Soviets have requested a credit line of $800 million from Japan to develop Udokan. But Japan is ready to put up only $100 million dollars.

The Russians say the total cost of copper ore exploitation would be around $1.6 billion. Moscow wants half of the investment to come from Japan.

The Japanese and the Soviets have reached agreement on port and timber developments.

Under a 1968 agreement, Japan is purchasing $180 million worth of Siberian timber over a five-year span. Japan is paying most of the bill by giving Russia $160 million worth of machinery to develop Siberian forest resources.

Japan also has agreed to invest $80 million in the development of a new Siberian seaport at Vrangel, about 10 miles northeast of Nakhodka.

Nakhodka, a well-sheltered port facing the Sea of Japan, is relatively small and its facilities are overtaxed. New port facilities at Vrangel are needed to expand Siberia's trade with Japan, particularly in oil, natural gas and copper.

Japanese officials say they run into problems because the Russians seem reluctant to permit Japanese engineers to make extensive surveys.

"Before we decided to put up $80 billion for Vrangel port, we were allowed to visit the port area for only three days," one Japanese said.

"When the Soviets proposed that we invest in the Udokan copper mines, we were only allowed to survey the area from a passing airplane.

"But once we reach agreement with the Russians, the work goes smoothly and efficiently. The Soviet side is never bothered by strikes or other such delays."

Dissolution Fee Waived

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court has ruled that indigent persons need not pay the $27 filing fee for dissolving their marriages.

In a unanimous decision Wednesday, the high court reversed a lower court ruling in the case of Mary Ann Earls, 38, Grover City. The Earls woman, mother of four children, desired to dissolve her marriage, but had an income of only $263 per month from welfare. She said she was unable to pay the filing fee.

Her husband was believed to be somewhere in Texas.

Life Plans Big Circulation Cut

NEW YORK (UPI)—Life magazine has announced it will reduce circulation to 5.5 million from seven million beginning with the Jan. 14 issue.

Its publisher, Garry Valk, said the circulation cutback was necessary in order to reduce advertising page rates and increase subscriber costs.

The subscription cost increase was necessary to meet the costs of proposed higher postal rates and Phase II price limitations, according to Valk.

Inmate's Girl Will Join Him

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI)—A 21-year-old girl friend of an inmate in the Contra Costa County Jail is behind bars because she tried to give him something to remember her by.

Aford is serving time for dealing in narcotics and possession of a gun while a parolee.

Sheriff's deputies said the lovers may now be in jail together but they won't be seeing each other because no visits are allowed between female and male prisoners.

DINING OUT AND INNS

Why Cross Bridge? Marin Offers Many Fine Chinese Restaurants

In the opinion of Stanley Toy, owner of Kublai Khan at Strawberry Town and Country Village, most Marin diners-out looking for Chinese food still go to San Francisco's Chinatown.

I am not sure that I agree with him, but if that is so then these folks are missing several good bets right here at home — including the Kublai Khan itself, which is a striking place with crystal chandeliers, beautiful napery and that subdued atmosphere characteristic of many elegant restaurants.

There seems to be nothing lacking in its Chinese menu that would encourage a migration across the Golden Gate Bridge — on the contrary, I have always enjoyed the food here, which is downright good and nicely served.

Be that as it may, Toy does not put all his egg rolls in one basket. If you were to analyze all the orders being served in the dining room (and some nights there are lots of them) you might find a preponderance of American dishes — mainly the filet mignon and New York steak special dinners — Kublai Khan specials.

They look good and obviously are very popular — but I still go along with the traditional Chinese dishes and come out smiling. In any case, whether you order a la East or a la West, it's almost a foregone conclusion you'll choose Kublai Khan's particularly tasty compromise for dessert — the ginger ice cream.

CELIA'S NO. 5 is starting a live music program tonight for dancing and this will be a regular Friday and Saturday night feature from 9 p.m. The entertainers now booked are known as Mundo and A. J. Sallacy Trio. The group is just back from playing in Hawaii and has also appeared at Tia Maria's on the San Francisco Peninsula and in other Bay Area spots.

Celia's is the new Mexican restaurant opened a short time ago at 1 Vivian Way, San Rafael. (Now there might be something interesting — Song of the Islands in Latin tempo).

She will close out her operation here at the end of this month. She has served many meals and made many friends who will wish her well in her new full-time project.

In recent years she has had two separate businesses going — the restaurant and Mary Harkins Popovers,) a bakery operation whcih developed from one of her popular food specialties. Sometime ago she cut back serving dinners to three days a week — but even this short schedule took up so much of her time and energy it left her little opportunity to expand her bakery production. The latter, by the way, supplies many chain and independent retail stores and still more of them would like to be on the list.

The bakery will now be moved to a new location — probably in the San Rafael area. But it will take her until the end of the year to get it into full production again.

Moving into the restaurant at El Paseo will be Mark U.Bottmeyer of Mill Valley and Gunther W. Kollner of San Francisco, who will make it a French restaurant carrying the present name.

As I understand it, there will be French and Continental dinners but no lunches. Wines and beers will be served.

Both men have had about 16 years restaurant experience and recently have been working at Ernie's in San Francisco as waiters. Since quite a bit of remodeling at El Paseo is planned, they will be closed for at least two weeks from Dec. 1, when they take possession. It may be even longer.

WE REGRET reporting the closing of Boitano's Restaurant at the Corte Madera Cooperative Center. We have no information as to when this restaurant will be reactivated.

NITE LIFE DINNER CLUB has added a new "casual dinner" book to its coupon service. It covers 70 quick-service and small establishments throughout the Bay Area.

The club is now offering as a package this book — and three others: A Marin book with 30 dineries, a San Francisco book with 70 locations and an entertainment book, which covers theaters, sport events, motels and various other programs. Price is $6.

CONGRATULATIONS TO ETHEL BARRIE, who celebrates completion of her eighth year operating Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate Shopping Center next week.

ACCORDING TO OUR LAST COUNT, our annual North Bay Dining and Wining Guide, to be published in February, will report on 184 restaurants in Marin and Sonoma counties.

NEW ST. HELENA RESTAURANT A la Toque recently opened by Andre Marquer, former co-owner of the Normandie in San Rafael, is now closed on Mondays.

Seating capacity here is about 50 or 60. Address is 587-B Highway 29.

FEATURED at the Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile tonight, tomorrow night and Sunday is Van Morrison.

FOR DO-IT-YOURSELFERSv Ludwig's Liquor and Smoke Shop, 432 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo has added the Wine Art line of products for amateur winemakers.

The shop reports it has just about everything for this hobby — starter kits at $6.95 and up, wooden barrels (several sizes) and it even takes orders for winemakers to pick up their grapes in the Napa Valley.

ON THE SUBJECT of wine, the annual International Wine Tasting Festival will be held Sunday, Dec. 12, from 2 to 6 p.m. in the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. It benefits Aid Retarded Children.

Guests will be able to taste any of the 200 premium California and imported wines, poured by such vintners as Beaulieu, Beringer, Christian Brothers, Charles Krug and imports like Beccaro, Bertoli, Alexis Lichine, Sandeman, Moselblumenchen and many others — with sourdough French bread and fine cheeses between sips.

Donation is $2.50 per person.

NOW IN THEIR SECOND WEEK back at Speros' Red Vest in Novato are the Andrini brothers with Latin, European and old time song hits. Speros Halikas has them here before their recent return from Japan.

Italian and Greek dishes are the house food specialties.

Blaze Claims 3 Young Children

CANNELLVILLE, O h i o (UPI)—Three young children, left alone while their parents were milking the cows, died Thursday night in a fire that swept through their frame home in rural east central Ohio.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman, were unable to rescue the children.

Dead were Emma Freeman, 4, her brother, Earl, 2-½, and her six-month-old sister Anna.

Authorities said Freeman was milking the cows in a nearby barn and his wife put the children upstairs to play while she went out to help with the farm chores.

"They were gone only 10 to 20 minutes," police said. "The first thing they noticed was the lights were out. Then they saw flames everywhere."

Wallet Found After 50 Years

Webb, a teacher here, lost the billfold almost 50 years ago when he was a student.

Grand Rapids Folks Open Purses To Stricken Boy, 5

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Citizens have opened their hearts and pocketbooks to help keep alive a 5-year-old boy who has suffered since birth from a rare and usually fatal skin disease.

The Mary Freebed Hospital here has been home for Roger Alan Wojcik since shortly after his birth. He is "as friendly as can be under the circumstances," according to a hospital nurse. Roger enjoyed a rare treat Thursday —Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings —but ate alone because his parents thought they couldn't bear the emotional strain of a visit. Last Thanksgiving, his father was in a traffic accident because he couldn't keep his mind on the road when thinking about his son's plight.

Roger was born with epidemolysis bullosa, a condition described by Dr. George T.R. Fahlund, executive director of the hospital, as "a chronic, relentlessly progressive disease." It prevents the child from growing new skin and "results in large blisters and the skin breaks down in blotches all over the body," Fahlund said.

Friends and neighbors of Roger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wojcik, who live in the southwest Michigan community of Three Oaks, did not learn of the crushing emotional and financial problems faced by the family until just recently. When they found out, they did something about it.

Mayor Keith Gridley and Ronald Decker, a friend of the family, convinced the local Lions Club to raise money to help the Wojciks. The club established a special account at the Bank of Three Oaks to receive donations.

The Wojciks have accumulated more tpan $88,000 in hospital bills over the past 5 ½ years.

Insurance paid the first $20,000. The state, under The Crippled Children's Fund, has assumed a large share of the expenses but requires Wojcik to repay $80 a month and it regularly checks the family's earnings to determine if they can pay more.

Wojcik, 48, and his wife, Isabell, 46, both work fulltime in Michigan City, Ind., and together earn about $1,000 per month.

There is hope for Roger. Dr. Fahlund said that with persons born with epidemolysis bullosa who live to be 10-12 years of age, "chances of survival increase, and some of them do survive."

Roger's father is optimistic, too.

"They said he may not live five weeks and here is is over five years and he's still going," he said.

Pope Takes Time Out To Read Up On Judo

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI took some time off church affairs this week to read up on the rules of judo.

The 74-year-old pontiff disclosed it Wednesday in a brief address to members of the Italian Judo academy who attended his weekly general audience. He told them a reading of their rules and programs gave him "an impression of seriousness, of an almost ascetic way of life."

Top YMCA Aide Is Reelected

Marilyn R. Crowell of San Rafael, a member of the Marin County Board of Education, has been reelected chairman of the Marin Branch Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mrs. Crowell is the only woman who heads a YMCA branch board in the Pacific region, according to YMCA officials.

Also elected to serve in 1972 were John F. Plank, vice-chairman; Paul Hartman Jr., chairman of the finance committee, and David I. Fred, secretary.

Superb food, excellent drinks, and one lousy waiter.
A number of our friends in the restaurant business have made their reputations by providing the worst possible service. They allow you to wait for a table for an hour and a half, and then, if you're really lucky, you get a terribly rude waiter. Try as we might, we have been unable to accomplish this. We have only been able to come up with the owner's brother-in-law, who makes a pretty fair try at it. The rest, unfortunately, continue to do their jobs as best they can. Nevertheless, we've highlighted this one fellow in the hope that we may enjoy your patronage until we're able to improve our entire staff.

THE CONDUCTOR

British Prime Minister Edward Heath conducts the London Symphony Orchestra in a charity performance of Sir Edward Elgar's "Cockaigne" Overture at London's Royal Festive Hall. Although Heath, an avid organist and amateur conductor, won cheers and bravos yesterday from his audience, his appearance as guest conductor drew anger from some musicians on the grounds he was depriving a professional of a job. Mill Valley Session Will Be Wide Open

Communes, dogs, burglaries, parking woes, drugs, taxes, city services, growth limitations and the courts all have one thing in common. They're likely to be discussed Monday in Mill Valley.

Dubbed a gripe session by some and a town meeting by others, the session technically is an adjourned city council meeting. It's scheduled for 8 p.m. in the city hall council chambers.

Leading the discussion is likely to be talk about Mill Valley's anticommune ordinance, drug use, parking on narrow city streets, loitering and littering, burglaries and sanitation problems — all manifestations of Mill Valley's "hippie problem," according to some residents and councilmen.

Also to be discussed is the reporting of residential burglaries by the press, according to Mayor George E. Wickham. Some residents think burglary victims should not be mentioned by name or address.

Dog control probably will be a lively topic, with some citizens complaining about lack of patrols by the Marin County Humane Society, and other citizens claiming there's too much patrolling.

Limiting the growth of Mill Valley — Marin's fourth most populous city — and ways of cutting Marin's highest municipal tax rate also will be considered.

The locations of potential new downtown parking lots and the lack of parking space there also will be discussed.

Part of the discussion will focus on "what people expect from city government. The city is trying to do too many things," Wickham said.

Dinner Argument Ends In Slaying

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A squabble over who should get the light meat and who should get dark meat from the family's Thanksgiving turkey resulted in the shooting death of Glenn R. Williams, 19.

Williams argued with his uncle, Oscar Crawford, 57, at the Williams home Thursday, police said. Crawford allegedly went upstairs, returned with a .22 caliber rifle and shot his nephew.

Crawford was charged with murder.

Two Booked In Burglary Probe

Two San Rafael men were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary Thursday after police found them at a San Rafael home.

Thomas Eric Grayson, 21, of 247 D Street, Apt. 101, and Robert Louis Arnett II, 22, of 15 Sirard Lane were held in lieu of $3,500 bail each to appear in Marin Municipal court today.

Police said they responded to a burglary report at 2:48 p.m. at the residence of Jack G. MacPhee at 60 Woods Street and found Grayson outside the house and Arnett coming down the front stairs.

Two cameras which had been taken from a bedroom were found in the kitchen of the residence, police said.

E. Bay Man Is Held In Beating Case

A 21-year-old San Rafael woman was reported in satisfactory condition today at Kaiser Hospital in San Rafael, and a friend was being held at Marin County Jail on suspicion of beating her.

Pamela Laura Black of 45 Woodland Avenue, Apt. 29, suffered a cut scalp and multiple bruises, the hospital reported.

Johnnie Harris, 25, of Richmond, was booked by San Rafael police on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and possession of hashish. He was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Police said they were called to Miss Black's apartment at 3:29 a.m. today by neighbors who heard screams. When police arrived, they said, Miss Black ran to the door screaming for help. Harris was arrested on a balcony at the rear of the apartment, police said.

Officers said they found a small amount of hash in his pocket.

"Perhaps you can decide."

"I began my career in a small London catering shop when I was only eleven years old. At the age of fourteen, I began five demanding years of apprenticeship, working in some of the fine kitchens of England — at the Regent Hotel, the Strand, the Trocadero. Next came two years of more formal study. In recent years I have worked in excellent American restaurants — in New England, the South and here in California. And yet, with all of this experience . . . I still can't tell you which is the finest dish at the Chez Pierre Restaurant. There are so many! Perhaps you can decide."

Fairfax Hearing Could Be Helpful Or Harmful

Under way in Fairfax is a process that illustrates the essential fairness built into our system of local government.

Discharged Police Chief James R. Orr, at his own request, is receiving a full public airing of charges against him which were made by the city administrator and on the basis of which he was fired.

The Fairfax Board of Review is conducting the hearing in impartial, judicial manner which would be a credit to any court — although its members are just citizens serving without pay, not wearers of the judicial robe.

THE HEARING IS painful at points, both to Orr's sympathizers and to his accusers. But such is inevitably the case in a search for truth in any such controversy.

Some of the testimony no doubt is startling to people unacquainted with the operation of a police force. Police work is no "pink tea." The officers must be prepared at all times for all sorts of situations, and in preparing them, the department perforce must operate somewhat along military lines. (How well Fairfax's force was prepared is one of the points at issue.) The job of a policeman is not always a pretty job. His training cannot be merely academic.

So far in the hearing — which is not continuous, as it must be set up to allow for the board members to go on with their regular occupations — the prosecution has been presenting its case. Chief Orr's defense is yet to be heard, except in the form of cross-examination of some prosecution witnesses.

Before the hearing is over, the ousted chief will have ample opportunity to present his case. The board members — Frank L. Lawrence, Freeman Blake, Hugh Gallagher, William T. Benson and Alfred F. Daubenfield — have shown every indication of being as fair to one side as the other.

WHAT ALL the evidence will show, and what the board's decision will be, are matters that should not be speculated on at this time.

Whatever the decision, the result can be either beneficial or harmful to the Fairfax Police Department — and therefore to the City of Fairfax — depending on the kind of response to the facts brought out at the hearing.

Orr's "trial" could be used politically to undermine law enforcement in Fairfax. That would be a most disastrous outcome.

On the other hand, it could be used wisely to make whatever improvements are indicated in organization and training of the city's police force — and might suggest to other police departments in Marin some overlooked areas needing improvement.

If the hearing leads to the second result, Fairfax — and perhaps other cities, too — will benefit, whether Orr is reinstated in his position or whether someone else takes over as chief.

If the hearing leads to the first result, no police chief will be able to build a properly functioning department in Fairfax.

"Sure, I'm a lousy, rotten, crooked, selfish monster! But remember — I got YOU elected."

By RUS WALTON:

Schools' Summer Shutdown Horse-And-Buggy Stuff

SACRAMENTO — My dad was never one to let the grass grow in his tomato fields. Or bugs either.

And if school wasn't out by the first of June, he was right there with the other farmers giving the board of education what-for.

Same thing in the fall. The board didn't dare start school until the last crop had been picked and the last crate shipped. Then it was "drop your basket and pick up your books and git!"

The summer was for crops and the farmers called the shots. That was long ago. Now things are different.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH year-round schools?

For years, now, we've kicked the idea around. We've talked about it, groused about it — and done little about it.

But at last things seem to be moving!

This year three bills promoting year-round schools have passed the legislature.

One by Assemblywoman March Fong, D-Oakland, calls for a five-year experiment with various approaches to all-year schools. The trial runs would be made in two school districts selected by the state superintendent.

The other two bills — one by State Sen. Clair Burgener (R-Rancho Santa Fe), and one by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, (D-Campbell) — deal specifically with school districts in San Diego and Santa Clara counties.

THE BURGENER and the Vasconcellos measures are both based on a unique 45-15 continuous school year plan.

Children would go to school for 45 days (nine weeks), be off for 15 days (three weeks), go back to school for another 45 days, and so on. All year long. In rotating groups.

Students at each school would be divided into four groups. Three groups would be in class while the fourth was on vacation.

Children in the same family would be assigned to the same group. Families could still do things together.

Children in the same neighborhood would generally be in the same group. Kids could share their free time and busing schedules could be better coordinated.

All kids, and teachers, would get off for Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. And all would be off for a two-week period in the summer to permit maintenance on school buildings and equipment.

THE 45-15 PLAN is being used in the East and Midwest. It works well.

Parents and taxpayers like it. The economies are significant, and the constant pressures for added taxes and more bonds have subsided. The plan has had the effect of increasing school building capacities by one-third. In one Illinois district this was equal to 60 classrooms which would have cost $6 million.

Even the kids seem to go for it. They get more out of their studies. For one thing it is easier for teachers to sustain student interest for the shorter periods. For another, the kids don't forget as much of their work in a three-week vacation as they did during the three-month summer hiaitus.

It sounds like a great idea. I hope the governor signs the bills. We've stood around long enough. Let's do something!

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The prevalent fear of poverty among the educated classes is the worst moral-disease from which our civilization suffers. — William James.

No nation ever had an army large enough to guarantee it against attack in time of peace or insure it victory in time of war. — Calvin Coolidge.

Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you. — Thomas Jefferson.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Why Is Doughboy Just Hitch-Hiking?

Why is our World War I soldier boy hitch-hiking along the road instead of being placed in a position of honor in front of the new memorial theater?

It would have been a very natural spot for him — I'm sure.

Deer Very Quiet Except When Startled

It amused me to read about the "Noisy Deer."

In residential areas, the deer are very quiet, cautious and fearful of dogs. They have no herd to protect them. It is usually one deer, who has been lying down and becomes frightened, that makes such a crashing noise. They must do it to freighten a dog away. The deer do not seem to fear women, but even when I distrub a sleeping or restind deer — what a noise he makes!

To watch the deer and see the serious little babies, who never play, is to love them. A dog seems crude and my cat seems somewhat insipid.

Bombing Editorial Recalls Promises

Your editorial on the increased military bombings recalled both Mr. Nixon's 1968 peace promises and General Curtis LeMay's shocking proposals to "bomb them back to the Stone Age." These nights when I am awakened by the terrible thunderings of the Hamilton jets, I am kept awake by thoughts of suffering and devastation. To think about the bombings is heartbreaking, but to ignore them is as dehumanizing as Nazism. Thank you for reminding us.

Mineral Society Show Successful

The 1971 show committee of this organization, at its Nov. 19 meeting which concluded its work, asked me to write you in expression of our appreciation for the publicity which you gave the show — particularly the front page picture on Nov. 13.

The committee felt that this had a marked effect on our Sunday attendance, and we are most grateful for such assistance toward success in our first independent show.

What Other Course Than Continue Bombing?

Regarding your editorial on bombing while the casualties are going down:

That Carnegie Institute blandly says that the bombings are doing no good. Coming from a university, what else could you expect? What they pointedly omit is any recommendation as to how else you can stop the Communists in Vietnam. The only conclusion you can draw is that whoever it is that drew up the report had no interest in preserving freedom in South Vietnam.

As for your own remarks on it, I think you also miss the main point — we aren't bombing for the fun of it. The Communists are trying to move material and make attacks on the non-Communist side and Nixon's way is at least holding the balance while cutting down American deaths. Both bombing and casualties will come down when the Communists quit trying to conquer the south.

Other Paper Boys, But None Like Michael

This is a letter of acknowledgement for the extraordinary and continousness in which our paper boy, Michael Gravel, does his work.

We have had other paper boys but none of them could nor would measure up to Michael.

We never have to worry about our paper in good weather, because the paper is always on our porch. In foul weather we need never worry, as our paper is in out of the rain. The paper is placed behind the screen door or handed to us.

We always know about what time our paper will arrive. Also the collection is on the same day.

I thought I would write this letter to show our appreciation in some small way. We are leaving this area, but will always remember Michael and the good services we received.

Vietnam Milestone — And Monstrous Waste

During the Balkan War of 1913 someone threw something explosive out of an airplane at someone else in what was supposed to be the first case in history of air bombardment. This precedent was followed by a considerable number of nations in the years since then.

This bit of history is important because we either already have or soon will pass an interesting milestone in Vietnam, that being that in Vietnam we shall have dropped more bombs than have been dropped by all sides in all the other wars, revolutions, insurrections, and practice missions since that ill-starred day in 1913.

One may protest that it is criminally immoral to pour such massive destruction on a ragged guerrilla army supported by the northern half of a fourth-rate Asian nation.

But such terms are unintelligible to the present administration. One must approach them from a point of view they can comprehend. Those who protest this abomination should instead point out the fantastic degree of military ineffectiveness of such use of massive air power. One should point out the monstrous waste of money, raw material, and effort. One should point out the terrible burden on taxpayers such a policy imposes, especially in an election year. This they will understand, not the one-sided killing of Asian people on a mass-production basis.

Sen. Jackson's Candidacy Offers Democrats New Kind Of Choice

It is good for the country to have a man of his caliber seeking the presidency. It is good for politics. It is good for the Democratic Party.

He gives the Democrats the opportunity — if they so choose — to nominate a full-fledged man of the political center.

He gives them a candidate who would have, more than his competitors, the eager support of rank-and-file labor and union leadership.

He would give the voters an opportunity to choose a liberal Democrat who at the same time is determined to keep America strong. His view is that America can't expect to remain at peace by leaving the peace-keeping mostly to others.

IN THIS RANGE of choice, Jackson offers the Democratic Party a distinctive alternative, a candidate who, in the areas of both domestic and foreign policy, stands where every Democratic President has stood from 1932 to 1964.

This is why many Democratic leaders are relieved that Jackson is going after the nomination actively and energetically.

This is why Jackson has support from both Democratic and Republican middle-road conservatives. They trust his steadiness.

THE JACKSON STRATEGISTS are convinced that their bigger hurdle is not winning the election but winning the nomination. They believe he would be stronger than any other candidate against President Nixon. They see him as a most effective challenger to Nixon on the main issues. My information is that Nixon feels the same way. He would rather run against any other Democrat than Jackson.

His Democratic opponents want to cloud Jackson with the image of super-hawk. Yet super-hawk means he wants to see the United States be the world's long policeman, wants the United States to defend every piece of real estate in the world against aggression. This is false. He believes defending South Vietnam was prudent, but he opposed Nixon's incursion into Cambodia and as evidence of this he voted for the Cooper-Church amendment to keep GIs out of Cambodia.

"I'm neither a hawk nor a dove," he says in describing his stand on military and security matters. "I just don't want my country to become a pigeon."

The state of Washington has a balanced electorate — a large labor vote, a substantial farm vote, and urban and suburban constituencies. It is as balanced, if not more balanced, than Maine, Massachusetts or Minnesota. Jackson won re-election to the Senate in 1970 in his state by a higher percentage of the total vote than Muskie, Kennedy or Humphrey did in theirs. He won with 84 per cent of the votes, higher than any other Democrat running for office.

Canada's Gas Wells May Hold Trudeau's 'Revenge'

By ERNEST B. FURGUSON

MONTREAL, Can. — Anyone in the States who is at all conscious of the growing grumpiness in Canadian-American relations also is likely puzzled about it. Who is right — the United States, embracing Canada in a friendly bear hug that is smothering its economic and cultural personality, or Canada, seeking desperately to squirm out of the bear hug without losing all the benefits of our closeness?

Fortunately, for all those who have not figured out a clear answer to this frustrating situation, Ralph Nader gave the matter his brief attention the other day, and the truth is now a matter of public record.

Nader whipped into Montreal and told a series of audiences that Canada has lost its ability to defend against American economic domination, and in fact has become a mere "supercolony" of the United States. If Ottawa does not consider nationalizing its resources, such as oil, then Canada may wind up in ever closer economic union with the United States, he said. He added that a few gloomy statements by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau were an inadequate response to the economic problems created in Canada by Mr. Nixon's 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

HAVING SPOKEN, Nader headed for the airport to fly another bombing mission against General Motors or Florida orange juice or the people who own California or some other target, and as his plane took off the citizens of Montreal, Vancouver, Toronto, Winnipeg, Igloolik, Great Whale, Mammamattawa and unnamed fishing and lumbering settlements in Quebec and the Yukon stood just where they stood when he arrived — perceiving the problem perfectly, but still wondering how to solve it.

Those citizens and Canada's leaders know well that Canada's economy is tied so tightly to that of the United States that any drastic changes will hurt them at least as much as their absentee board members and trading partners south of the border. So what is done, if for purposes of politics and ego something must indeed be done, has to be carefully considered, as inoffensive as possible to Washington, and certain not to backfire to Canada's greater disadvantage.

In fact, even as Nader was needling Trudeau about his gloomy statements, the Canadian government was considering, rejecting and implementing various responses — accompanied by polite disclaimers that those moves had any connection at all with the Nixon surcharge that affects about 25 per cent of Canada's exports to the United States.

MITCHELL SHARP, the external affairs minister, told Commons that Canada had no intention of swapping any concessions for lifting of the surcharge. That would encourage other countries to impose such levies and then demand concessions for their removal. He said specifically that there was no truth to reports that Canada was going to bargain her energy resources against the American surcharge.

But earlier Trudeau cut off energy talks with American representatives promptly after the surcharge was imposed. And last week, at about the same time he indicated those talks might now resume, Canada's National Energy Board turned down the sale of 2.66 trillion cubic feet of natural gas to three U.S. companies — a deal worth $1 billion over the next 15 to 20 years. It was the first time since major gas sales to the United States began nine years ago that the board had flatly denied such applications.

No, of course, the decision had nothing to do with the surcharge, the government told questions. The National Energy Board is nonpolitical. But you and I and the rest of the world know that the best negotiations often start out in disguise. And the Canadian government is aware in great detail of the fact that consumption of natural gas in the United States has been growing at a rate of 6.6 per cent a year, and at that rate, proved reserves in the States are enough for only the next 13 years.

TALK ABOUT TRILLIONS of cubic feet of gas may mean nothing to the marching anti-American student with his placard or the trapper along Hudson Bay.

But if Mr. Trudeau is the pragmatist he professes to be, he will realize that most Canadians are quite happy with the high living standard that grows directly out of their ties with the United States. He will continue to cater to their pride without threatening their pocketbooks.

Thompson's Resignation Saddens Even His Most Bitter Enemies

It is probable that even trustee Robert Thompson's worst enemies were a bit disappointed at his recent resignation from the Sausalito School District board.

Even many of those who disliked him and his ideas and fought with him at every turn agreed he was a most worthy opponent and a witty, intelligent foe. Not everyone can make the people who hate him laugh, but Thompson had the ability to do just that.

With Thompson's resignation, control of the school board is again up for grabs, since the remaining board consists of one "liberal" and two "conservative" members.

It will be interesting to see whether the liberal contingent of the Sausalito community will make a real attempt to regain power from the conservatives who have held the reins for more than a year now.

AT STAKE NEXT year will be the future of the district, since trustees are considering plans for its reorganization.

Most school district watchers had assumed the city's liberals had died, moved away or been lost at sea, since almost none had been heard from since the successful recall election last June.

But a recent meeting of the school board to discuss the possible re-organization brought the old guard — including three former trustees — out in force. During the meeting reporters kept expecting former Principal Sidney Walton and former Supt. Phil Schneider to walk in the door at any minute, perhaps even hand in hand. But the two leaders of past district controversies did not appear.

IN THE LAST SEVERAL months many Marin residents and groups have begun to demand a recycling system for solid wastes and water in any new sewage treatment facilities planned in the county.

Some say the recycled solid wastes can be used as a mulch and fertilizer for pasture land and even for food crops.

If this comes to pass and recycled sewage catches on, it may produce an interesting and unexpected side effect, at least if reports from other areas where recycling is already taking place are accurate.

It seems that certain plant seeds are impervious to the treatment process and consequently sprout and grow wherever the recycled wastes are spread.

Our informants say that among the seeds which survived treatment are those of tomatoes and of that wicked devil weed, marijuana.

So the pot which is flushed either during a raid or as a convenient method for disposing of unusable seeds and stems may go on to another life, maybe even in the gardens of police, state and county officials!

A friend who lives near a Marin treatment plant confirms the story, saying that a bumper crop of marijuana grows up and flourishes every spring in the vicinity of the facility. He's not complaining, but refuses to give his address or the name or location of the plant in question.

2 Service District Aides' Terms Set

Richard L. Less and Vernon H. Nicholson, members of the newly combined Terra Linda community services district board, will serve two-year terms on that board.

The two short terms were decided upon at a meeting of the new board, which does not officially become effective until January, in order to stagger the election of board members in the future.

Less and Nicholson drew the two-years terms at the meeting Tuesday. The other newly elected board members — Robert N. Bennett, Hubert F. Cooper and Harold J. Reese — will serve four-year terms.

The new board was elected Nov. 2 when Terra Linda voters approved merger of the community services district and the recreation-park district.

Less said the new board members discussed reorganization plans in general Tuesday and made several decisions as well.

He said the budgets of the two districts will be retained through the end of this fiscal year. Beginning with fiscal 1972-73, the budgets will be combined.

Henry Chazankin, the only candidate not elected to the new board, was named by the board to serve as chairman of a citizens advisory committee to act as a liaison between the board and the community.

Less said the board is seeking volunteers for the citizens committee.

The outgoing community services and recreation-park boards will meet for further reorganization discussions at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13 at the recreation center, Less said.

David Harris To Appear In Marin

A speech by pacifist David Harris, sponsored by Marin Peace Coalition, is scheduled for 3 p.m. Dec. 4 at the College of Marin gymnasium.

Harris, former student-body president at Stanford University, spent 20 months in federal prison for refusing induction into the Army.

Since being released from prison last March, Harris, who is married to singer Joan Baez, has been speaking in opposition to the Vietnam war. He has said he considers himself a nonviolent revolutionary, advocating a complete overhaul of American institutions.

His appearance in Marin will be a benefit for the Alternative Institutions program of the peace coalition.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

'Refer To Staff' At Heart Of County Government's Ills

It was good to see and read the two editorials — Jack Craemer's 'Editor's Notebook' on Saturday and the editorial on the Civic Center in Tuesday's issue. They were right on target. I know because I was intensely involved in the matters they dealt with. If you missed either of them try and get a copy. It will be worth your effort.

Basically it's a matter of abdication — a policy of letting "staff" do it and we'll rubber stamp it. The following excerpts are prime examples. In a recent issue of the I-J this:

"REPLY TO '70 Grand Jury Due Study — Marin County's response to the 1970 grand jury report will be considered tomorrow at the county board of supervisor's meeting . . .

"The response, a 16-page document of quick answers to questions and findings of the 1970 jury, is more than five months late.

"According to a covering letter the delay is atrributed to a 'staff oversight,' which one county official blamed on (the) former county administrator . . .

"In part of the report, the supervisors responded to criticism that they had too great a dependency on the county administrator's office, saying that the problem has been corrected.

"Although the board of supervisors has minimized its reliance on the delegation to the county administrator, the board agrees that the 1970 incumbent (Bruce) in that office 'gave the image of excessive authority . . . Personnel changes since that time, have corrected the problem.' "

MY FRIENDS, that is just some more hoo-mali-mali. Will the supervisor or supervisors who wrote that 16-page reply please stand up?

Consider this: From this column of April 30 — At a dinner meeting of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, Bruce was the invited guest. Mrs. Margaret B. Azevedo, the chairman, paid him high tribute for courage and competence. Supervisors Michael Wornum, Peter Arigoni and Arnold Baptiste were also in attendance.

Wornum (apperantly acting as spokesman) expressed regret that "political necessity" had forced the supervisors to press for Bruce's resignation. He also said, "The job you did for the county can never be fully repaid."

Conditions haven't changed. They are all just trying to make less waves. All one has to do is the read the minutes of the board meetings. Are matters referred to different members of the board to report back? Not so! It's the same old gag. "Refer to staff." Makes things sound more important.

He's Back Playing 18 Holes Of Golf

ENID, Okla. — Two years ago, C.C. Waggoner gave up golf. It seemed a little strenuous.

Hints For The Holiday Wardrobe

(I-J Special Report)

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — For a creative holiday wardrobe you can make party and at-home costumes in little more than an hour, according to the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, who suggest three basic designs.

Endless variations begin with a basic bodysuit, a yard or so of fabric and some paste-on holiday trim.

A Miss Santa Claus suit starts with a bold-ribbed bodystocking in green. A wraparound miniskirt and a Santa hat are fashioned from red velvet with bunny fur circling the hem of the skirt and the neckline and wrists of the stocking.

Ideal for relaxed gatherings, intimate holiday dinners or evenings at home is the ensemble which begins with either a lacy or a textured bodysuit. An accent of luxury comes from a plush velvet skirt, slit up the side and highlighted with a contrasting waistband. A neckband, made from the waistband material, is spotlighted with a sprig of holly.

A MEDIEVAL look can bring centuries of Christmas tradition to this year's party, and its basic is a bodysuit in either a sparkling metallic thread or a solid color. A tunic is worn over the bodysuit. In maxi or minilength it is especially easy to make from felt, which requires no hemming or lining. Trim the tunic with contrasting or metallic braid or an applique design.

The beauty of these moodmakers is their simplicity. Few, if any, patterns and very little time required.

The big secret is the bodysuit which you'll find in hosiery departments and the new stretch yarns make possible a good fit for petite and mature silhouettes.

After the holidays, you can combine the same bodysuit with skirts or pantsuits, and continue wearing them throughout the winter season.

Old Drape Uses

Drapes that are badly worn can be used to make covers for machines, as packing material and as dust cloths. Your first impulse may be to try to make slipcovers from such drapes. But don't unless the drapes pass this test: Wet a spot that has hung near center of window and pull with fingers. If damage results, don't waste time making slipcovers. The drapes are too worn.

These outside numbers with their wide brims sloping slightly downward were featured in the Brooks collection in airy looking straws in black or white. Brooks made them with open crowns.

A Light Razor

A new razor has two parallel blades and the manufacturer says it removes about 40 per cent more hair than does a single blade edge applied over the same area and under the same conditions. The razor for women weighs only one ounce, the manufacturer says.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Should There Be Double Standards For Living, Dead?

DEAR HELEN:

Talk about double standards — they apply not just to men and women but to the dead and living.

Lately there's been a rash of exposes about the private lives of famous men, now dead. While these presidents and political leaders were alive, we peons were led to believe that they were great family men and would never stray from the marital bed.

But let them be gone for a few years and facts — which were certainly known in inner circles all along — get printed.

Here's my question: If it's news now, why wasn't it even greater news when the men were alive? My opinion is that a man's love life is his own private affair and should be honored as such, at least until all his immediate relatives (who could be hurt by scandal) are also dead.

If chroniclers don't feel this way, then they should follow their "honesty" through and tell the truth about the famous man at the time it is happening. What do others think? — DAN

DEAR DAN:

An unwritten law of politics is: hit your opponent with everything but his extra-curricular sex life — possibly because he can pay you back in kind. After he's dead, you can't affect his vote-getting power, so a "personal story" is no longer considered dirty pool. (Instead, it's highly saleable "dirty linen.")

I'm with you, Dan. We have precious few heroes. Why tarnish their memories with exposes about affairs we considered their own private business while they were living? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Two years or so ago you quoted the director of a home for unwed mothers as saying that perhaps half of the under-15-year-olds were there as the result of incest. I was shocked and unbelieving — then. I'm not any more.

Thank heavens our Nancy, age 13, could have an abortion. But the mental damage is what frightens me. She won't talk about the pregnancy. Says it was caused by "a boy," but she had no boy friends, was so over-protected by her father that there were no opportunities. She is painfully shy.

There were opportunities at home. I'll never be sure, but how can I keep on living with a man I suspect? How can I keep my daughter in this house? How can I keep us all from going crazy? We live in silence. I can't sleep at night. I'm ever watchful. I can't voice my suspicion to anyone. The only thing worse than living with uncertainty is to find out beyond doubt that it is true. Knowing my husband — it could be!

What can I do? — SHATTERED LIFE

DEAR S:

You can't go on living with this kind of suspicion, whether you stay with your husband or leave him. Nor can your daughter carry her burden alone all of her life — whether it's protecting a twisted father or facing your silent accusations.

Counseling for both you and your daughter is an absolute necessity. I don't know what you'll learn, but believe me, the truth won't be nearly as bad as the uncertainty! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother thought my dad was the world's greatest, truest man. After his death, I was going through his papers and came across a love letter which strongly indicated he was having a long-time affair with his secretary, now also dead. Does mother have a right to know? — SON

DEAR SON:

NO! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

ON BEING BLACK

'Let Me Be The First To Wish...'

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Oh, brother, I thought to myself. What's this fool up to? I tried to ignore the man who was grinning broadly and honking his horn as he paced his car alongside mine as we drive toward the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

He continued to honk and wave.

Maybe it's an emergency — my rear tire is flat. (Nope.) He's a long lost friend that I don't recognize — an Afro-American Rip Van Winkle. I glanced at him again. (Nope.) A stranger (with emphasis on strange).

HE SEEMED please to catch my eye at last and waved wildly.

An escaped mental patient? A drunk? I changed lanes. He made a similar adjustment and soon we were again lane by lane — side by side.

Smiling broadly, he continued to gesticulate. I glanced his way again. Actually, he looked quiet comical, but I didn't dare smile. After all, this is the big city and one never knows what kind of nut one's dealing with. If he were on the make, he would take the smile as a positive response to his attentions. If he were a paranoid schizo, he might interpret a smile as "making fun of him" and go into a rage — in so doing, accidentally ram my car off the bridge and into the bay. I changed lanes again.

He continued to smile and honk his horn as we neared the toll station. Finally, he dashed in front of me and stopped to pay his toll. I drove up behind him.

The toll agent was obviously amused. "No charge lady, the guy up ahead just paid your toll for you."

I DROVE as slowly (reverse psychology) as the flow of traffic would permit, but soon he was at my side again. Honking his horn, he held up a red sign with black lettering — "Let Me Be the First."

This fool is really crazy! The first what? For crying out loud, I've got three kids. And for the price of the bridge toll . . .

Up popped another sign — "To Wish You A Merry Christmas."

Still grinning, like a fool, he took the next exit off the freeway and disappeared.

Well, that was certainly one way to participate in Holiday Mania USA — that frosted fantasy that has become a commercial monster, much in need of human revitalization.

Suffice it to say, because reality for many people is very harsh, the Christmas fantasy is not one were likely to give up. But there are ways to salve some of life's tediousness, harshness and unhappiness.

DURING THE 25 or so shopping days until Christmas, especially for those folk with one lean paycheck until Christmas, we might shop around for humanitarian ways to convey the holiday feeling of "goodwill toward men." These attitudes and actions will hopefully carry over after the holiday season.

Try speaking to someone you know only vaguely. Smile at a stranger, even a paranoid schizophrenic. Congratulate your children on an improved spelling test. The kids can congratulate mom on making the hot cereal lumpless for a change and clean up their rooms without grumbling.

Write just a line to a friend or relative you have put off writing to all year. Call your ex-husband's mother and return the books you borrowed from the local "soft touch" resident.

Let an elderly person have your bus seat. Hopefully it won't shock him to death, and tell your spouse you still have a thing mentally for him or her.

There are ways and, by the way, let me be the first, or second, if you've met that nut on the bridge, to wish you a Merry Christmas.

Parental Guilt Tied To Family Breakdown

(I-J Special Report)

SAN FRANCISCO — Responsibility often changes to guilt for parents of children who have problems, according to social worker Ken Miller, who works with parents of girls living at Mount St. Joseph's Home for Girls in San Francisco.

Without knowing what has happened, communication lines close between parent and child, and the generation gap becomes a crises, he says.

Often when teen-agers cannot face up to family problems such as a parent's remarriage or the mental breakdown of a parent, they begin to skip school, stay away from home or experiment with drugs. Their behavior compounds the original problem, and parents find themselves with a teen-ager they cannot control.

The home is one of several in the Bay Area providing substitute home care in cases where family counselors or the court recommend out-of-home placement.

The small group living under constant adult supervision and emphasis on remedial education to bring girls up to grade level are important aspects of programs of the homes. A new approach is to provide counseling for a girl and her family beginning at the time of her admission. In some cases early counseling has restored a sense of worthiness to parents who felt stigmatized because of a misbehaving child.

By understanding their own behavior, the parents are able to provide constructive help for their daughters in less time than before.

Physicist Creates A Fabric

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)— Elsa Garmire doesn't really like fashion shows.

But she had to go to one put on by the Wool Bureau Inc., at the California Institute of Technology, and to the dinner preceding it at the faculty club, because she was the guest of honor.

The young Cal Tech physicist used laser beams to create a swirling multi-colored print for the fabric in a spaceage eveninggown being modeled as the climax of the show.

"I'm anti-fashion," she said. "But I've been working with lasers for 10 years, and I'm interested in promoting the idea of laser art.

"FOR ONE thing, it's organic. Computer images look artificial, but laser images look organic and alive."

Dr. Garmire had been photographing laser beam abstracts and selling them as wall hangings, and doing laser light shows for quite some time.

"Then a newswoman interviewed me as one of Cal Tech's 'groovy people,'" she said with a laugh.

"I showed her what I have been doing with lasers, and said I thought it could be used for printing fabric. She got in touch with the Wool Bureau and they got in touch with me about the idea."

DR. GARMIRE projected the laser-image onto a wall and photographed it. Then Andre Dorlet made a silk screen of it and it was printed on wool jersey in more muted tones.

"I guess they had to do that, so it wouldn't be too gaudy," Dr. Garmire said, with a touch of regret.

"I'm a scientist and an artist," Dr. Garmire says. "I don't like things to be put in boxes—art here, science here. I want to combine them, so anyone can do anything they want."

The native of Hinsdale, Ill., met her husband, Gordon, a physics professor and expert on cosmic x-rays, when she was studying physics at Radcliffe and he at Harvard.

"I'm a very unliberated woman," she says.

"I got married on the day I graduated from college, and I'm just lucky I picked someone I still get along with so well."

THE COUPLE got PhDs at MIT, where she worked with Dr. Charles Townes, who won the Nobel Prize for innovative physics while she was studying under him.

Her elder daughter, Lisa, 6, was born the day she finished her thesis.

Now Dr. Garmire is a senior research fellow in integrated optics, but she works only part-time, devoting her attention to Lisa and Marla, 3.

A vice president of the Los Angeles chapter of the organization, Experiments in Art and Technology, Dr. Garmire was a consulting engineer on pavilion at Expo '70, and made two trips to Japan to oversee the light designs and safety measures.

"It's my secret dream to make laser art as popular as Peter Max designs," she said.

(I-J Special Report)

NEW YORK — The marriage rate in the United States has risen 26 per cent in the last decade, according to a study on international marriage trends by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Last year, the United States recorded 10.6 marriages per 1,000 population, compared to a record low of 8.4 in 1961, and now has the highest rate in the world.

Nevertheless, note statisticians, although the United States ranks high, in the past seven years Canadian marriages increased more than 27 per cent, with the annual number of marriages reaching new highs in each of the last three years.

All English speaking countries are reporting increases in marriage. Another example is Australia, which recorded a rise of 24.3 per cent in the past decade.

Puerto Rico's marriage rate is also high, paralleling that of the United States and Canada — 10.5 par 1,000 population, or a 15.4 per cent increase.

Needlework Festival Brings In $5,500

The Festival of Needlework held this month at the Hall of Flowers in San Francisco netted $5,500 to be used for a training program for high school students at the San Francisco Community Rehabilitation Workshop.

The second festival of needlework has already been scheduled for November, 1972, at the Hall of Flowers.

New Bra Line

A new line of bras, for the first time, comes in odd number sizes — 33 to 39. Current sizes come in even numbers. The manufacturer says in coming out in odd number measurements the bras aren't being changed in girth alone. The contours of the odd-numbered bras are being changed, too.

Rotate Drapes

Rotate curtains and drapes several times a year so that those exposed to strongest sun rays will get a "rest."

Pressure On Children's Programs

Because a Newton Center, Mass., mother became incensed over what her children were seeing on television, there is now a national group dedicated to upgrading children's TV programming.

Evelyn Sarson, who started it all in 1968 with three of her Newton neighbors, is now president of Action for Children's Television. As a result of ACT's members, numbering some 800 with thousands of other supporters, the Federal Communications Commission is now considering ACT's guidelines.

THE GUIDELINES recommended that commercials in children's shows, be replaced with a mention of the sponsor's name at the end of the show, that shows be designed for children of varying ages, and that children's program hosts be prohibited from touting products on the air.

So far, ACT has generated some 80,000 letters to the FCC to this end.

In an article in the November McCall's magazine, Mrs. Sarson, who had worked for the news service Reuters prior to coming to the U.S., says that her own rules for her children's television watching are time limits.

"I ALLOW them to watch whatever they like, and often on Saturday mornings I sit with them to get their reactions. Sure, they watch a lot of junk, but I think parents should express their opinions. If you think the programs are terrible, say so," she said.

Her own children are a daughter, 8, and a son, 7. ACT operated from members' home until a few months ago when a private grant enabled it to rent an office at 46 Austin Street, Newtonville, Mass. There Mrs. Sarson works each day until the children come home from school.

Pantsuits Up

Sales of pants and pantsuits this fall are up about 35 per cent, report women's clothing stores, according to Women's Wear Daily. The pants are remaining more popular than the ankle-length skirt, which has also been a best-seller. Classic sportswear and layered look are reasons given for the popularity of the pants this fall.

Modest Minismock For The Expectant

The modest minismock coat is the ensemble ladies-in-waiting will wear next summer, according to Women's Wear Daily.

The snappy cotton smock and matching coat with a floral chintz yoke is one of the maternity looks both French and American mothers-to-be will wear.

Right Facial Makeup Is A Matter Of Need

When choosing the correct facial makeup, a woman must consider her own specific complexion needs, according to beauty authority Max Factor, if she is to achieve the most beautiful results.

On normal skin almost any makeup will be suitable, so it is simply a question of personal preference, depending upon the amount of coverage desired.

If you have a dry skin make sure your complexion is getting an abundance of beneficial moisturizers. Select a moisturizing foundation, and apply an undercoat of untinted under makeup lotion for added protection.

Oily skin looks best with a light, non-greasy cake foundation. For young makeup users whose skins tend to be oil and sensitive, a gently medicated, hypo-allergenic foundation.

A combination skin, one that is dry in some areas and oily in others, is particularly enhanced with a light liquid or fluid foundation. In this instance, apply an under makeup moisturizer to the dry areas.

Not Dull, Drab

Selecting meals that have something from each of the four food groups (milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals) does not mean they must be dull or drab. A juicy hamburger patty, topped with crisp lettuce and sliced ripe tomatoes, served on a toasted enriched bun along with a glass of cold milk, is an excellent example of a meal that includes each of the four food groups.

A Sewing Tip

No more tangled threads on spools in the sewing box if you place a thumbtack on one end of the spool and twist the thread around it.

SILVER SPRINGS, Md. (UPI)—Colors on modern fabrics are subject to fading in both sun and artificial light.

Think twice before you hang a garment out to air. And keep the lights off in clothes closets, advises the National Institute of Drycleaning.

Nader Hits U.S. On Auto Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Contending that the government's auto safety agency is moving too slow, Ralph Nader today urged Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe to personally intervene in the investigation of defective engine mounts on 1965-69 Chevrolets.

The consumer advocate said the Transportation Department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) has spent two years investigating complaints about engine mounts and still has not acted. In a letter to Volpe, Nader said he has received more than 300 complaints about engine mounts since September.

General Motors has received "at least 1,500," and the automaker also has conceded that it had replaced under warranty guarantee "some 100,000 engine mounts," Nader claimed.

"You must act to halt the spread of this mechanical epidemic which may afflict as many as one in 10 cars now on the nation's highway," Nader told Volpe.

He accused the NHTSA of "callous disregard" for the safety of 1965-69 Chevrolet owners, and urged Volpe to take immediate action to order GM to notify the owners of the possible defects.

"Under the pressure of your action and complaints from thousands of owners, General Motors might also be awakened to their responsibility to repair the remaining defective Chevrolets at their expenses," Nader said.

Jazz Dance Session At Dominican College

About 200 high school and junior college students from throughout the Bay Area are expected at Dominican College in San Rafael Tuesday for a day of dance programs.

The 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. event, sponsored by the college's department of movement education, will include sessions on modern jazz techniques, advanced modern dance techniques and dance composition to the college.

$42,000 For Birth Pill Mixup

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A married couple has won a $42,000 judgment against a drug store they said mixed up a birth control prescription, causing them to have a child.

Maxine Pearson, 46, and her husband Albert, 47, a plastering contractor, said Mrs. Pearson was given sleeping pills instead of birth control pills, resulting in the birth of their son David, now 6.

They already had three children, all grown, they said, and a grandchild who is a year older than David.

Their suit asked for $67,000 but the jury voted 9-3 to award them $42,000 , based on the estimated cost of raising the Child to the age of 21.

Burglary Suspect Pleads Innocent

Christopher Kevin Greene, 20, of Mill Valley has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set preliminary hearing for Dec. 7.

Greene was arrested Sunday by Fairfax police, who said they found him inside an apartment storage building at 2525 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Officers said they found in Greene's car some property taken during a Nov. 7 burglary of the same building.

Innocent Plea To Dope Possession

Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman has set his preliminary hearing for Dec. 7.

McReynolds was arrested Nov. 4 on a Fairfax arrest warrant, which charged that he dropped a small plastic bag containing heroin when police approached him on a Fairfax hill on Sept. 24.

GRACE IN MOTION

A graceful leap is accomplished by Ann Marie DeAngelo of the San Francisco Ballet Company, shown performing the Don Quixote Pas De Deux. She will appear with Novato's Conservatory of Ballet in "The Nutcracker" at Novato High School at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 3.

A Bright Outlook On The Economy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Poll says President Nixon's wage-price freeze has put Californians in a more hopeful mood about their economic well being.

More than three times as many think they will be better off economically a year from now as believe they will be worse off.

Statistical results from the poll, released Thursday, showed that statewide, 66 per cent favored controls on wages and prices; that 38 per cent think the cost of things families buy went up and 54 per cent believe they stayed the same since the Aug. 15 freeze on wages and prices.

Thirty-six per cent of the public believes salaries and income have kept pace with inflation during the past year, and 57 per cent feel that salaries and income have not kept pace, the poll said.

Some 42 per cent feel they will be better off financially a year from now, while 41 per cent expect no change. Thirteen per cent think they will be worse off.

Novato Players Ready Mystery

The Novato Community Players will hold tryouts for Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution" Sunday and Monday at Novato Community House.

Tryouts will be from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday and 7 to 11 p.m. Monday, reported Paul Terry, publicity chairman.

The courtroom drama will be presented Feb. 25 and 26 and March 3 and 4.

Evans Burke, who directed the community players' "Burlesque Ain't Dead" and "The Fantasticks," will direct the play.

Auditions are open to persons at least 21, Terry said. There are roles open for men and women.

Concert Set By College Band

The College of Marin Community Band, conducted by John H. Myers, will present its first concert of the school year at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 11 in the college's Fine Arts Theater.

Other numbers on the program, to be conducted by Myers, include "Music for a Festival" by Gordon Jacob and "March on Sea Songs" by Vaughn-Williams, both original works for band.

The bank also will perform transcriptions of "Rienzi Overture" by Wagner, Polka and Fugue by Stravinsky and "Danza Final" by Ginastera.

Comedy Planned At Redwood

A student production of Woody Allen's "Don't Drink the Water" is scheduled for 8 p.m. next Thursday, Friday and Dec. 4 in the Little Theater at Redwood High School.

The two-act comedy, directed by Joe Wadlington, revolves around an American family accused of spying in a Communist country.

FAMILY

"Black Beauty" — This classic tale of a boy who trains and loves a remarkable horse, only to lose him when the farm is sold. The odyssey of Black Beauty's travels until he meets his trainer again is delightfully portrayed.

Le Mans" — An account of the most taxing and grueling of all auto races in the world. Fictional story seems unimportant to racing fans.

"Marooned" — Film tells of plight of three astronauts who, after completing their test mission in an orbiting space laboratory find they are marooned in space. All technicalities are authentically detailed.

"On Any Sunday" — The variety of motorcycle competitions across 100,000 miles of track around the world is presented in a documentary style with frequent touches of humor. Great photography.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Beneath the Planet of Apes" — Second in a series. As space explorers flee from apes who control earth they discover a civilization beneath the earth.

"Bless the Beasts and Children" — A tragi-comedy gives a realistic and depressing picture about six teenage boys and a camp counselor, all misfits. Their reaction to seeing sadistic sportsmen slaughtering penned-up buffalo is thought provoking.

"Catlow" — An amusing friendly-enemy relationship exists between Catlow, a quick-draw-good-badman and the marshal. Plenty of action, good score, acting and photography. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Escape From Planet of Apes" — The third in a series shows how a young woman and two men cross through a time barrier and land on earth in the year 2000. Their reception is hilarious. The ending would be upsetting for small children.

"Kotch" — Strong on honest sentiment this human comedy is about a grandfather who leaves his son's home and sets up housekeeping for a young unmarried pregnant teen-ager. Highly entertaining.

"The Last Run" — A retired gangster decides to test himself on a last run in helping an escaped convict. Scott's protrayal of knives on anyone who crosses her path makes this a bloodbath. Amateurish direction.

ADULTS ONLY

"Carnal Knowledge" — The sex lives of two men from college days to middle life done in a two-dimensional, cynical, satirical style which does become tiresome. Language and sex are explicit.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — Set in a frontier town in Washington in the 1890s the conflict in this story revolves around the big boss of the town and the owner of the saloon and brothel. Vulgarity, broad humor and brutality are abundant and graphic.

"Murphy's War" — British merchant seaman is obsessed with getting revenge against the submarine responsible for the loss of his shipmates. Well done.

"One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" — A grim story about small happenings during one day of a 10-year sentence in a Siberian labor camp. Excellent acting. Filmed in Norway.

"The Organization" — Sidney Poitier returns as Lt. Virgil Tibbs, detective, in search of a murderer following a $4 million heroin robbery. (Boxoffice Magazine).

"Paint Your Wagon" — A lusty, irreverent musical of Gold Rush days in a mining town. Elaborately mounted broad comedy, at times raucous and tasteless.

"Planet of Apes" — A provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodramatic science fiction about three American astronauts who crash-land through a bend in time and discover they are on earth in the year 4000.

"Sacco and Vantzetti" — A controversial film reveals how prejudice and corruption can infiltrate the courts and result in the execution of innocent men. Based on a true case.

"Something Big" — A fair western potpourri mixes satire, comedy and some action about a cavalryman and an outlaw leader who both plan to retire after they accomplish "something big." Sex jokes are quite tasteless.

"Take the Money and Run" — Woody Allen fans will love this hilarious farce about a little sad sack, a bumbling crook, who could never successfully climb the ladder of criminal success.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Play Misty for Me" — A terrifying suspense film about a disc-jockey and a mentally deranged woman who pursues him. Her use cancels out movie's defects. Brutal violence, cursing and sex.

"Let's Scare Jessica To Death" — An unintentional parody of bad horror films, this tale of a woman just released from a mental institution is haunted by voices trying to lure her to death. Gory ending and some sex scenes.

"Murphy's War" — British merchant seaman is obsessed with getting revenge against the submarine responsible for the loss of his shipmates. Well done.

"One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" — A grim story about small happenings during one day of a 10-year sentence in a Siberian labor camp. Excellent acting. Filmed in Norway.

DISHEARTENING AFTERMATH — Marion Irving stands amid the blaze-swept ruins of her home. The Irving family faces five homeless months before the house is rebuilt, a plight shared by many Marin families each year. But some aren't as lucky as the Irvings — no one was hurt in their fire and much of the house was untouched by flames.

THE IRVINGS OF TAM VALLEY

What A Family Faces When Its Home Burns

By GEORGE NEVIN

No classroom gives lessons on how Marin families are supposed to cope with problems arising from a disastrous house fire, but if one did, Jay Irving of Tamalpais Valley would be a likely teacher.

Irving has been through it all — the search for food, shelter and clothing, the loss of irreplaceable belongings, the time lost from work — since his home at 511 Shasta Way extensively burned on Nov. 8.

The 53-year-old electrician's plight is similar to that faced by the many Marin families whose homes are partially or completely destroyed by fire each year.

No precise figures are available on how many houses burn in Marin each year or the total amount of loss, according to the fire division of the Insurance Services Co. of San Francisco, formerly the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau.

Irving's family — which includes his wife Marion and three sons, Russell, 16, James, 13, and Jack, 8 — has been living in a nearby hotel since the fire.

Irving said he learned two lessons, and he hopes other Marin families will profit from them: his house was underinsured and it wasn't as fire-resistant as he would have liked.

When Irving bought the two-story frame house in 1956, it was insured for $16,000. Market value of the structure, according to figures released by the Marin County tax assessor, is $15,500, but that doesn't tell the whole story.

For one thing, Irving said, the law requires that many changes be made when the house is rebuilt in order to bring it up to county standards. These changes will be expensive.

Also adding to the cost will be improvements Irving intends to make in order to prevent a repeat of the blaze.

"You can damn well bet there'll be some changes when we're done," said Irving, a hefty man with graying hair, a level gaze and an even voice.

Wooden doors will be replaced by fire-retardant ones, and sheetrock paneling will be used instead of wood, among other changes.

Although insurance will cover most of the rebuilding cost, it won't pay for clothing, furniture and other personal possessions, and it won't pay for motel bills, lost work time and inconvenience.

Irving's experiences immediately following the fire furnish an idea of what fire-stricken families can expect.

Within hours after the blaze was under control, the Irvings, who lost most of their clothing, were reclothed and housed in a motel through efforts of the Marin County chapter of the American Red Cross.

Red Cross worker William L. Braden said the agency has helped 61 Marin families since July 1970, with $5,886 in cash plus clothing and food donations. Most of the families were fire victims, though some were flooded out of their homes, he said.

The role of the Red Cross, Braden said, is to provide assistance until the family gets back on its feet. All donations are made without expectation of repayment, he said.

Assistance came from other sources: a stove, refrigerator and furniture from neighbors; cash from Tamalpais Volunteer Firemen's Association and paid firemen; clothing from Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Fairfax, and money and offers of building materials from Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club.

There's irony in the fact that young Jack Irving discovered the fire almost in time to keep it from spreading — almost, but not quite.

It's even more ironic that one of the Irving's six sons (three live away from home) is a full-time fireman with Tamalpais Fire Department, another son is a volunteer fireman and a third is a former fireman.

When Jack Irving came home about 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 8, he found the two family dogs whining at the front door and the living room filled with smoke.

Inside, he saw a lamp overturned on a couch pillow. The light bulb had burned through the shade and the pillow was smouldering.

"I ran out to get a hose," Jack said, "and then I tried to get the pillow out of the house but it fell apart, burning."

A neighbor was summoned and the fire department was alerted, but by the time the engines arrived the house was engulfed in flame.

Firemen managed to halt the blaze before it completely leveled the house, and two bedrooms were untouched by flames, though not by smoke and water.

Not much else was spared, though. Living room and kitchen were gutted; the roof was burned through in several spots; the garage was partially destroyed; books in the living room had their spines burned off, though the pages and covers were left intact, and almost everything that didn't burn was damaged by smoke and water, including most of the family's clothing.

Mrs. Irving has been running load after load of smoke-damaged clothing through the washing machine in a salvage attempt.

A staggering job faces the Irvings. The house must be cleaned up, and then it'll be five months before the house is rebuilt. Irving has had no luck finding a cheap rental for five persons and two dogs.

Another alternative is nothing fancy but big enough for all — "An old, funky house trailer," Irving said.

"I could park a trailer in the driveway and be close to the house so I could work on it in my spare time."

He intends to do much of the rebuilding himself in order to cut costs.

Thanksgiving Day Strangers Brought Together For A Feast

A hundred and twenty strangers came to dinner yesterday for a Thanksgiving feast sponsored by the Unity Octave in San Rafael's First Presbyterian Church.

Many of the guests came from hotel rooms and boarding homes where they otherwise would have spent a solitary holiday, without any of the family and friendship that are the tradition of the day.

And along with turkey and trimmings, guests were served big helpings of that friendship from Unity Octave volunteers — lay members of four San Rafael churches.

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini was there, table-hopping and shaking hands. Many of the guests he knew; to others he cheerfully introduced himself and chatted.

At least one guest insisted on joining the kitchen crew, and happily toiled an hour serving other visitors until Unity Octave members persuaded him to sit down and eat.

Another guest, Jean Andrew, dined, then stayed on to help clean up after dinner before traveling to San Francisco to see a hospitalized daughter.

Volunteer Nadine Chapman worked all day at the gathering, then went home to find she and her family had nothing but luncheon meat sandwiches for their own Thanksgiving dinner.

The Octave had planned for 200 guests, according to organizers Robert Smith of St. Raphael's and Sherry Ford of First Presbyterian.

"The members were delighted to have time to sit and talk with the visitors, instead of rushing to serve dinner to bunches of guests," Smith and Mrs. Ford reported.

The remaining food was being delivered today to the Street Ministry in Mill Valley, and to the Marin Economic Opportunity Council for distribution in Marin City.

Octave members already were planning today for another Thanksgiving feast next year.

"We'll go to the hotels and the boarding houses and personally invite" more guests, Mrs. Ford said. "Some may have stayed away because they thought it would be churchy. But it wasn't. It was just a good, community, neighborly thing."

The Octave, which draws its members from the Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist and Episcopal churches in midtown San Rafael, was joined by volunteers from other congregations, the Street Ministry, EOC, Marin Senior Coordinating Council, and other groups and individuals in providing the dinner.

Crash Victim Hospitalized

A San Diego man remained hospitalized today with injuries suffered yesterday when a car skidded off Shoreline Highway near Muir Beach at 10:15 p.m.

Three other San Diego residents also were injured.

The California Highway Patrol said he was a passenger in a car being driven south on Shoreline Highway 2.5 miles north of Muir Beach by Manuel F. Chagas, 28. The auto apparently ran off the road on a curve, then caught fire and burned, officers said.

Chagas was treated at the hospital for a bruised shoulder and knee. Also injured were Graham H. Richardson, 26, treated for bruised ribs, and Walter Grzyb, 43, treated for a broken nose and chin and nose cuts.

Petaluma Boy Held On Arson Charge

Police refused to identify the youth, but said he had been booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall. The fire in the towel room and locker area of the school gymnasium caused $8,000 to $10,000 damage.

Sausalito Worker Killed In Head-On

The California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred at 12:01 a.m. near East Washington Street when Auda's southbound car collided with a car driven by Adolph Edward Fernandez, 35, of 942 Samuel Drive, Petaluma. Officers said Fernandez's car was traveling north in the southbound lane.

Fernandez was reported in fair condition and under intensive care at Hillcrest Hospital with chest injuries and face cuts. Officers said their reports were incomplete and that they had not yet questioned Fernandez, employed as manager of a Petaluma supermarket.

Auda was born and reared in England. He had served the English merchant marine for three years and was a waiter aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth for nine years.

Auda had been a waiter at Ondine's for the past three years and was a member of the Marin County Culinary Workers Union.

He is survived by his wife, Yvonne; a son, Roman Auda; a daughter, April Auda, all of Penngrove; his father, Vincent Auda of Bournemouth, England; and a sister, Mrs. Robert Durham of Ewell, England.

Funeral will be Monday at 2:30 p.m. at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be private.

Boy, 15, Draws 12-Year Term

SYDNEY (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to murdering a woman earlier this year so he "could undress her and see what sex was like" today was sentenced to 12 years in prison.

Martin Carl Leukin, a postal trainee at Collarenberi, about 400 miles north of Sydney, admitted he had stabbed Mrs. Yvonne May Dorrstein, 18, on June 1967.

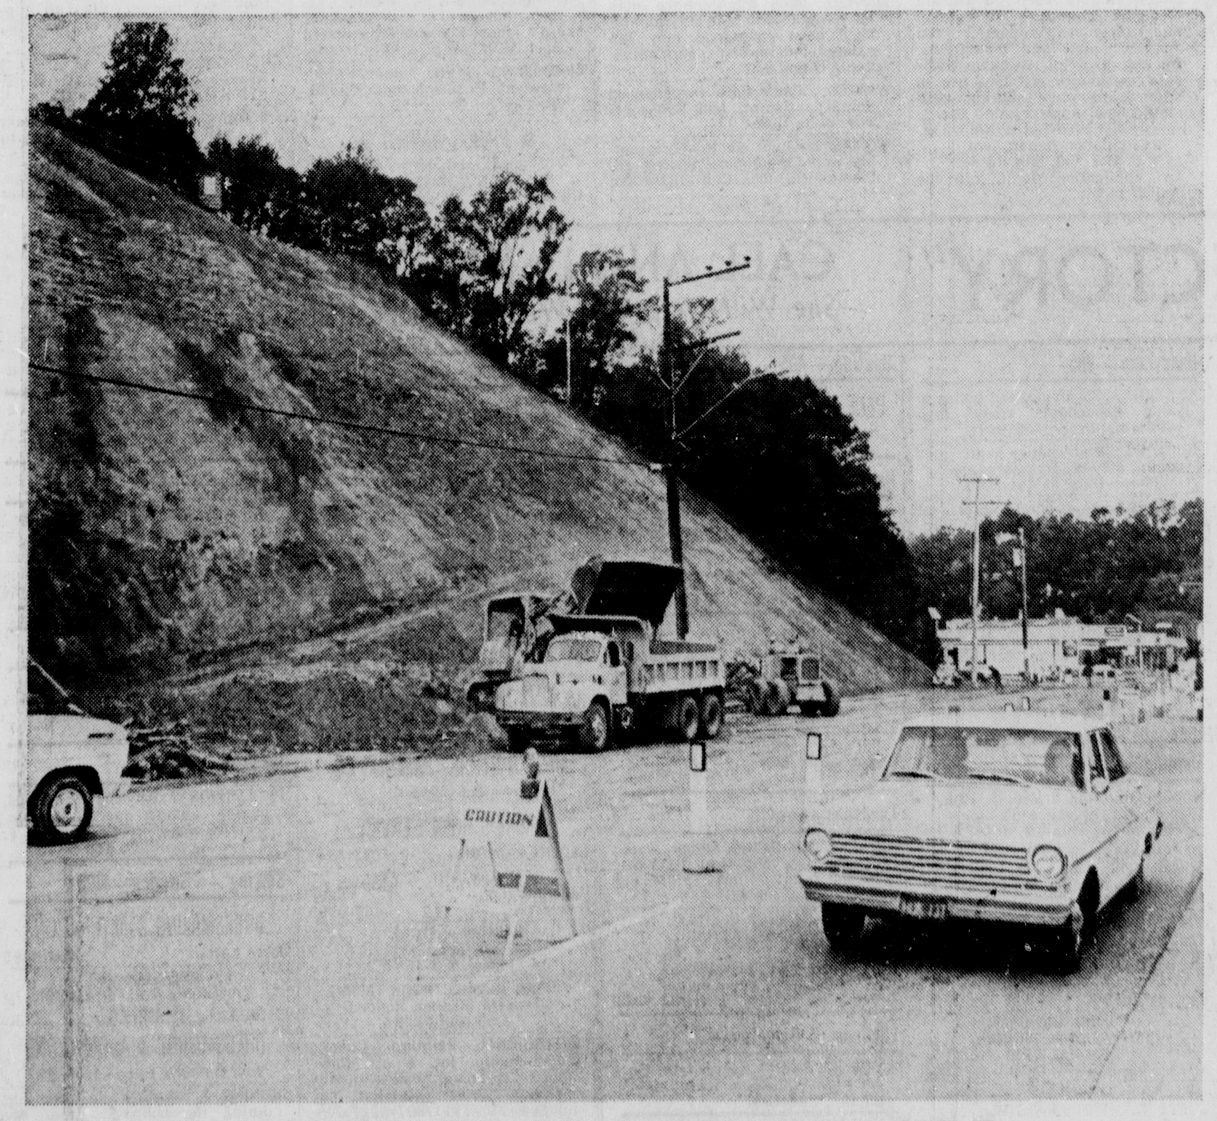
He said even though the crime was "shocking, grave and serious," a life sentence would "destroy and crush" Luekin.



A SOON-TO-BE-GREEN HILLSIDE

Heavy earthmoving equipment digs into the last of the Miller Avenue landslide in Mill Valley as the 10-day slide cleanup project comes to an end. On Monday the bare hillside will be hydromulched — treated with a spray of grass seeds, fertilizer and plastic fibers — and in two weeks it will be "the greenest thing in Mill Valley," in the opinion of City Engineer Stanley M. Bala. He said he expects a small amount of mud to ooze from the slide during the winter rains but nothing that can't easily be hosed off Miller Avenue.

Administration Is Hit On Road Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Chairman Jennings Randolph of the Senate Public Works Committee charged today the administration was delaying completion of the interstate highway network by refusing to commit sufficient funds provided by Congress for the construction.

Randolph said impoundment of funds over the past four years has accumulated approximately $5.4 billion in highway obligations that must be made to the state.

"Until this money is released, interstate building is delayed and inflation continues to push the cost of construction higher," the West Virginia Democrat said.

He did note that the administration recently released $400 million of impounded funds.

"I hope this action signals an awakening to the facts and a change of attitude that will permit the highway program to come back on schedule," Randolph said.

"Completion of the interstate system and thus the development of a new program is being delayed, though, by the refusal of the national administration to commit all of the funds provided by Congress for the highway program," he added.

Randolph estimated completion of the interstate would cost $74 billion, including ?68.5 billion in federal funds.

In his speech, the chairman said he was convinced the highway program must become more involved in meeting mass transportation needs, especially bus travel.

"For the vast majority of our communities, mass transit, now and in the future, can be provided only with buses," he said. "Even in those areas where rail transit is feasible, a strong feeder bus system is essential to make the rail operation successful."

Randolph said the present $200 million authorization for the next two years for urban highway improvement was "far too low."

"This new system is designed solely to improve the movement of traffic within urban areas," Randolph said, "and I intend to push next year for a fiscal authorization more nearly commensurate with the need."

GOP Senator Defects On Support Of Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In a significant defection from Republican ranks, Sen. James B. Pearson asked President Nixon today to find another agriculture secretary nominee and drop Earl L. Butz —"the wrong man for the wrong job at the wrong time."

In a letter to Nixon written Wednesday and made public today, the Kansas Republican said he was "reluctantly persuaded" that Butz would never gain farmers' confidence.

At least 13 Democrats and two Republicans have announced their intention to vote against confirmation of Butz, who served as a lieutenant to Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson in the Eisenhower Administration and who is portrayed as favoring corporate farming over family farms.

Pearson said he may still vote for Butz if Nixon does not take his advice to withdraw the nomination "because Ixelieve so strongly in the prerogatives of the chief executive to name his cabinet."

"Mr. President," Pearson wrote Nixon, "after careful consideration there is a growing conviction on my part that Dr. Butz is the wrong man for the wrong job at the wrong time."

"During this critical period for the farm economy, it is essential that farmers have full confidence in the man who is to be the chief architect and executor of the nation's farm policy," he said.

Pearson said he doubted Butz could arouse such confidence "and in the absence of confidence, tte best designed plans are destined to failure."

Two other farm state Republicans —Iowa's Jack Miller and North Dakota's Milton R. Young —already have announced their opposition to the nomination of the Purdue University professor and executive of the Ralston Purina Co.

Pearson's announcement was significant because his fellow Kansan, Sen. Robert Dole, chairman of the GOP National Committee, is leading the fight for confirmation.

The administration has conceded that as many as 30 senators will vote against Butz when the nomination comes before the Senate early next month.

New Thai Government Given Official Blessing

BANGKOK (UPI) — Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn tonight read on a nationwide broadcast a letter from King Bhumibol Adulyadej in which the monarch gave his blessing to Thailand's new revolutionary government.

Thanom, who rules the nation as head of the national executive council, pledged that he would be willing to sacrifice his life to preserve the monarchy.

"I hereby acknowledge the seizure of power by the national executive council in order to improve a situation which is dangerous to the nation," Thanom read from the king's letter in a broadcast that was carried on television in Bangkok and throughout the nation on radio.

The king's letter assured the people that the ruling council "will not change the national institution of monarchy and safeguards will be provided to preserve this institution.

"I request the national executive council to carry out its duties with justice for the people and to maintain the unity of the people," the king's letter said. "Thailand will continue to exist as an independent country."

After reading the letter, Thanom turned to face a portrait of the king and the national anthem was played.

Then thanom made a brief statement in which he pledged that the ruling council would "act in accordance with his majesty's letter to the people."

"We will be loyal," Thanom said. "I would sacrifice my life for the monarchy."

It was Thanom's first broadcast since the Nov. 17 coup. A revolutionary party headed by Thanom, then prime minister, staged the bloodless coup which abrogated the constitution, dissolved the cabinet and parliament and imposed martial law throughout the kingdom.

On the night of the coup, revolutionary party leaders met with the king and reported to him what had taken place. The new party quoted the king as saying the monarch hoped the new government would bring unity and progress, but the letter read tonight comprised the first direct quotes from the king on the takeover.

The king and the royal family are revered throughout Thailand.

Thanom has said he will rule Thailand at the head of the council while an interim constitution is being drafted and a new cabinet selected.

There has been no overt opposition to the takeover. The new government has ordered "absolute punishment" for any who act against the national interest and, under martial law, that could mean execution by firing squad.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Winter Itch Is Common Among The Elderly Due To Drying Skin

Winter itch due to dry skin is a common complaint among the elderly. With age, the skin becomes thinner and amore fragile. In addition, the glands that produce oil and sweat are less active in the winter and more so when the individual bathes too often. The importance of the latter cannot be overemphasized. Good results can be expected if the oldster uses less soap and water, adds bath oil, and applies an emollient after bathing. Oral remedies, such as Periactin or Temaril, may be helpful.

When the usual remedies for itching (pruritus) fail, the elderly person should have a thorough physical examination. The underlying cause for the symptom may be diabetes, a blood disorder, such as leukemia, a lymphoma or cancer or a liver or a kidney disease. Now and then the annoying sensation is of psychogenic origin.

LOCALIZED ITCHING (especially in the pelvic area) may be extremely bothersome. Sudden spasms of intense itching of the anal area (pruritus ani) may stem from a surrounding dermatitis or from fissures, inflammation of tumors of the anal canal. Yeast infections also may be a side effect of the use of antibiotics. In any age group, pruritus ani may represent an allergy to citrus fruits. Emotional stress, sweating and prolonged sitting are other possible culprits.

Temporary relief is obtained by keeping the anal area scrupulously clean. Lukewarm sitz baths are helpful when followed by careful drying and applications of a steroid ointment or a bland dusting powder. Eliminating the cause leads to permanent cure.

PRURITUS VULVAE in older women usually stems from dryness of the vaginal membranes. Estrogen hormones are most helpful. Occasionally the itching comes from a yeast infection (moniliasis), scabies, parasites or a fungal disorder. Emotional stress, sweating, or excessive vaginal secretions may also be responsible.

EXERCISE AND BURSITIS

K. C. writes: Is exercise good for bursitis of the elbow?

REPLY

Not if the exercises aggravte the distress. There are many good remedies, such as X-ray, diathermy, and hydrocortisone injections.

SEA WATER

O. D. writes: Would it be safe to drink sea water?

REPLY

FERTILITY PILL

Mrs. P. writes: I've heard of birth control pills, but wonder if there is any pill that I can take to get pregnant.

REPLY

Yes, provided you and your husband have no structural defects of the reproductive organs. Thyroid extract is sometimes helpful. And gonadotrophic hormones are valuable if tests show that your ovaries are not producing ova (eggs).

Light Quake Is Felt In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A light earthquake was felt in western sections of the city and in neighboring Inglewood and Culver City today at about 9:13 a.m.

No property damage was reported.

California Institute of Technology seismologists said the quake was very light and were checking their instruments for a more precise reading.

He Was Only Doing A Favor

Rahman said he had a dream in which a dead woman asked him to pass on her regards to a relative. He traced the relative, who became hysterical when she heard what he had to say. The result —Rahman ended up in jail.

Police released him Thursday when they found the name of the dead woman and other details Rahman reported in his dream were correct.

U.S. May Lift Top Russ Trade Barriers

MOSCOW (UPI) —Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans indicated today that the United States soon may drop all significant restrictions on exports to the Soviet Union.

"We pointed out restrictions have been greatly reduced in the last year and that we are in the constant process of reducing them," Stans said.

"We think that in a relatively short period of time this will not be a significant issue at all between the two countries."

Elimination of U.S. export restrictions would be a major stride forward in Soviet-American economic relations.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) Wednesday that Soviet -American trade relations "have so far been developed quite insignificantly and are completely discordant with the possibilities of both countries. It should be stated frankly that this situation is due primarily to the preservation of a number of artificial restrictions on trade with the Soviet Union."

Stans was in the visitors gallery as Kosygin spoke.

Stans, the first Nixon cabinet official to visit the Soviet Union, met newsmen before flying to the southern Soviet Union for more talks with officials. He arrived in the Soviet Union Saturday for a 10-day fact-finding and exploration mission.

Diplomatic sources said Stans was "not negotiating anything."

"Our trip has been extremely successful in permitting the occasion to discuss very fully all aspects of the economic relations between the two countries," Stans said.

"We concluded on a note of optimism on both sides that there are some very substantial opportunities for increasing trade in both directions between the two countries."

The Soviet share of American trade is tiny compared with the worldwide U.S. export total of some $60 billion in 1970.

The United States exported $118 million, mostly machinery and leather, to the Soviet Union in 1970 and imported $64 million of Soviet fur, diamonds and ores. The U.S. export figure will double this year, due mainly to sales of surplus grain to the Soviet Union.

Sonoma Wife Held In Killing

SANTA ROSA (UPI) —The wife of a young fireman was jailed Thursday on suspicion of killing her husband.

Mrs. Linette Hagerman, 21, was booked at the Sonoma County Jail.

Nebraska Gets 35-31 Win

TOUCHDOWN — Nebraska's Jeff Kinney (35) hurdled a pile of Oklahoma defenders to score from a yard out in the second quarter Thursday in the college football battle for number one ranking. The white-clad Nebraskans won 35-31 on the loser's field in Norman, Okla.

(UPI Telephoto)

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—P. T. Barnum and "Ben Hur" met on a football field Thursday. It was one of those rare occasions in sports when the product was as great as the promotion.

No. 1-ranked Nebraska defeated No. 2-ranked Oklahoma, 35-31, but it was one of those games that had no loser. The conflict transcended the victory.

Everywhere in the tumultuous Nebraska dressing room, players were shaking their heads and mumbling, "Wasn't that something?" or, "My God, What a game!"

The silence was deafening in the Oklahoma dressing quarters. It was a difficult pill for the Sugar Bowl bound Sooners to swallow —the fact they had played their best and it was not good enough.

Coach Chuck Fairnks said it all when he intoned, "We played it down to the wire and came up short."

Twice the Sooners roared into the lead after being 11 points behind. But the game evolved into which team had the ball last with enough time to do something with it.

That angel of mercy smiled on the Orange Bowl-bound Cornhuskers. They accepted the challenge with 7 minutes, 5 seconds to play with the football at their own 26-yard line.

"There were two things in my mind at that time," quarterback Jerry Tagge said. "We felt all along we could score and we wanted to eat up as much of the clock as possible.

Tagge accomplished both goals. With Jeff Kinney running seven times for 33 yards, the posed and relentless Nebraskans stampeded 74 yards in 12 plays. Kinney carried the last four times from 15 yards out, scoring from the two with 1:38 left to play.

For the afternoon, Kinney ran 34 times for 174 yards and scored four touchdowns.

"This was the last game of our career," the 210-pound McCook, Neb., senior said. "We weren't about to lose this one.

Kinney may be forgiven if he momentarily forgot about Hawaii next week and Alabama on Jan. 1.

Oklahoma's last desperation effort fell far short when quarterback Jack Mildren, who played like an unbeatable tiger all day, was drilled on fourth down at the Oklahoma 15 as he tried to launch another long pass to Jon Harrison.

Outland Trophy winner Larry Jacobson and middle guard Rich Glover nailed Mildren, the attempted pass falling harmlessly to the artificial turf after Glover batted it down.

"It was supposed to be the same route we'd scored on twice," said Mildren. "Someone got in pretty fast. We just took a shot at the touchdown."

Independent-Journal, 29

A record crowd of 63,385 watched the battle for the national championship unfold at Owne Field along with a national television audience that probably exceeded 80 million.

"Yes, sir, they sold a lot of popcorn today," Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney kidded President Nixon when he called after the game. The conversation, which lasted five minutes, came after Nixon held his end of the line for 30 minutes waiting for Devaney to reach the telephone.

The President also called Fairbanks and mentioned, "I didn't like some of their calls." Nixon didn't identify who he was talking about, leaving his comment open to speculation.

Glover, the brilliant 231-pound junior who made 22 tackles and recovered a fumble, was a constant thorn in Oklahoma's offensive scheme.

"Most of my job was reading the center and going to the fullback," he said. "We felt bad after the first half and we just made up our minds to go out and put it to 'em in the second half."

Oklahoma, with 467 yards total offense, struck with lightning efficiency in the last minute of the first half after being backed up to its 33. Milldren hit Harrison for 43 yards to the Nebraska 24, then did it again for a touchdown with five seconds to go before intermission for a 17-14 lead.

Nebraska, working against a chilling 15-mile an hour wind, tallied twice in the third quarter with Kinney going three and one yard. But Mildren swept end for three yards, then hit Harrison with a 16-yard pass on a fourth-and-five play with 7:30 left in the game.

That set the stage for the Cornhuskers' drive for pride.

"It was an odd feeling for this year," admitted Tagge, noting Nebraska had not been behind on the scoreboard this season.

"But it wasn't anything new to us. We had to do it against LSU in the Orange Bowl. I think I could have killed myself if we'd lost. But we never felt like we were going to lose, we only thought about scoring."

SPORT NOTES

Two Marin Players In Key Soccer Tilt

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Soccer, the European brand of football, is a fast growing sport on the prep and intercollegiate level. With all the ink being spilled about football, American style, the fact that two of the better college teams in the nation are right here in the Bay Area is sometimes overlooked.

These two high-power teams — University of San Francisco and San Jose State — will be squaring off tomorrow at Kezar Stadium, 2 p.m. in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) regionals. Winner of the match will go against the winner of a Chico State-UCLA game for the right to advance to the semi-finals Dec. 28-30 in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

An office visitor the other day was Steve Negoesco, USF soccer coach and resident of Corte Madera. A former USF soccer star from 1947 through the '50 seasons, Negoesco was All-American, and is one of only six men in the USF Soccer Hall of Fame.

ALTHOUGH HE'S one of the most successful coaches in the country, he does it "as a hobby." He actually earns the money to support his wife and six children by teaching biology at Giannini Junior High School in San Francisco.

"I think soccer has come a long way in 10 years in this country," Negoesco said. A man who was born in this country in Jutland, New Jersey — and reared in Romania, Negoesco has done more than his share in promoting the sport. He was the force behind the birth of kids playing in the San Francisco Junior Soccer League.

Five years ago, USF allowed three scholarships for the soccer program. Today seven scholarships are made available to potential soccer stars. Two of the 17 players on the USF varsity are products of Marin high schools — Urbano Boucsieguez of San Marin and Bill Mejia of San Rafael. Both are freshmen, two of the five freshmen on the team. (The NCAA rule to allow freshmen to compete in varsity competition was passed in 1967.)

BOUCSIEGUEZ HAS been a very busy young man this fall at USF. In addition to his soccer playing, he kicks extra points and field goals for the Dons' football team.

"Urbano is very fast, a good dribbler, kicks accurately with either foot, and has a very good attitude," said Negoesco. What more can you say?

USF HAS a record of 13-1 going into tomorrow's game, the lone loss to Chico State. Negoesco's remarkable record at USF is 109 wins, 14 losses, 7 ties. He's taken USF to the regionals seven times, the national quarter-finals five times and the national finals twice. The Dons won the national title in 1966, and ranked No. 2 this year behind St. Louis University, have a good chance to win the big prize this time.

In their one meeting this season, USF blanked San Jose State, 3-0. The Spartans of San Jose, 14-2 this year, are coached by Julie Menendez. Julie has brought San Jose State's soccer program to the top of the class after earlier coaching the school's boxing team for many years, winning NCAA boxing titles along the way.

Ryman, Warmath Ousted

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Football Coach Murray Warmath and Athletic Director Marshall Ryman of the University of Minnesota have been asked to resign after a poll of the university Board of Regents, an informed source said.

The regents secretly polled themselves and were nearly unanimously opposed to retaining the two men in their present positions, the source said Thursday night.

Both Warmath and Ryman have been offered other duties in the administration, it was learned, but neither has responded.

WARMATH TOLD

Warmath was told of the decision last Friday, a day before his team finished its season by defeating Wisconsin 23-21.

Warmath was said to have given little resistance to the decision.

Among those being considered for the athletic directorship were Glen Reed, assistant athletic director; Gordon Soltaus, former Gopher football player; Jerry Kindall, former professional baseball player and now assistant Gopher baseball coach; and Paul Giel, a former Minnesota football star and now a Twin Cities radio announcer. It was learned Giel has turned down the offer once.

Administrative officials have been meeting individually with the other team coaches to inform them of the decision.

SENTIMENT PRESENT

There was sentiment in favor of selecting the athletic director before the coach, so he can have a hand in the coach's selection, the source said.

Warmath, 58, completed his 18th year at Minnesota last Saturday. He has a career coaching record of 97-84-10 and coached Minnesota to the Rose Bowl in 1960 and 1961.

His teams won Big Ten championships in 1960 and 1967, but had losing seasons the last three years and attendance had fallen badly.

SURVIVED THREATS

Warmath survived similar threats to his $28,300 a year job in other years. In 1959, he was hanged in effigy after a 2-7 season, but remained as coach. The next year, his team was crowned national champion, went to the Rose Bowl and Warmath was named the coach of the year.

In 1967 black players publicly charged discrimination against him. The players later signed a petition denying the charges.

That year, the Gophers finished with an 8-2 record and a share of the Big Ten title.

TENNESSEE NATIVE

Warmath, a native of Humboldt, Tenn., was president of the American College Football Coaches Association in 1969. He received tenure in 1963.

The athletic department is projected to have a $390,000 debt by the end of this fiscal year, and regents have expressed concern with the financial situation.

A formal announcement of the decision was expected within a few days.

AUBURN QUARTERBACK

Pat Sullivan Receives Heisman Trophy Honors

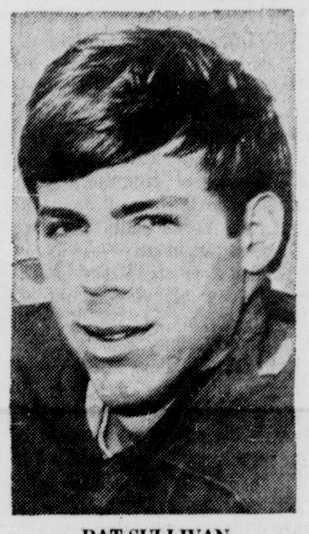
NEW YORK (UPI) —Pat Sullivan, the passing whiz from the University of Auburn, edged Cornell's rugged running back Ed Marinaro to win the Heisman Trophy Thursday night and gain the title of the "nation's best college football player."

In a unique presentation ceremony carried over nationwide television, Sullivan sat stunned in his living room in Birmingham, Ala., as John H. Ott, president of the Downtown Athletic Club in New York announced the winner of the award between halves of the Georgia-Georgia Tech game.

"I never though I had a chance," said Sullivan. "I just sat there."

In voting by sportswriters and sportscasters across the country, Sullivan received 355 first place votes for a total of 1,597 points. Sullivan was the top vote getter in the South and the Southwest while Marinaro was second.

Marinaro, who took the East, the midwest and the far west, finished with 295 first place votes and 1,445 points. Sullivan's overwhelming majority in the south and the belief that Marinaro played against inferior competition in the Ivy League, apparently swung the voting in Sullivan's favor.



PAT SULLIVAN
Heisman winner

Greg Pruitt, a junior running back from Oklahoma, was third with 586 points, Alabama's tailback Johnny Musso was fourth with 365 points and Lydell Mitchell, who has scored an NCAA record 28 touchdowns for Penn State already this year, was fifth with 251 points.

The remainder of the top 10 included: Jack Mildren of Oklahoma (208), Jerry Tagge of Nebraska (168), Chuck Ealey of Toledo (137), Walt Patulski of Notre Dame (121), and Eric Allen of Michigan State (109).

Other players receiving votes were Bill Taylor of Michigan (86), Bob Moore of Oregon (50), Terry Beasley of Auburn (50) and Sonny Sixkiller of Washington (45).

Sullivan has led the fourthranked Tigers to a 9-0 season and a trip to the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day. Auburn still has one regular-season remaining against third-ranked Alabama this Saturday.

In his three varsity seasons at Auburn, Sullivan has become the Southeastern Conference's most prolific passer. The 6-foot; 190-pound quarterback has thrown for 1,891 yards and has led the Tigers to 25 victories in 29 games. He has accounted for 26 touchdowns this year to raise his career mark to 71, the most ever in the history of the NCAA.

As a junior last year, Sullivan led the nation in total offense with 285.6 yards per game and finished sixth in the Heisman balloting.

Marinaro was the favorite to win the award in the east but his skeptics in the south were more impressed with Sullivan's passing and field generalship than with Marinaro's running feats.

The 21-year-old from New Milford, N.J., broke the all-time NCAA career rushing this season as he piled up 1,881 yards to raise his 3-year total to 4,715 yards.

Sullivan, a 21-year-old who is a business administration major, will fly to New York next Thursday to receive the trophy, a 25-pound bronze statue of a football player.

Crashes Mar Road Races In Georgia

It was the second serious prerace injury. In practice earlier in the week, Bob Tullis, captain of the British-backed Group 44 team, was hospitalized with injuries suffered in the crash of his Triumph TR6.

Mission, Kans., will start on the pole in the first event of the 16race series. He qualified his Formula Ford Merlyn at 95.1 miles an hour.

Warriors Upended By 76ers

CHICAGO (UPI) —Minus an injured Nate Thurmond, the Golden State Warriors open a four-game road trip tonight against the Bulls in Chicago.

It's no bull that the Warriors lost Thurmond, Jeff Mullins and Joe Ellis in the second half Thursday night while bowing to the Philadelphia 76ers 112-111 before 4?346 fans at the Oakland Coliseum, Arena. Fred Foster's driving layup with three seconds remaining was the clincher.

But more important is that Golden State will be without the services of the 6-11 Thurmond for at least the next two games because of a gash on his shooting hand. He slammed the hand into the backboard in the third period and it took 10 stitches to close the wound.

Thurmond will miss tonight's game and Saturday night's game at Buffalo. He may be ready to return to action next Tuesday in Milwaukee against Kareem Jabbar and the Bucks.

HERITAGE GOLF

Irwin Leads 'Big 3' In South Carolina

HILTON HEAD, S. C. (UPI) —It seemed rather fitting that Hale Irwin should steal the thunder from the big names in the Heritage Golf Classic on the day that Nebraska and Oklahoma were playing their football classic.

After all, Hale was a Big Eight safety when he was playing for Colorado in the mid 60s —and, to be truthful, he had been pretty anxious Thursday to finish his round so he could rush to the clubhouse to see the BIG game.

The 26-year-old, bespectacled Irwin, from Boulder, Colo., finished the first day's play one stroke ahead of everybody's favorite, Arnold Palmer, and Dave Eichelberger, who did win the Milwaukee Open this summer but actually isn't a lot better known than Hale.

This is the first tournament in four months that has featured all three of this country's top three golfers — Jack Nicklaus, Palmer and Lee Trevino. Trevino may not make today's 36-hole cut since he went into the water four times Thursday and wound up with a 7-over-par 78.

Spurrier May Start Against New York Jets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There's a chance forgotten quarterback Steve Spurrier may start, or see some action, for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday against the New York Jets.

Coach Dick Nolan, who usually announces his starting lineup on Thursday, replied, "I haven't decided," when asked about his starting quarterback against the Jets.

"I haven't said that I wouldn't use (John) Brodie or that I would use Spurrier," he continued. "It's just that I haven't made a decision."

Brodie is completing nearly 53 per cent of his passes for sizeable yardage but he has thrown 21 interceptions in 10 games. In addition, the 49ers failed to score a touchdown last week (against the Rams) for the first time in years.

Nolan has contended right along that the poor offensive showing of the 49ers is not all Brodie's fault.

"When things go wrong, people blame either the quarterback or the coach," said Nolan.

Buy low. Sell high.

The day you sell your car could very well be Black Tuesday.

A common Volkswagen Beetle.

According to the Official Used Car Directory,* a 1969 Beetle that sold new for only around $2000 still sells used for around $1550 in 1971.

Seasoned traders have known that since a Beetle requires very little upkeep, you don't have to make big investments in oil and gas issues.

When we introduced the Beetle in 1949, a lot of car makers did sell us short.

Now they're trying to make their own.

We'd guess after twenty-three years and eighteen million Volkswagens, somebody out there has spotted a trend.

FISH AND GAME

Marin Deer-Take Plummets To 388

By AL GIDDINGS

Some near final statistics on this year's deer hunts were released by the Dept. of Fish and Game this past week. In Marin County, the deer-take dropped from 422 bucks in 1970 to a 388 low for 1971.

Mendocino County reported the most bucks taken with a count of 3,368 as compared to 4,155 in 1970. Siskiyou reported 1,906 compared to 1,900 in 1970. Lassen had 1,954 in 1971, down about 150 bucks from last year. Modoc County dropped to 1,097 this year; last year the count was 1,430. The only special hunt held in the above counties was in Modoc where 1,025 special hunt deer were taken. The total take statewide for 1971 was 39,864, 449 more than last annum.

Plumas County leads with 96 bucks taken by archers; Mendocino County had 36. Statewide, 419 bucks were taken by archers.

Some 5,413 pheasant hunters were checked through the ten shooting areas operated by the Fish and Game Dept. for the pheasant season opening. They took 1,719 cock pheasants, up from last years take of 1,287 birds. Gray Lodge was the hot spot where 963 hunters took 809 pheasants. Sutter National Wildlife Refuge was second with 305 hunters taking 223 birds. Pheasant hunting in Marin County is almost entirely restricted to the pheasant clubs where the birds are raised and planted by the club owners.

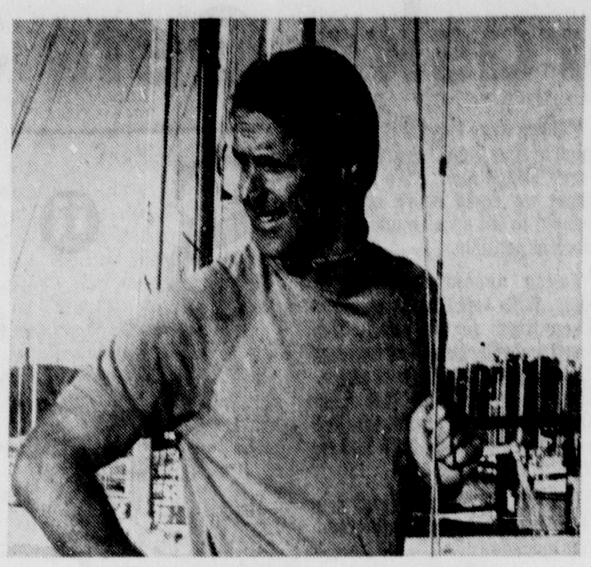
SAY, I was "bamboozled" this past week. I reported to you Tuesday that Pete Valconesi of Point Reyes had taken two silver salmon that weighed 17 and 16 pounds. I was taken in. Here's how it happened. Marty Medin came by and told me that Pete had just told him that he had taken two salmon. Pete swears Marty to secrecy. Of course Marty tells me swearing me to secrecy too! I tell you, naturally swearing you to secrecy.

Well, today, I see Pete and question him about the size of the fish. A seventeen and a sixteen pounder are pretty good fish in anybody's book! Pete now says that he didn't catch any salmon. I've already sent the column to press. What to do? We were at the firehouse, so I asked Pete for his home phone number. I wanted to call Ardel, Pete's wife.

HE GAVE me the number, and I made the call. Ardel told me that Pete caught these two fish; she even mentioned the weights. Naturally, I thought Pete was lying so I'll not report his secret fish to you. Then the phone rang. Pete answered it, and I could hear Ardel giving him you-know-what for making her lie to me. She didn't know I was standing next to Pete, so naturally the whole fabrication came to light. So if you hear about that Pete Valconesi catching any salmon — don't you believe it. And Angels — they lie too. Please note, Father Barron.

While checking duck hunters in Tomales Bay last week, a real old timer came along. It was Walter Frizzi of Larkspur still skulling for ducks as he has done for the past 60 years. He admitted to 74 years, but he's as tough and healthy as ever. The gun he shoots with looks bigger than he is. He had a boat full of birds, and I thought: "Good grief, what's he done?" But with things tougher these days, 15 of his birds were mudhens, much to my relief. He had the first brant I've checked this year — but just one. Two other hunters using decoys had two limits of wigeon.

I GUESS you are wondering what's happened to Sam Knoles. Would you believe it; I questioned all of his friends and buddies about the number of fish he has taken through deer season and my vacation. No one can come up with anything except one seventeen pound striper. The other day I saw him fishing by himself, so I pulled up alongside and proceeded to catch a 75-pound, 66-inch sturgeon. He has been taking pills ever since, so they tell me. This took place below the Richmond Bridge on the first trip out this year. It was on the fly rod — took 25 minutes, using shrimp as bait.



THE SMILE OF A CHAMPION

Mill Valley's Ted McKown exuded joy after being informed he had won this season's Yacht Racing Association's Knarr Championship in San Francisco Bay. The decision, although reached Nov. 10, was withheld pending the conclusion of point tabulations and protest decisions. Once these matters were settled, the YRA figures were released, showing McKown with a low of 20½ points, three points less than runnerup Wynn Oliver of San Francisco. Sausalito's Knud Wibroe was third with 24½ in the 11 regatta series which began May 8 and concludes Sept. 19.

NFL ACTION

Landry's QB Pays Dividend

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tom Landry's decision to install Roger Staubach as the No. 1 quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys is beginning to return dividends.

Staubach started the season splitting the quarterback assignment with Craig Morton, but the Cowboys' offense suffered from the two-quarterback system and the team had a very mediocre beginning.

But two weeks ago coach Landry gave the No. 1 quarterbacking assignment to Staubach, and the former Heisman Trophy winner from Navy has not let his coach down.

Last weekend he ran 29 yards for a touchdown as the Cowboys downed the Washington Redskins and took over first place in the NFC's Eastern Division, and Thursday he tossed for two touchdowns and set up another with his running as Dallas downed Los Angeles, 28-21.

Staubach's two TD passes were a 51-yarder to Bob Hayes with just 2:06 left in the half and a 21-yarder to Lance Alworth early in the third quarter. His 11-yard scramble in the opening minute of the final period set up Duane Thomas' five-yard TD run for the Cowboys' final score.

The Cowboys, who boosted their record to 8-3, also got an 89-yard TD kickoff return from rookie Isaac Thomas.

Quarterback Greg Landry was the star of the Lions' triumph, passing for two touchdowns and completing 15 of 22 passes for 225 yards. Landry connected on scoring passes of six yards to Charlie Sanders and 17 yards to Earl McCullouch in helping the Lions boost their record to 7-3-1.

Ed Podolak scored three touchdowns for Kansas City, but the Chiefs were unable to overcome their own mistakes and the precision passing of Landry. The Lions' quarterback completed seven passes in a row at one stage.

The big game Sunday is the Baltimore-Oakland clash. Oakland now leads Kansas City by a full game in the AFC's Western Division while Baltimore must win to stay within striking distance of Miami in the AFC's Eastern Division. The Raiders are a three-point choice.

Green Bay is eight over New Orleans, Minnesota seven over Atlanta, Washington four over Philadelphia, San Francisco seven over the Jets, Pittsburgh eight over Denver, Cleveland seven over Houston, the Giants six over St. Louis, Cincinnati six over San Diego and New England and Buffalo is rated a tossup.

Alabama In Battle For Second

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Now that Nebraska has staked its claim as college football's No. 1 team, the question is who's No. 2?

The No. 3 Crimson Tide and No. 4 Tigers, square off Saturday at Birmingham, Ala. in their traditional year-end rivalry and chances are the winner will slip by once-beaten Oklahoma into the No. 2 spot in the nation.

MISSISSIPPI WINS

In the other major college action Thursday, Mississippi trounced Mississippi State 48-0, and Georgia beat Georgia Tech, 28-24. Among the small colleges fifth-ranked C. W. Post was upset 14-12 by Hofstra while No. 7 Samford defeated Ohio Wesleyan 20-10 in the third annual Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl.

In addition to the crucial Alabama-Auburn matchup, other Saturday games include Army-Navy at Philadelphia, 17th-ranked Iowa State at San Diego State, Florida at Miami, Tulane at 10th-ranked LSU, Arizona at ninth-ranked Arizona State and Clemson at South Carolina.

ALABAMA PICKED

Orange Bowl-bound Alabama (10-0) is a six-point favorite over Sugar Bowl-bound Auburn (9-0) in the Southeastern Conference title showdown. The Crimson Tide boasts a strong ground attack led by All America candidate Johnny Musso, while the Tigers are one of the few teams in the nation this year to rely on the passing game.

But with Heisma Trophy winner Pat Sullivan calling signals and Terry Beasley doing the receiving, it's easy to see why Auburn prefers to travel by air. Sullivan and Beasley, both cinches for All-America honors this year, have teamed up for over 700 yards. Beasley has 11 touchdowns and 66 points while Sullivan has a 59.2 completion percentage, 20 touchdowns and 1,891 yards. Sullivan also has a fine receiver in Dick Schmalz, a sidekick from high school.

STRONG RUNNING

But if Auburn is to defeat Alabama it must also contain the Tide's running game. Musso has carried 158 times for 921 yards and quarterback Terry Davis is 120 for 412 as the playmaker of 'Bama's Wishbone T offense. Up front there's a quick, strong offensive line headed by 274-pound tackle John Hannah, another 'Bama All America candidate.

On defense, Alabama is as scrapy and aggressive as Bear Bryant teams of years past, yielding less than 10 points per game. Defensive ends Robin Parkhouse and John Mitchell however, will have to keep the pressure on Sullivan. The Parkhouse-Mitchell duo has been hailed as the best in the south. Auburn will be a good test for that claim.

'Game Enjoyable'—Nixon Tells Devaney On Phone

NORMAN, Okla. — It took President Nixon 30 minutes to get through Thursday, but he persevered to tell Nebraska coach Bob Devaney how much he enjoyed the biggest game of the 1971 college football season.

Devaney declined to comment on what the President told him but Devaney's comments could be heard loud and clear in the Nebraska dressing room. At least part of the conversation obviously dealt with Nebraska's appearance against Alabama in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

"Thank you, sir," Devaney said to the president. "Alabama is a fine team, but I don't think our boys are looking past Hawaii next week."

Devaney was smiling when he made that comment.

The president's phone call came to the press box at Owen Field seconds after the games ended. Several attempts were made to patch the call into the locker room, but finally the operator said Devaney could call back to the White House.

"He can call collect, if he likes," the operator said.

VANCOUVER — Grey Cup festivities got off to a rousing start Thursday when quarterback Don Jonas of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers was named the Most Outstanding Player of the Year in the Canadian Football League.

Montreal Alouette's receiver Terry Evanshen was chosen the Canadian Player of the Year and Wayne Harris, middle linebacker of the Calgary Stampeders, was selected as Lineman of the Year.

Hockey

CHICAGO — A bomb scare delayed the return of several players of the Montreal Canadiens to their homes Thursday, Air Canada disclosed.

The Canadiens had played the Chicago Black Hawks to a 3-3 tie here Wednesday night, and some of the players left in late morning on Air Canada flight 730 for Montreal.

About five minutes before the noon departure time, the air line said, it received a call saying there was a bomb on board "the Canadiens" charter flight," although the departing flight was regularly scheduled and not a charter.

The plane had left the ramp area at O'Hare International Airport and the line halted it, deplaned the passengers and removed all luggage and freight. Authorities and passengers inspected all contents before the flight was permitted to leave.

Bowling

CHICAGO — Larry Laub, San Francisco, moved from fourth to first place Thursday in the $85,000 Brunswick World Open Bowling Tournament, drubbing eight straight opponents for the lead into today's two semifinal blocks.

Laub, holder of two Professional Bowlers Association crowns, averaged just under 234 in match play on efforts of 234, 225, 223, 241, 254, 191, 207 and 216 for a total of 8,866 points in 40 games.

Basketball

SEATTLE — The Seattle Sonics of the National Basketball Association announced today 6-9 center Bob Rule has been sent to the Philadelphia 76ers for two future draft choices and cash.

Bob Houbregs, Sonics general manager, announced the club will receive a second-round draft choice in 1972 from the 76ers and another second-round pick in 1974.

Rule, a first-round draft choice of the Sonics and the lone remaining member of the original team, suffered a torn achilles tendon last year and has seen little action this season.

Texas A & M Coach Fired After Team Loses Finale

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M football coach Gene Stallings, who endeared himself to Aggie alumni in 1967 by defeating the University of Texas and winning a Southwest Conference title, Thursday lost to the Longhorns and with it his job.

The A&M Board of Directors in a late night meeting at the home of university president Jack Williams voted to relieve Stallings of all athletic responsibilities—including his position as athletic director —effective Dec. 1.

The announcement came within hours after the Texas Longhorns trounced Texas A& M 34-14, preserving a Southwest Conference title and knocking the Aggies out of a trip to the Liberty Bowl.

Stallings' job as head coach had been shakey for some time and his firing was not an unexpected decision. The 36year-old coach had produced only a 27-45-1 record in his seven years at the East Texas university.

"A committee consisting of representatives of the athletic council, administration and board of directors will be formed to begin a search for Stallings' successor," a spokesman for the university said. "Marvin Pate, associate athletic director, has been named acting athletic director."

Stallings declined to meet with newsmen after the meeting but said shortly after the Thanksgiving Day game that he had been promised a lifetime contract by the late university president, Dr. Earl Rudder.

"After we won the championship in '67, president Rudder, who has since died, told me that I did not need a contract on paper. He said 'you can be coach at Texas A&M as long as you want to be'," Stallings said. "My contract was not with Dr. Williams. He wasn't here at the time."

"I have never signed a contract since I've been here," he said. "I feel like I should finish out the contract through next year and renegotiate at that time."

When Stallings was hired in 1964, he was heralded by A&M university officials and alumni as "the perfect type to coach an Aggie team."

He had captained the last undefeated Aggie team in 1956 under coach Bear Bryant.. He then was an assistant coach under Bryant at Alabama.

Stallings' 1967 team upset Texas 10-7, knocking the Longhorns out of the Cotton Bowl. The Aggies then defeated Alabama on New Year's Day in Dallas. It was the first time the Aggies had played in the Cotton Bowl since 1940.

But since the championship year, A&M slipped to an overall 13-29. The Texas loss Thursday was the crusher.

"I don't think I did a poor coaching job," Stallings said. "The only discussion on my contract was with the president last year. He said it was necessary to have a pretty good season this year. I asked 'what is that?' He said he couldn't base it on X-number of games but we would have to be a contender. When you play your last game with a chance to go to a bowl you're contending for something."

Stallings said Thursday afternoon he wasn't worried about his job despite a 5-6 record.

"I do not believe tonight's decision will be negative," he said. "If I, as an Aggie, were going to make the decision tonight, I would have to vote for me. If we had continued as we started at the first of the year, I would have voted against me."

NBA ROUNDUP

Wilt's Rebounding Paces Laker Win

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The 7-foot-2 giant is simply playing the best defense of his career—blocking shots, harassing shooters, making the quick feed off the rebound. In short, he's become the most formidable balihawk in the league.

And with each shot Wilt blocks, with each rebound he catches, with each enemy gunner he intimidates into a poor shot, the Lakers may be moving closer to a happy ending to their frustrating saga as the bridesmaids of the NBA.

The man who once averaged 50.4 points a game was up to his new tricks Thursday night and it produced two felicitous results: a club record 12th straight win—139-115 over Seattle—and a one-game increase in the Lakers' lead over Golden State in the Pacific Division of the Western Conference.

Phoenix dropped Detroit, 122-103 in other games Thursday night.

Chamberlain batted away 10 of the SuperSonics' shots, collected 15 rebounds and scored 17 points as the Lakers led from the time Jerry West connected on a jump shot for the opening score. Los Angeles led by 33 points at one point in the fourth quarter as it ran its record to 18-3.

West, involved in all of the Lakers' seven fruitless attempts at the league championship, paced all scorers with 26 points. Jim McMillian added 21. Spencer Haywood was high for Seattle with 24.

Neal Walk scored 20 points in 24 minutes of playing time to lead Phoenix to its first win this season over an opponent in its own Midwest Division.

The Suns had been 0-6 against division rivals before getting good shooting from Walk, rookie Dennis Layton (21 points) and Paul Silas, (18 points). The Pistons, now tied with Phoenix for third place in the Midwest with a 9-11 mark, were led by Howard Komive's 17 points.

ABA GAMES

Charlie Scott Scores 41 In Virginia Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The 6-foot-6 swingman of the Virginia Squires, the second-place team in the East Division, poured in 41 points Thursday night to spank a 131-118 win over the Pittsburgh Condors.

But the Squires couldn't gain any ground on Kentucky, which had all five starters hit in double figures as the Colonels trounced the New York Nets, 133-117, to retain their three-game lead.

Scott must be feeling frustrated. Wednesday night he popped in 42 points but the Squires absorbed a 120-113 loss to Utah.

Scott did gain the satisfaction, however, of helping halt Virginia's five game losing skid, hitting for 17 of his points in the second quarter as the Squires ran amok with a 43-point effort which broke open a contest that stood at 33-32 after the first quarter. Julius Erving contributed 31 points to a winning effort.

George Thompson's 32 points could not prevent the Condors from taking their third straight loss.

Led by Dan Issel's 34 points, the Kentucky starters totalled 120 points as Artis Gilmore contributed 31, Darel Carrier 29, Cincy Powell 16 and Louie Dampier, 10.

Dampier led a fast-breaking attack that tied the team assist mark of 36. The 6-foot former Kentucky star had 10 of the assists.

Dolphins Swap Stofa To Denver For Draftee

DENVER (UPI)—John Stofa was the Cinderella man of Miami when he first met the Denver Broncos in 1967. Now he's just a quarterback looking for a job and he thinks the Broncos might be the team to give him what he wants.

Miami gave up the 6-foot-3, 210-pound signal caller to Denver for a future draft choice. The Broncos wanted Stofa as a reserve quarterback for young Steve Ramsey, a second year man who moved into the starting position because of injuries to Don Horn.

The first time Stofa came to Denver was in 1967 as a member of the Miami Dolphins. He broke his ankle in the game, a costly injury that deprived him of his starting position and eventually resulted in his being traded to Cincinnati.

Versatile Girl Can Really Hit

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Kendra Samuelson is 13 and batted .500 for a Little League season. Her coach says, "She's one of the best I've ever worked with. She can pitch, play second base and hit the ball 'way out there.' "

When she read that girls don't know anything about baseball, she got most indignant. "Some goofy guy wrote that article. I've never struck out in a baseball game."

Practice And Thought Can Produce Slam Bidding Finding Aces, Kings

With practice and thought, you can learn to bid the kind of slam that depends on aces and kings. The early bidding tells you that the partnership has a count of about 33 points, and then you use your favorite slam-bidding device to find out about the aces and kings. The situation is different when one of the partners has a singleton or void suit since slam is possible if the combined count is less than 30 points — provided there is a good "fit."

Opening lead — ♠ K

LEAPS INTO SLAM

In today's hand, South has 14 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton — almost a minimum opening bid. Nevertheless, it is South who eventually leaps to a slam.

North begins by bidding two diamonds since his hand is a trifle too strong for an immediate jump to three hearts. North plans to "show" his singleton in spades.

South naturally rebids the hearts, and North now makes a key bid: three clubs. This might be simply a club suit, but North has further plans.

COMPLETES STORY

After South shows a preference for diamonds, North completes his story by jumping to four hearts. The jump makes it clear that North is not reluctantly supporting hearts; clearly, North's hearts were good enough for an earlier raise. Why, then, did North take time out to bid his clubs?

INDIRECT MESSAGE

Experts agree that a player who bids three suits, including a jump (or a reverse bid) promises a singleton in the fourth suit. The jump to four hearts suggests a slam if South has the right cards for the kind of hand North has shown.

South would pass if he had K-Q-J of spades, with only low cards in diamonds and clubs. The point count would be the same, but the "fit" would be wrong. In the actual hand, South knows that his two side kings are working cards and that his three low spades are not a threat. He therefore jumps to the slam in hearts.

The defenders can take the first trick, but then South gains the lead, draws trumps and runs the diamonds to make 12 easy tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 10 9 6 2
♥ - 6 3
♦ - 9 8
♣ - Q 10 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. You cannot afford a stronger bid despite the excellent trump support for spades.

'Burglar' Caused Hubby's Lockout

CAIRO (UPI)—When Mohammed Sidky returned from early morning prayers he found himself locked out of his home.

His wife had stacked all the dining room furniture against the door because, she said, she was afraid of burglars.

Sidky believed her until he heard a noise in the bedroom and found a naked man —his wife's lover—in the cupboard.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Microwave: What Is It All About?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please tell me what is Microwave and the nature of its business? — J.B.

A. Microwave Assoc. (AMEX) is engaged primarily in the design and manufacture of highly specialized components for microwave equipment used in radar and telecommunications systems. Government business, direct and indirect, accounts for roughly 66 per cent of the firm's domestic volume. Sales of components and related subassemblies contribute about 80 per cent of revenues with solid state microwave transmitters and receivers making up the remainder.

Microwave's equipment line is used in the common carrier, instructional television field and broadcast industry for various communications purposes. Although these areas have had their ups and downs in recent years, the total market for Microwave's nondefense communications systems is growing at a rapid pace. Markets which now seem to be coming into their own and which augur well for the company's future growth include: all solid-state television relay equipment for broadcasting and a complete helicopter-borne television system developed by Microwave for use by urban police departments for traffic and riot control. The firm also is gaining entry into the indoor surveillance market with a system for check verification and surveillance in banks. Stock is presently selling at about 24x 1971's estimated net.

Q. What would you recommend as regards to the General Telephone & Elec. (NYSE) plan for reinvesting dividends? I have 250 shares. — O.J.

A. The answer to your question hinges on whether you are building a portfolio or using the dividends for income. If the former is your aim, then dividend reinvestment is a painless means to your investment end.

Based on the current price and dividend rate, you could increase your holdings to 263 shares in one year and to 277 shares in two years. Obviously dividend and price cannot be expected to stay level, but the resulting share holdings won't be too far off.

A Better Showing By The Market

Shortly before the noon hour, the Dow Jones industrial average had rolled up a gain of more than 7 points to 805.64. Volume, however, was around 4-million shares, well off from the average figure for the period.

Of the 1,325 issues traded, there were 693 advances and 321 declines. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a gain of 0.38 to 90.71.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange gained on moderate volume. There were 371 advances against 207 declines of the 790 issues on the tape.

Active Amex issues included Amco Industries, off 1-4 to 8 7-8 on 30,700 shares, and McCulloch Oil, unchanged at 24 7-8 on 19,900 shares.

The rise on the Big Board was led by the electronics and glamors, with IBM, Polaroid and Xerox jumping at least 2 points apiece. Burroughs added 1 5-8, Motorola 1 3-8 and Walt Disney 1 5-8. Pigh-priced Corning Glass slipped 1 3-4.
